HIGH SCHOOL TAX DECREASE IN 1961

Suburban Farmer Is Bitter over Flooding

STANLEY C. PTAK tries to salvage vegetables from his flooded acre farm behind house at 1338 N. Dunton. Development of area is forcing Ptak, his wife, and 11 children to change their way of life.

Stanley Ptak, suburban farmer, father of 11 children, and a man who has a fierce love for his land, stood knee deep in water this week behind his home at 1338 N. Dunton, shaking his head over his ruined crop.

The 44-year-old Ptak, who commenced a running battle last spring with the village and a subdivider over an attempt to run a street and utilities through his acre farm, choked with bitterness as he explained his troubles.

"They couldn't buy me out, so they're trying to flood me out!" he exclaimed.

PTAK POINTED to the water draining from Vail st., dead-ended at his property, onto his acreage and swirling around his vegetables. "Twenty-five per cent of my crops are ruined. This is my third planting of beets and we haven't got beets yet," he said, as he flung a ruined plant aside.

"We've had a little standing water in the past after a hard rain, but nothing like this. It's the storm sewer that's pouring the water on my property," he said.

The storm sewer was put in with Vail st. up to Ptak's property where it ends. Ptak has refused to grant an easement for the sewer across his land.

THE BUILDER, Carroll-McHugh, went to the village board last March and offered to pay for the cost of condemnation and the land if the village would condemn a 66 ft. strip through the middle of Ptak's property. They also agreed to put in surface improvements.

In return the builder would be granted an easement for utilities, necessary for homes they are building in the area. The village accepted the offer.

Condemnation proceedings were not commenced by the village, however, and the builder, tired of waiting, decided to run his utilities around the Ptak property.

Village Engineer Norman Toberman notes that the storm sewer ending at Ptak's property should be routed around his land in about a month.

TOBERMAN SAYS, however, that Ptak, who feeds his family of 13 off of his land, will continue to have a flood problem.

"His land is in a low spot and the development of the area has increased the runoff onto his property seven times."

"Even if we blocked the sewer, the water would come down Vail and pour onto his property. It's really nobody's fault. Growth and development of the area are responsible," says Toberman.

Builder Bill Carroll admits the grade surrounding Ptak's land has been raised, but says it was done to conform with village regulations.

REGARDLESS of how it happened, Ptak is a bitter man. "I could have bought shoes for my kids with the money I had to spend on an extra cultivator to break up the clods formed by the flood," he said.

"Don't the little people count anymore? Why didn't they go ahead and condemn my property? We have a lawyer and are ready to go to court and get the matter settled," he said.

Parents to Be Urged: Feed Pupils at Home

A strong appeal to parents of elementary school children to have their offspring come home for noon lunch will be made this fall by Arlington Heights school district 25 officials.

School board members, following Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh's suggestion, have authorized principals, with the approval of the superintendent, to "take necessary steps to prohibit children's staying at the schools unnecessarily during the noon hour."

The board's policy on the matter formerly read, "..in K-5 schools, the decision regarding a child's staying at school during the lunch period shall be the parent's."

CLABAUGH noted he recommended the change "quite reluctantly." His decision was necessary, he pointed out, because of "the large numbers staying, the law requiring that every teacher have 30 minutes (at least) free time every day during the noon hour, and our inability to solve this problem by appeals to parents.."

The superintendent noted that two noon shifts were necessary at Windsor because the number of students bringing their lunch couldn't be accomodated at one sitting.

"Some mothers argue that in cold weather it's best for their children not to come home, but they don't realize that in most instances the children don't remain indoors during the entire lunch period," said Clabaugh.

THE superintendent told board members there would no doubt be instances where a child could not go home for lunch, such as one whose mother works.

A statement of the board's new policy will be included in the 1960-61 Elementary School Handbook. Clabaugh noted the statement would likely include an authorization to school principals to establish distances within which children will be expected to return home for noon lunch unless other arrangements are made with the principal.

The new policy does not apply to the district's two junior high schools, both of which conduct hot lunch programs.

IN FACT, board members are trying to think of ways to get more students to buy a hot lunch to keep the program out of the red.

The cafeteria program wound up with a slight deficit at the end of the last school year. As a result, the hot lunch price has been increased from 35 to 40 cents and a one-third quart of milk will cost three cents instead of two.

Hearing Scheduled On Budget

Tax bills will be lower next year for residents of high school district 214.

Announcement of the decrease was made by the school board Monday night. The bills to be paid in 1961 will be lower by 2.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

John Schaff, business manager, said 214 is the only school district in the northwest area to show a drop in its tax rate, which he attributed to the board's "rigid economy" and higher assessed valuations.

THE DECREASE is reflected in the education tax fund levy, which will drop from 91.5 cents this year to 89 cents. No change is proposed in the building fund rate of 17.4 cents, and little change is expected in the bond payment rate.

William H. Spomer, board secretary, noted that the past fiscal year was the first since the district's formation in 1913 in which the board did not issue tax anticipation warrants. "Although it's a tight budget, without emergencies we should be able to live within it," he said.

The district's proposed tax levy for 1961 is $3,091,000 — an increase of $1,441,000 over this year. Schaff credited the increase to proportionate increases in student enrollment.

THE LEVY is based on an estimated assessed valuation of $290 million in 1961. Current valuation is $265,937,553 compared with $200,342,651 last year.

The district's 1960-61 budget calls for a total $3,361,850 with state aid and a carry over balance from this year making up most of the difference between the proposed budget and the proposed tax levy.

The budget designates $2,824,450 for the education fund and $537,400 for the building fund. More than half the budget — $1,961,150 — is for teachers' salaries. The district plans to hire an additional 20 teachers during 1961-62.

Other budget items include: $174,000 in office salaries; $168,000 for bus transportation; $165,000 in custodian salaries; $100,000 for educational equipment; and $210,000 for building improvements.

Schaff noted that much of the building fund is designated for the new Forest View high school. Construction is scheduled to start soon.

PROSPECT HIGH school is slated for several building improvements, including new athletic facilities, a physics laboratory, and office practice machines.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled August 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the board conference room of Arlington high school. Copies of the budget are available for public inspection in the business office at Arlington high school.

District 214 includes Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, and portions of Rolling Meadows.

Priest Will Observe His 100th Birthday

A Viatorian priest whose mother once remarked she never thought her delicate son would live to see his seventeenth birthday will observe his 100th year on this planet Saturday, July 30, at Our Lady of Arlington, 1212 E. Euclid.

The Rev. Thomas J. McCormick, C.S.V., the oldest Viatorian in the world and possibly the oldest priest in the United States, attributes his longevity to the Lord.

"However," he notes, "I may have helped through moderation and regular exercise."

KNOWN AS A great walker, Father McCormick used to walk up to four miles a day until a couple of years ago. He once walked from Streater to LaSalle, a distance of 20 miles.

A light eater, Father McCormick is said by his intimates to have never had what people would consider a full meal.

In excellent health, the centenarian confounds people by removing his glasses when he reads the newspaper, which he does daily. He also listens to the radio and has been following the political conventions.

HE RECALLS as a big moment in his life the first presidential election in which he voted. It was 1884, and while Father McCormick can't recall the candidates (Grover Cleveland vs. James G. Blaine), he remembers he was challenged at the polls.

"They couldn't believe I was old enough to vote, and made me bring my father in to testify that I was 24 years old," recalls the priest.

Father McCormick was born in Manchester, New Hampshire in 1860, a few months before the Civil War began. His pioneer parents moved to LaSalle, Ill. when the youth was seven years old, and there raised a family of eight children.

He entered the Clerics of St. Viator in 1886, and after completing his collegiate and theological studies, was ordained to the priesthood in 1894 by Archbishop Katzer in Milwaukee.

IN HIS CAREER as a priest, Father McCormick was college professor of English, director of the old Holy Name School, Chicago, and pastor of St. Viator parish, Chicago.

In 1899, he founded St. Edward's parish, Sunnyside ave., on Chicago's northwest side. He later did missionary work in Oregon and South Dakota.

He has held several administrative offices in the Viatorian community including posts of treasurer, councilor, and delegate to the general chapters of the Order.

For 14 years prior to his retirement, Father McCormick was chaplain to the Ephpheta school for the deaf, then located at Belmont and Crawford ave.

ON TUESDAY, August 2, the Viatorians will have a family gathering to offer a Mass of Thanksgiving in Father McCormick's honor. The Very Rev. John Stafford, C.S.V., provincial, will be the celebrant, assisted by two of the youngest Viatorian priests as deacon and subdeacon, Rev. Robert Foster, C.S.V., and Rev. Donald Fitzsimmons, C.S.V.

After a buffet luncheon, the Viatorians will hold their annual Provincial Chapter Meeting.

TICKETS FOR the benefit are being offered on donation, tax deductible basis for $5 $10 and $25. They are available from the following men: Robert Bukowski, Edward G. Carlisle, Charles Close, Fred Jasper, Nicholas Lattof, Richard Lavers, Byron Sayre, Earl K. Riley and Robert Stauber.

Good Humor Is Tested by Dog

A Good Humor Man had his jocularity tested last week by an Arlington Heights dog.

Receiving a complaint that a dog was trying to bite the man, police arrived on the scene to have the animal's owner explain that the dog wouldn't bite anyone. "He just likes to pretend," explained the owner.

Have you seen one of those buttons being worn by Republican women that read, "Pat for First Lady?"

The manufacturer of the buttons told us Sunday that the demand is so great he is postponing his vacation a month.

Having met Pat, we want to say that the button does not do her justice as a candidate for "America's First Lady."

We are watching the convention from our easy chair. Our ticket would have had a companion, however, in a ticket to the Chicago Republican convention of 1920 which we have cherished among our mementos since it was given to us by A. F. Volz many years ago.

Hearing August 3 On Railway Park

A hearing on a Standard Oil co. proposal to rezone a railway park in downtown Arlington Heights for a $150,000 prestige type service station-car wash will be held Wednesday, Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

The village plan commission will consider a petition to rezone the park on the southwest corner of Vail and Northwest hwy. from B-1 (limited retail business) to M-1 (industrial). The latter classification is required for an automatic car wash.

AN OFFICIAL of the Chicago and North Western railway told Paddock Publications that Standard Oil has a 20 year lease on the parcel. Village officials, however, still have hopes of acquiring the parks on the north side of the tracks for parking purposes through the sale of revenue bonds.

Village acquisition of the northside parks and the one across from the village hall is part of a downtown property owner's plan for redevelopment of the village's southside shopping facilities.

We would have enjoyed using a ticket to the Republican convention this week, but we have sent one of our younger editors in our place.

We are watching the convention from our easy chair. Our ticket would have had a companion, however, in a ticket to the Chicago Republican convention of 1920 which we have cherished among our mementos since it was given to us by A. F. Volz many years ago.

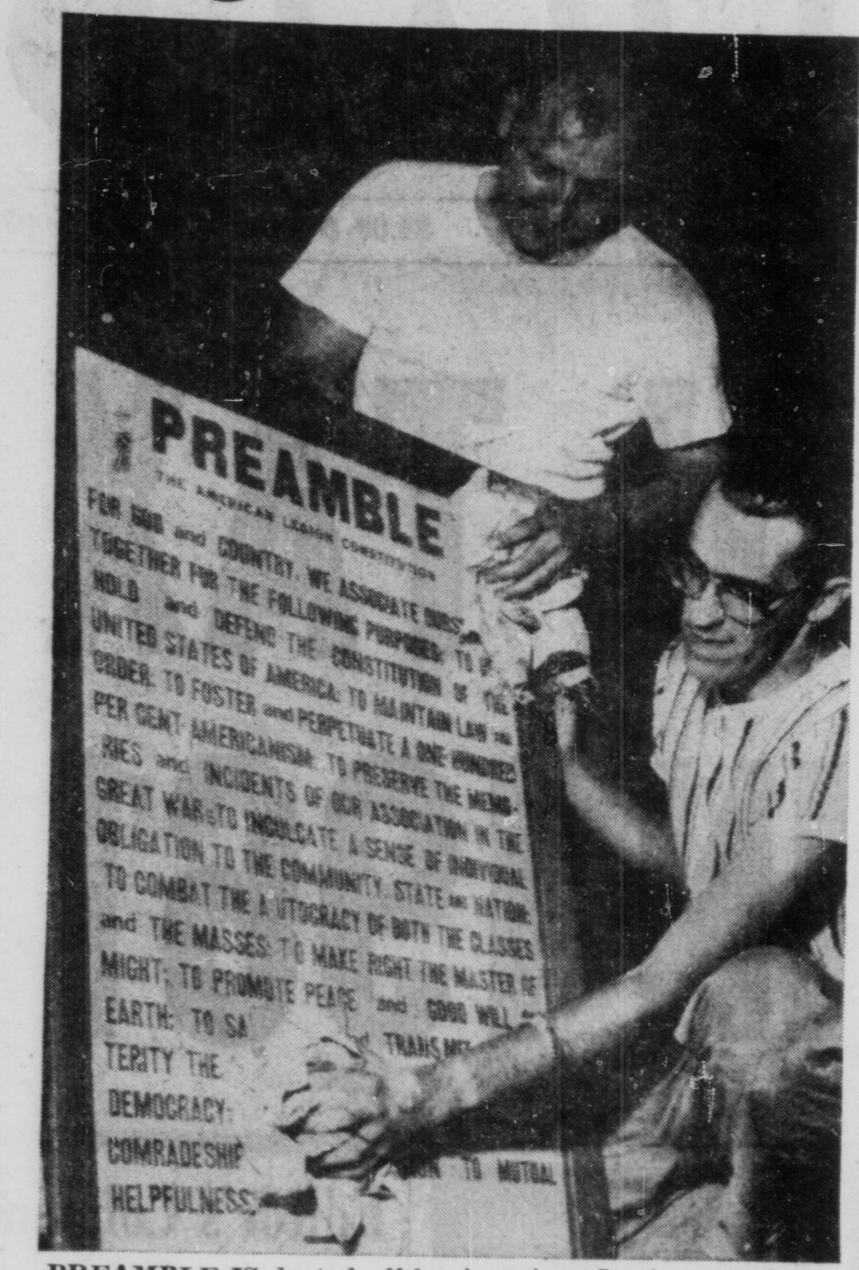
A Proud Post Rallies

Legionnaires Rush Expansion Program



PREAMBLE IS dusted off by American Legion members Don Wheeler and Bill Green in preparation for reopening and modernized legion hall at corner of Miner and Douglas streets. Commander Green will be succeeded in August by Wheeler. (AF

(This is the first in a series of articles on Arlington Heights organizations. The articles will discuss who belongs, services performed, history, and future plans).

A year ago the noise coming from the rundown building at the corner of Douglas and Miner sts. in Arlington Heights was a death rattle. Today it's the noise of hammers and saws as members of American Legion Merle Guild Post 208 work late into the night putting their once proud post back on its feet.

Over 25 members, few of them tradesmen, work three nights a week and Saturday wielding paint brushes, cutting shelves, laying tile, and tackling other jobs to rush their $32,000 expansion program to completion.

Construction increasing the size of the hall to three times its present 1,900 sq. ft. is complete, and the interior work is scheduled to be finished by September 1.

THE BUILDING program is the first step in the post's campaign to bring its membership up to 250 by the summer of 1961. Present members total 103.

Established in 1919 as Arlington Heights post, the group was renamed the Merle Guild post in 1923. Guild was the first World War I veteran from Arlington Heights to die after the war. He is buried in the Arlington Heights cemetery on E. Euclid.

Between the wars the post prospered, winning trophies with its drum and bugle corps, and capturing the ninth district junior legion baseball championship.

IN 1953, membership reached an all time high of 170. Then it started down, hitting bottom in 1958 when the post numbered only 83 members, 30 of those from World War I.

"We knew for several years our building needed enlarging and modernizing, but everybody just sat around talking and nothing was done," says Bill Green, retiring commander of the post.

Steadily decreasing membership finally spurred members to undertake their building program. When completed the main hall will seat over 200. The building will also feature a separate bar, modern kitchen, card room, and a lounge with a fireplace.

While the post's main concern is with veterans, to be a member one must have served with the armed forces during wartime and received an honorable discharge, it also performs many community services.

THE POST sponsors Boy's State, a program that enables high school boys and girls to travel to Springfield and participate in government.

One of the legion's more spectacular projects is the annual Fourth of July fireworks display, costing over $1,200. The Independence Day parade is organized by legionnaires who also cooperate with the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Memorial Day parade.

As part of its renewed activity, the post arranged to have the 1961 state finals of the junior legion baseball tournament held in Arlington Heights. The post also sponsors a team.

A constant activity of members is visiting and holding parties for veterans in hospitals throughout the area. They are assisted in this program by the 42 members of the Women's Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Leonard Weidner.

THE WOMEN spend thousands of hours yearly at 13 hospitals, entertaining, writing letters, and making veterans as comfortable as possible. They also participate in various community fund drives.

Mothers, sisters, or wives of veterans may belong to the auxiliary.

A junior auxiliary branch was established last year and numbers 12 girls. Their primary work is making tray favors for veterans. (AF

Four Attend Church Meet

The first general Sunday school teachers convention of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod was attended last week by Mrs. R. O. Bartz and Mrs. Ralph Meyer of St. Peter Lutheran and Rev. and Mrs. Edgar Behrens of Faith Lutheran.

These Arlington Heights representatives were among the 2,600 Sunday school teachers from the United States and Canada attending the three day session in St Louis.

GEORGE HARRIS

Mind you, I'm not trying to prescribe for you, as I am not qualified to do that, but in this hectic, frantic world we sometimes have a tendency to push ourselves just a little too hard. In doing this we find that our nervous system gets out of kilter and that we bark at each other. In general, we just don't feel good.

I'm not saying that we can just lay around the house and not work, but I do know that all of us can take better care of ourselves. I sometimes ask myself, "Why all this hustle and bustle, why do we try and beat each other's brains out?" Frankly, friends, there is no answer to this. It just does not make sense. If we all slowed down just a little bit, then I'm certain that we could treat our fellow man a little better and, naturally, we would feel better. No, I'm not trying to prescribe for you, but it is just an idea that might make this world a better place in which to live.

This may not remove that ulcer, Dad, but it will make it easier to live with. Give it some thought, huh?

A village paper boy reported two large bucks romping through Arlington Market at 6:50 a.m. Sunday.

Unbelieving police soon became convinced when they spied the antlered beasts swinging around the market.

OFFICERS couldn't get close enough to take a picture. The deer were last seen heading north on Douglas st.

Later in the day a call came in that a man cutting his grass at 521 S. Phelps had spotted two skunks in a window well.

Police confirmed the report, but not wanting to become better acquainted with the pair slid a board into the well, hoping the skunks would climb out. They were gone the next morning. (AF

Subnrnanites Discover Scuba Diving

Silent World Attracts Fans

Porpoise Club Members Seek Underwater Thrill

by DICK HOFFMANN

> "Delivered from gravity and buoyancy I flew around in space."
> —Jacques Cousteau, "The Silent World"

The silent world is cool, slow-motioned and larger than life; it combines visual elements of surrealism with the stark quiet of a monastic retreat. Its disciples are dedicated, and it is drawing more to its depths each year; it has become a recreational opiate for the masses and millionaire alike.

For the silent world is the special province of the Scuba ("Self-contained underwater breathing apparatus") diver, the skindiver whose aqualung has carried him to new frontiers. Unlike the bonafide skindiver, who skims the water's surface breathing through a cane-crooked rubber snorkel and is limited in underwater research to the length of time he can hold his breath, the Scuba diver, with his hour's reserve of air in a tank has achieved a freedom of new dimensions in his underwater element.

THE SCUBA diver; he's defeated gravity. Above, Frost bursts out of the water. He is wearing a "wet" suit which sponges up water that is warmed by a person's body temperature.

SCUBA diving represents a logical extention of thought proceeding from skindiving; it is the one activity in which man has been able so far to loosen the bonds of gravity.

Across the nation, in Illinois and throughout the northwest suburbs this summer, legions of the faithful were loading compressed air tanks, flippers, face masks, depth gauges, and underwater cameras in station wagons and car trunks for treks to the looking glass waters of Florida or the rocky cribs of Lake Geneva, Wis.

The appropriately titled "Porpoise club," whose member ship represents such suburbs as Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Elk Grove, and Des Plaines, is typical of over 100 clubs which have made an appearance in Illinois. Throughout the U. S., skindivers number an estimated 1,000,000.

In clubs or pairs, their weekends have become occasion for investigating fish and fauna in clear water lakes within an hour's drive of here. From motor-powered diving platforms, rowboats, and inner tubes they plunge to depths of 50 to 60 feet or more, their only link to those who keep watch on the surface the discharge of escaping air bubbles.

The Porpoise club includes draftsmen, salesmen, municipal officials; all are 21 years of age or over, and only four are bachelors. A whale among them is Robert Eppley, Palatine village manager, who ranks as club patriarch at 39. A Bunyan of a man (6'3', 255 lbs.), Eppley's bulk is no deterrent to slipping through the water with an economy of effort as a second cousin to a fish.

BILL FROST, Jr., Scuba diver and life guard at Pioneer Park, shows depth gauge to Judy Keppen (left), 19, of 32 S. Mitchell, and Sue Anderson, 18, of 923 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, who are also life guards at the park pool.

His ponderous air tank and other equipment - which lends to the appearance of a misshapen man from outer space - are transformed into weightless accessories. Below the surface, the Scuba or "free" diver becomes an accomplished acrobat, for the compressed air in his tanks equalizes the water pressure so that he experiences the feeling of floating through space.

A short distance down, the water's surface looks like a glazed glass table top with the sun shimmering on it. The face mask the skin diver wears magnifies objects underwater to the extent that a pike may look more like a shark. The only sounds which reach you are the exploding discharge of air bubbles or the distant whir of a passing motor boat.

THERE IS a twilight zone divers reach, however, where there is no up or down in a strange new environment, Gene Schiavone of Des Plaines, the club's secretary-treasurer says. For this reason, the wrist compass and depth gauge are necessary companions to the diver going to any depth.

But if Scuba diving provides a narcotic release from the traumas of the treadmill, like drugs it can be dangerous if not used wisely. There is what Eppley describes as the "Rapture of the Deep":

"At extreme depths, the diver feels like he's drunk. He may want to pass the mouthpiece of his regulator to a passing fish." This is nitrogen narcosis. - a physiological reaction to the pressures of the deep which makes a man feel like a god - according to the ascetic dean of divers and author of "The Silent World," Cousteau, the inventor of the aqualung.

ANOTHER danger, relates Bill Frost Jr., an Arlington Heights diver and life guard at Pioneer Park, is the ascent to the surface. "If you go to 100 feet, you have to make decompression stops for a minute every 25 feet, he warns. Otherwise, nitrogen released in the blood stream would react like a bottle of soda pop being opened and the diver "could rupture his insides," explains Frost, who has plunged to the eerie depth of 180 feet.

For these reasons and other unforeseen occurrences, the Porpoises and Frost's club, the "Tridons," favor the "buddy system" of diving in pairs. The Porpoises add the precaution of stationing a man in a rowboat over members underwater.

Frost has parlayed his interest in Scuba diving into profits by ($200 last summer) operating an underwater recovery service, retrieving mostly sunken outboard motors. Two Porpoise members, Don "Skip" Walter, head of the Palatine water department, and Lou Persino of Franklin Park, assisted in the Lake Michigan search for the body of Federal Judge Lynn Parkinson last November.

THE PORPOISES, who are on call for emergency Civil Defense work, have two underwater scooters at their disposal. They are presently constructing an underwater communications system and a metal detector for locating lost objects. The detector "beeps" like a geiger counter or mine sweeper, members testify.

The self-propelled scooters are the "everything-but-the-kitchen-sink" variety, having been pieced together from hot water tanks, car starters and aircraft batteries.

Annoying to some skindivers is the pressure exerted on the ears. Swallowing will usually overcome this, but ear plugs are forbidden; the water pressure would drive the plugs into the inner ear.

Spear fishing is not practiced to any great extent since Illinois laws make it illegal to impale game fish. Some divers, however, do stalk the scavengers, e.g., Buffalo carp, catfish.

TO BE COUNTED among the skindiver's natural enemies in inland lakes are speedboats trespassing in diver areas, defined by a red flag with white stripe which the divers fly. "Some of them even cruise by and pick off the flags," a Porpoise groused.

The divers also speak with studied contempt of the water skier who is confined to the water's surface, while the helmet diver has been called "a cripple in an alien land."

For these viewers of Davy Jones' wonderous lockers - these "Menfish" - have defeated gravity and achieved a freedom of which the land locked can only dream.

Subnrnanites Discover Scuba Diving

Porpoise Club Members Seek Underwater Thrill

by DICK HOFFMANN

> "Delivered from gravity and buoyancy I flew around in space."
> —Jacques Cousteau, "The Silent World"

The silent world is cool, slow-motioned and larger than life; it combines visual elements of surrealism with the stark quiet of a monastic retreat. Its disciples are dedicated, and it is drawing more to its depths each year; it has become a recreational opiate for the masses and millionaire alike.

For the silent world is the special province of the Scuba ("Self-contained underwater breathing apparatus") diver, the skindiver whose aqualung has carried him to new frontiers. Unlike the bonafide skindiver, who skims the water's surface breathing through a cane-crooked rubber snorkel and is limited in underwater research to the length of time he can hold his breath, the Scuba diver, with his hour's reserve of air in a tank has achieved a freedom of new dimensions in his underwater element.

THE SCUBA diver; he's defeated gravity. Above, Frost bursts out of the water. He is wearing a "wet" suit which sponges up water that is warmed by a person's body temperature.

SCUBA diving represents a logical extention of thought proceeding from skindiving; it is the one activity in which man has been able so far to loosen the bonds of gravity.

Across the nation, in Illinois and throughout the northwest suburbs this summer, legions of the faithful were loading compressed air tanks, flippers, face masks, depth gauges, and underwater cameras in station wagons and car trunks for treks to the looking glass waters of Florida or the rocky cribs of Lake Geneva, Wis.

The appropriately titled "Porpoise club," whose member ship represents such suburbs as Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Elk Grove, and Des Plaines, is typical of over 100 clubs which have made an appearance in Illinois. Throughout the U. S., skindivers number an estimated 1,000,000.

In clubs or pairs, their weekends have become occasion for investigating fish and fauna in clear water lakes within an hour's drive of here. From motor-powered diving platforms, rowboats, and inner tubes they plunge to depths of 50 to 60 feet or more, their only link to those who keep watch on the surface the discharge of escaping air bubbles.

The Porpoise club includes draftsmen, salesmen, municipal officials; all are 21 years of age or over, and only four are bachelors. A whale among them is Robert Eppley, Palatine village manager, who ranks as club patriarch at 39. A Bunyan of a man (6'3', 255 lbs.), Eppley's bulk is no deterrent to slipping through the water with an economy of effort as a second cousin to a fish.

BILL FROST, Jr., Scuba diver and life guard at Pioneer Park, shows depth gauge to Judy Keppen (left), 19, of 32 S. Mitchell, and Sue Anderson, 18, of 923 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, who are also life guards at the park pool.

His ponderous air tank and other equipment - which lends to the appearance of a misshapen man from outer space - are transformed into weightless accessories. Below the surface, the Scuba or "free" diver becomes an accomplished acrobat, for the compressed air in his tanks equalizes the water pressure so that he experiences the feeling of floating through space.

A short distance down, the water's surface looks like a glazed glass table top with the sun shimmering on it. The face mask the skin diver wears magnifies objects underwater to the extent that a pike may look more like a shark. The only sounds which reach you are the exploding discharge of air bubbles or the distant whir of a passing motor boat.

THERE IS a twilight zone divers reach, however, where there is no up or down in a strange new environment, Gene Schiavone of Des Plaines, the club's secretary-treasurer says. For this reason, the wrist compass and depth gauge are necessary companions to the diver going to any depth.

But if Scuba diving provides a narcotic release from the traumas of the treadmill, like drugs it can be dangerous if not used wisely. There is what Eppley describes as the "Rapture of the Deep":

"At extreme depths, the diver feels like he's drunk. He may want to pass the mouthpiece of his regulator to a passing fish." This is nitrogen narcosis. - a physiological reaction to the pressures of the deep which makes a man feel like a god - according to the ascetic dean of divers and author of "The Silent World," Cousteau, the inventor of the aqualung.

ANOTHER danger, relates Bill Frost Jr., an Arlington Heights diver and life guard at Pioneer Park, is the ascent to the surface. "If you go to 100 feet, you have to make decompression stops for a minute every 25 feet, he warns. Otherwise, nitrogen released in the blood stream would react like a bottle of soda pop being opened and the diver "could rupture his insides," explains Frost, who has plunged to the eerie depth of 180 feet.

For these reasons and other unforeseen occurrences, the Porpoises and Frost's club, the "Tridons," favor the "buddy system" of diving in pairs. The Porpoises add the precaution of stationing a man in a rowboat over members underwater.

Frost has parlayed his interest in Scuba diving into profits by ($200 last summer) operating an underwater recovery service, retrieving mostly sunken outboard motors. Two Porpoise members, Don "Skip" Walter, head of the Palatine water department, and Lou Persino of Franklin Park, assisted in the Lake Michigan search for the body of Federal Judge Lynn Parkinson last November.

THE PORPOISES, who are on call for emergency Civil Defense work, have two underwater scooters at their disposal. They are presently constructing an underwater communications system and a metal detector for locating lost objects. The detector "beeps" like a geiger counter or mine sweeper, members testify.

The self-propelled scooters are the "everything-but-the-kitchen-sink" variety, having been pieced together from hot water tanks, car starters and aircraft batteries.

Annoying to some skindivers is the pressure exerted on the ears. Swallowing will usually overcome this, but ear plugs are forbidden; the water pressure would drive the plugs into the inner ear.

Spear fishing is not practiced to any great extent since Illinois laws make it illegal to impale game fish. Some divers, however, do stalk the scavengers, e.g., Buffalo carp, catfish.

TO BE COUNTED among the skindiver's natural enemies in inland lakes are speedboats trespassing in diver areas, defined by a red flag with white stripe which the divers fly: "Some of them even cruise by and pick off the flags," a Porpoise groused.

The divers also speak with studied contempt of the water skier who is confined to the water's surface, while the helmet diver has been called "a cripple in an alien land."

For these viewers of Davy Jones' wonderous lockers - these "Menfish" - have defeated gravity and achieved a freedom of which the land locked can only dream.

Traveling Teenager Lives With Typical Berlin Family

by NATALIE McKENZIE

(Third in a Series)

Nothing can make you feel more at home in a strange country than staying with a family with the same name.

That's what happened this spring to Marie Martin, Mount Prospect, who spent two weeks in Berlin with the Martin family.

"It was the most like an American family I had seen during our whole trip," Marie said. "There were two daughters just like my family here." (Marie has a younger sister, Lynn.)

While the German Martin's were making Marie feel at home, she explored their city and traveled extensively between West and East Berlin. "We never had any trouble going from West to East or back," Marie recalls. "I even sent postcards from East Berlin to see if they'd get here. They did. A little slower than from other places, but they arrived."

"The difference between the two cities is amazing," according to Marie. "All you can say after a visit there is the old liche, war is horrible."

THE RAVAGE and waste of war was most vivid to the teen-age traveler in East Berlin. East and West still display jagged buildings and pocked walls. However, East Berliners live with piles of rubble. "Unter der linden" is almost ridiculous today, in East Berlin, void of old beautiful trees.

Marie compared East Berlin to a small city she visited with her group of 21 high school students in Cambodia. The city there is Ankorwat, burial place of kings.

"Ankorwat is like a shel; Berlin like a skeleton. Both are dead cities. But Berlin is barren. Dust bounces from one side of the street against brick buildings on the other side and back again. Rubble is usually piled out of sight. There is little beauty.

"Ankorwat is like a shell still is a city of grace. It has a mystical quality and charm that the skeletal East Berlin fails to attain. A torchlight procession we viewed in Ankorwat enhanced the mystical quality of the town."

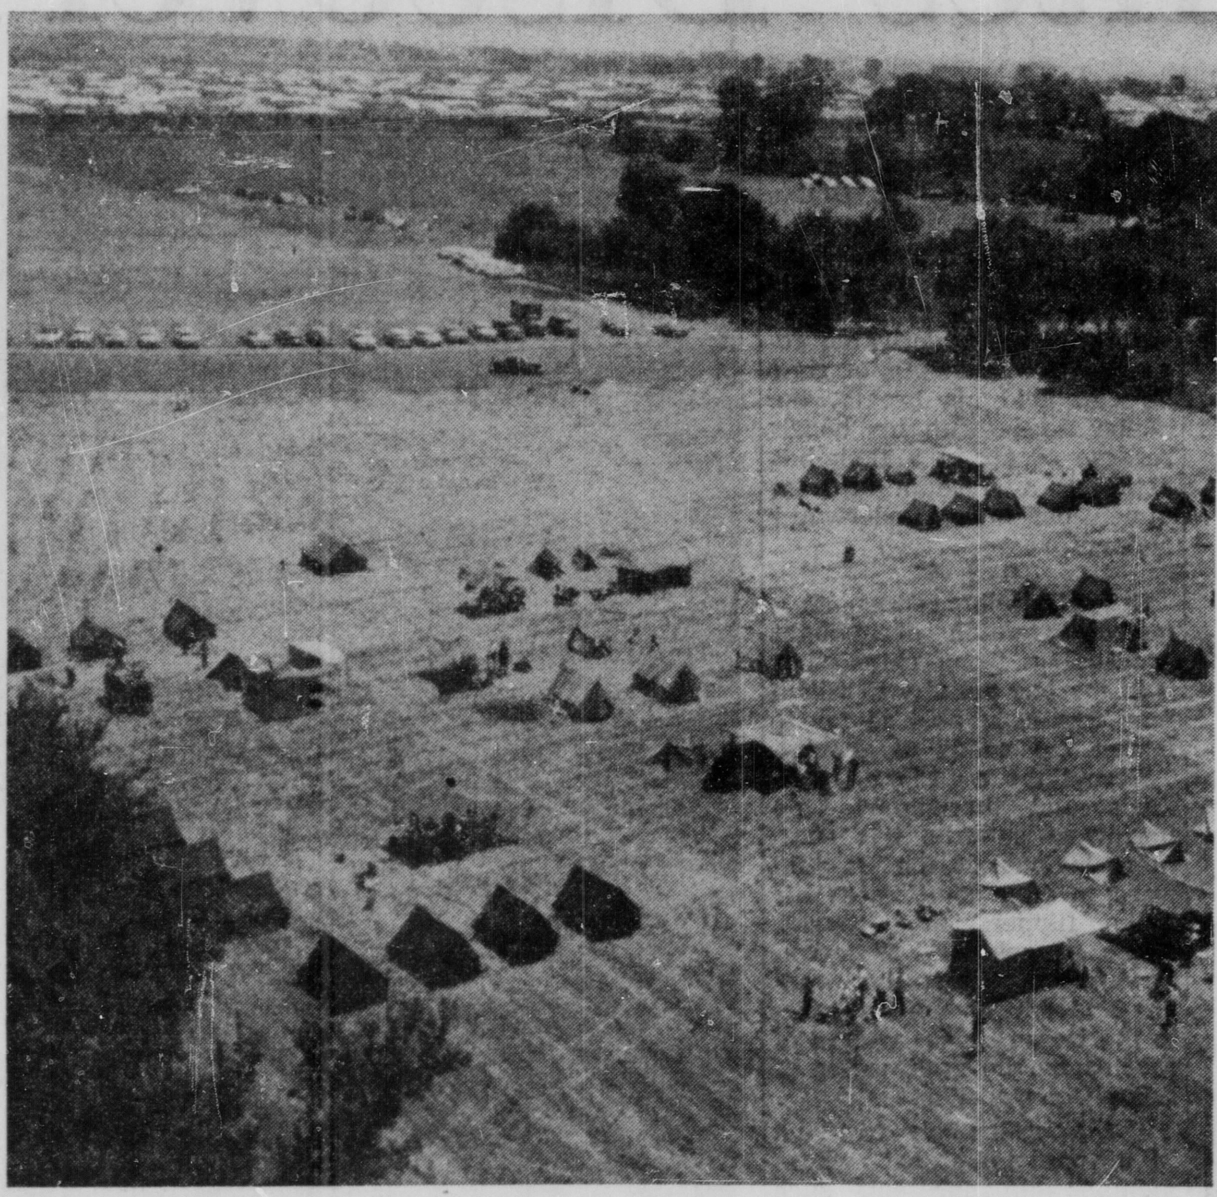
THE OTHER highlight of Germany for the students in the nine-month tour, sponsored by the North Central association of Colleges and Secondary schools, was attending the Nuremburg trails.



OVER 1,100 BOY SCOUTS filled the Ned Brown forest preserve near Elk Grove Village over the weekend as they celebrated scouting's 50th anniversary. Scouts from all the northwest suburbs took part in the camp out. This picture, taken from a helicopter, shows a small proportion of the scouts that participated in the camp out. (B8

"We could only understand the pictures shown since all testimony was in German. The pictures only made the horrors of war more vivid. We saw them ceaning out concentration camps, carting away piles of bones. We saw pictures of survivors. How they survived is beyond me," Marie said. "They were gaunt, emaciated, ghastly.,,

After a short stop in Frankfurt, the group moved on to Paris. And this is where Marie's story telling bogged down. "I can't describe the charm the city had for me. I was free to wander, and I followed my newly acquired favorite pastime of getting lost and walking the streets."

TRUE OF ANY traveler abroad, 18-year-old Marie finds it hard to convey to others the special feeling she got from Paris. The wonder of viewing the city from a tower of Notre Dame cathedral. The view she saw, but cannot picture from another, of the spotless towers of the Cathedral of Sacre Coeur rising in the distance. The towers that were bathed in cloudy sunlight, overwhelming the slate roofs of the City of Light.

Marie's home in the enchanted town was half family, family rented rooms in their pension-home to tourists.

Part of Marie's enjoyment of Paris came from being able to understand some of the language. A Latin student at Arlington high school, she got her first taste of French on the tour. After seven months she admitted her vocabulary was not extensive and her speaking facility not great.

"But I could sit in restaurants and pick up a feeling of the people and snatches of their ideas," she said.

Part of Marie's stay in France was spent in the valley of the Loire in a private home. A home where persons were most skeptical of Americans. She and another girl on the tour had been invited to spend their four-day Easter holiday with a Professor's family. Together, she and her friend tried to show that Americans are not so odious as foreigners might deduce from movies or unseemly acting tourists.

SHE WAS ALSO introduced to the delicacy of wine with meals. She found the Loire valley wine particularly enticing since it was homemade.

Her stay in France was also a time of intense study because final exams were coming up in London. The end of the tour was in sight.

Marie didn't want it to end. The enterprising young lady set out to find herself a summer job in Paris. Au Pere children's home was her choice. But working out details of a summer job had to be sandwiched between studies and field trips. She only had three weeks in Paris.

The provision was that she could stay if the job were sewed up by the time the group left for London. She left Paris, the city of night club and artist; the city of grand cathedral, magnificent boulevard, and twisted street without a job. When she got to London, the job came through. It was too late. Elderly Finds Happiness, Contentment in New Home

by JACK MARTIN

Some 120 Arlington Heights residents call 800 W. Oakton their "home."

The Lutheran Home for the Aged is not an institution. It is a new address for its residents, who range in age from 61 to 96, averaging 87.

The three-story brick building and spacious grounds form the home environment for a portion of an age group which is a source of great concern to the American people.

As life expectancy continues to be extended and the number of aging and aged people increases, the problem of finding old age a place in a society which demands the strength of youth is of national concern.

The problem is not evident at the Lutheran home, however. There, "old dogs are learning new tricks" and consequently are finding happiness. In contrast to the thousands of elderly people who are faced with poverty, an unsympathetic society, and an unbearable home environment with thoughtless relatives, residents at 800 W. Oakton are happy.

EACH RESIDENT has his own room and a key to the door. He has no written rules to follow, and the Home demands only that his conduct be conducive to sanitation, safety, and "Christian living."

He is as free to leave the Home as if he owned his own house. He can receive visitors at any time of the day and is provided cooking facilities if he wants to prepare his guests a meal.

And, unlike most of the country's aged, he knows that should he become ill, he will be cared for. It is this freedom from worry, statisticians claim, which accounts for the fact that aged live from five to 10 years longer in a Home of this sort than they would in their own apartment, hotel room, or with unsympathetic children.

THE LUTHERAN Home for the Aged is supported by northern Illinois congregations, a Community Fund grant, and funds of the residents, 80 per cent of whom are women.

"A home such as this offers the aged an opportunity to be more independent and to enjoy a wider choice of recreation, social contact, than he would otherwise have," asserts the Rev. J. M. Kempf, director.

The Home offers nursing and medical care, occupational therapy, recreation and educational activities, a religious program, and a social service to help solve economic, personality, and family relations problems. A full time staff of 36, supplemented by a number of part time workers, care for the residents.

"Our residents develop some of their warmest and most meaningful friendships here," Rev. Kempf states, adding that four marriages have been performed at the Home. "However, we are not a matrimonial bureau," he smiles.

AS MIGHT BE expected, the Home has a long waiting list, with the average wait being two or more years. The Home is planning a two wing addition which may be in construction next year.

"But building Homes for the Aged is just a small answer to the problem," Rev. Kempf believes. "The greater answer lies in the attitude of the public towards the aging and the aged, in developing a more realistic and appreciative attitude on the part of the aged, and in providing public facilities and resources for those in need of physical care, medical attention, social and recreational outlets."

"We must provide everything from day centers and Senior Citizens clubs to economic assistance. The present old age assistance is inadequate because the cost of living continues to rise. Social security planning is out of proportion."

Rev½ Kempf believes that teen-agers should be taught what old age is like. "They must be prepared for that part of life known as old age."

"People don't know what it's all about. They are afraid of it. They judge old people by the ones they know, and that can be good or bad.

"The adjustment to old age is one of the most difficult and most courageous efforts a person must make. It is made more difficult because few are prepared for what is to come.

THE MINISTER feels that by counseling the aged so that they can be compatible with their children and grandchildren, fewer will have to live away from their relatives.

The typical "I will never be dependent on my children" attitude is unrealistic, Rev. Kempf feels. "The person who says that is not taking into consideration the deterioration of his body and his mind, the possibility of serious illness or injury, or the possible economic or political changes which may force him, despite his financial capabilities, to be dependent on others."

According to Rev. Kempf the attitude towards a home for the aged is changing. without intention of boasting he pointed out, however, that not all such homes have the facilities and opportunities offered by the Arlington Heights home. "Therefore there are still feelings of reprehension, feelings of being 'put away', by old people who are considering a Home."

"Our problem is often a matter of convincing the elderly person that he can, by making some adjustment, live outside of a Home, convincing him that, indeed, he has no need of a Home.

"We offer counseling services to both the aged and their children. Most of the time it takes adjustments by both."

While the Home is limited to persons of Lutheran faith, the referral service, staffed with trained social workers is available to all denominations. "We find that most home situations involving the aged can be considerably eased by some counseling with both sides."

MANY COMPANIES are offering counseling to their elderly employees, urging them to continue working by stepping down to a job involving less responsibility. Rev. Kempf cites Carson, Pirie, and Scott as making "terrific strides along this line."

However, many older employees, especially those accustomed to executive-type work, are reluctant to "step down," although it would mean three or four more years of work.

"We also need to teach and practice preventative medicine," Kempf stresses. "We need geriatrics clinics providing annual or even semi-annual physical examinations for the aged. It has been pointed out that if we could find the cause and the cure for arteriosclerosis we could lengthen the life expectancy to 140 years. We need more research."

The problem of the country's aged will reach huge proportions in the next 30-40 years. It is one which demands the concern of every person who hopes some day to be among the Golden Aged. (B8

A LIVELY BUNCO GAME involves these six residents of 800 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights. Women outnumber men four to one in the Lutheran Home, which houses 120 senior citizens, aged 61-96. "Some of life's most meaningful friendships are formed in homes such as these," states director Rev. J. M. Kempf, who has performed four marriages there.

CUB FAN JOHN REINKE finds his radio a pleasant pastime during baseball season. Each resident of the Home has his own room and a key to his door. He can have privacy when he wants and guests when he wants.

"YOU CAN TEACH old dogs new tricks," Rev. Kempf, director of the Lutheran Home for the Aged, asserts. Here Emily Heuer and Emma Raffel, both formerly of Chicago, take part in occupational therapy activities.

Human Relations Is Weekend Study Topic

While the African independence pot boils and the Southern sit-in strikes simmer, a cool task of appraising and accepting the challenges of racial tensions on the home town scene was carried through July 15-17 at Childerly club in Wheeling.

Participants in a Study Weekend, sponsored by Friendship House in Chicago, came from all parts of the country. They met to discuss as individuals, and as representatives of groups, new approaches to some of the most vexing human relations problems.

Various leaders, with experience in particular fields, led seminars on what had been done and what might be done in housing, employment, education, and medical resources for minority groups.

OF PARTICULAR interest to suburbanites was a panel on "Suburbs and Newcomers" featuring two suburbanites who were on the inside of the integration attempts at Deerfield and Park Forest.

Tony Sabato, Deerfield resident and charter member of the Deerfield Citizens for Human Rights, described the utter chaos which followed the Progress Builders' announcement that they intended to initiate integrated housing in Deerfield.

"People changed right before your eyes," said Sabato. "What they thought they believed only the day before was converted into concern for property values, preoccupation with the dearth of park facilities, and implacable hostility toward those few who openly espoused the opposite cause."

Nevertheless, Sabato was less disillusioned about the absence of justice on the part of a panicking mob than he was about the absence of strong, fair leadership on the part of town officials. "They could have brought order out of the mess, if they had taken a firm stand in the beginning. Even now, one official is on record (on advice of counsel) as having only one thing to say in regard to the whole affair, 'no comment.' "

"Many people have changed their minds, now that it's too late. They are ashamed of themselves, and ashamed of the name they have given their town."

BILL HAYES, Oak Lawn, tells a story which would seem to support Sabato's assessment of the importance of leadership. Hayes, member of an improvement association in his suburb, is a friend and fellow professor of Charles Wilson, Negro resident who quietly moved into a Park Forest home last December.

"Wilson simply decided a couple of years ago that he wanted to move to a typical suburb. He began making inquiries privately and was turned down just as privately."

"Then he found one seller who had committed himself publicly to open housing, and who was also willing to sell his home for a fair price. Human relations groups in the area were alerted, town officials were polled on their probable stand, and neighbors of the new family were called upon for cooperation."

"The rest is history; the Wilsons live in peace today in Park Forest, whose esprit demanded fairness, and whose public officials, including police, pledged to do their duty."

ALSO ON THE weekend agenda was the study of the technique called "visiting workshops," which, through bringing together white and Negro people, usually in the homes of the latter, attempts to bring both white and Negro to a deeper realization of all they have in common.

"Visiting workshops have been a revelation to scores of people," said Betty Plank, who plans these events. "In spite of our best intellectual intentions, we often harbor stereotyped impressions of those whom we classify as 'other.' "

"It is a shock to see how true this is, once we are face to face with a family much like our own, eating the same food, reading the same papers, enjoying the same television shows. Having once seen how similar we are under the skin, it is almost impossible to be indifferent to the rights of our neighbors."

In a final session of the weekend, John Kearney, national director of Friendship House, contended that the problem is not the Negro or any other minority group; the problems are housing, employment, education, and adequate medical facilities for all people.

Bob Coleman, student, added that, "While philosophical terms are considered too abstract for most people, the term 'universal concept' is the only hope for showing each person what we must do for every other."

SUMMING UP "Our Christian Task Now," Msgr. Daniel M. Cantwell affirmed that a person's first task literally is to "live" today, to be grateful for the opportunities presented by his century.

"We must be alive. We must respond emotionally to the needs of all people. We must get mad, mad enough to do something effective. We can't put off till eternity things which must be done in time. Nor must we feel we are disturbing the peace if we disturb an order founded on injustice. The only worthwhile peace is that founded upon justice."

"But even this kind of peace is not enough," he added. "The only lasting peace will be founded on love, of which justice is only a part."

Friendship House, with headquarters at 4233 S. Indiana, Chicago, will have another study weekend at Wheeling's Childerly Club in the middle of August.

TWO NELSON ROCKEFELLER enthusiasts, Mrs. Frances E. McDonald and her son, Doug, 12, of 215 W. Orchard, Arlington Heights, prepare to take part in a parade for the New York governor. Mrs. McDonald worked at the Draft Rockefeller headquarters in Chicago during the convention.

At Wheeling Center

Human Relations Is Weekend Study Topic

While the African independence pot boils and the Southern sit-in strikes simmer, a cool task of appraising and accepting the challenges of racial tensions on the home town scene was carried through July 15-17 at Childerly club in Wheeling.

Participants in a Study Weekend, sponsored by Friendship House in Chicago, came from all parts of the country. They met to discuss as individuals, and as representatives of groups, new approaches to some of the most vexing human relations problems.

Various leaders, with experience in particular fields, led seminars on what had been done and what might be done in housing, employment, education, and medical resources for minority groups.

OF PARTICULAR interest to suburbanites was a panel on "Suburbs and Newcomers" featuring two suburbanites who were on the inside of the integration attempts at Deerfield and Park Forest.

Tony Sabato, Deerfield resident and charter member of the Deerfield Citizens for Human Rights, described the utter chaos which followed the Progress Builders' announcement that they intended to initiate integrated housing in Deerfield.

"People changed right before your eyes," said Sabato. "What they thought they believed only the day before was converted into concern for property values, preoccupation with the dearth of park facilities, and implacable hostility toward those few who openly espoused the opposite cause."

Nevertheless, Sabato was less disillusioned about the absence of justice on the part of a panicking mob than he was about the absence of strong, fair leadership on the part of town officials. "They could have brought order out of the mess, if they had taken a firm stand in the beginning. Even now, one official is on record (on advice of counsel) as having only one thing to say in regard to the whole affair, 'no comment.' "

"Many people have changed their minds, now that it's too late. They are ashamed of themselves, and ashamed of the name they have given their town."

BILL HAYES, Oak Lawn, tells a story which would seem to support Sabato's assessment of the importance of leadership. Hayes, member of an improvement association in his suburb, is a friend and fellow professor of Charles Wilson, Negro resident who quietly moved into a Park Forest home last December.

"Wilson simply decided a couple of years ago that he wanted to move to a typical suburb. He began making inquiries privately and was turned down just as privately."

"Then he found one seller who had committed himself publicly to open housing, and who was also willing to sell his home for a fair price. Human relations groups in the area were alerted, town officials were polled on their probable stand, and neighbors of the new family were called upon for cooperation."

"The rest is history; the Wilsons live in peace today in Park Forest, whose esprit demanded fairness, and whose public officials, including police, pledged to do their duty."

ALSO ON THE weekend agenda was the study of the technique called "visiting workshops," which, through bringing together white and Negro people, usually in the homes of the latter, attempts to bring both white and Negro to a deeper realization of all they have in common.

"Visiting workshops have been a revelation to scores of people," said Betty Plank, who plans these events. "In spite of our best intellectual intentions, we often harbor stereotyped impressions of those whom we classify as 'other.' "

"It is a shock to see how true this is, once we are face to face with a family much like our own, eating the same food, reading the same papers, enjoying the same television shows. Having once seen how similar we are under the skin, it is almost impossible to be indifferent to the rights of our neighbors."

In a final session of the weekend, John Kearney, national director of Friendship House, contended that the problem is not the Negro or any other minority group; the problems are housing, employment, education, and adequate medical facilities for all people.

Bob Coleman, student, added that, "While philosophical terms are considered too abstract for most people, the term 'universal concept' is the only hope for showing each person what we must do for every other."

SUMMING UP "Our Christian Task Now," Msgr. Daniel M. Cantwell affirmed that a person's first task literally is to "live" today, to be grateful for the opportunities presented by his century.

"We must be alive. We must respond emotionally to the needs of all people. We must get mad, mad enough to do something effective. We can't put off till eternity things which must be done in time. Nor must we feel we are disturbing the peace if we disturb an order founded on injustice. The only worthwhile peace is that founded upon justice."

"But even this kind of peace is not enough," he added. "The only lasting peace will be founded on love, of which justice is only a part."

Three Men In Airplane Competition

Three area residents are among the 1600 entrants in the national model airplane championships scheduled for July 25-31 at the Dallas Naval Air station, Grand Prairie, Texas.

The entrants are E. E. Wolfe Jr., 32 of 131 Wildwood rd., Elk Grove Village; Frederick A. Thulin Jr., 34, of 4 S. Owen, Mt. Prospect, and his daughter, Mary Grace, 9.

Contestants in the meet, who range from six to 60 years old, come from 50 states as well as Canada and Latin America.

COMPETITION is divided into three age groups: junior class, 16 years and less; senior, 16-21; and open, 21 and over.

Models will be flown in such events as free-flight gas to radio-control, control-line speed, jet and team racing contests.

Those taking first, second and third place in each event will be awarded a trophy. The meet is conducted by the Academy of Model Aeronautics of Washington, D.C.

Julv Vacationers Claim It's the Year's Shortest Month

Sidelights

Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

July is nearly gone and local returnees from recent vacations claim this is the shortest month of the year. Those awaiting August vacations will argue the point and the only thing the kids know is that months during the school year have twice as many days as these summer months. The recent heat wave slowed activity of kids and adults alike—but not much.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Losch, 105 N. Forrest, returned a week ago Wednesday from a week's tour around Lake Michigan and a cool, restful three days on Mackinac Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Brown, recently of 1126 N. Dunton, held open house Saturday night for local and Chicago friends in their new home at Round Lake Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Al May, 509 Prindle, are home again after a 15-day cruise to the West Indies and tours of many of the islands. Ideal weather was an added bonus to the picturesque trip that was the Mays' silver wedding anniversary gift to each other.

On the anniversary date, June 22, the Mays hosted 18 friends at a dinner party in the Morton House and at an after-dinner celebration in their home. Guests included Michigan friends, here from Grosse Pointe Woods for the occasion who enjoyed a 3-day visit with Mr. and Mrs. May. Properly congratulated and bon-voyaged, the anniversary couple left the following Saturday and returned here a week ago Sunday.

MR. AND MRS. Theodore Mendl and Barbara, 745 E. Vail, came home last Friday from two weeks at the Rainbow Valley dude ranch in Woodland, Col., a fortnight best described as "horsey." The Mendls like to ride and rode a lot, although trips to Colorado Springs and Estes Park were presumably not on horseback. On one of their shorter sightseeing jaunts they visited a gold mine, but report coming out no richer than they went in.

Debby Hauser, 101 N. Forrest, came home for a quick hello, a short weekend and a fast goodbye after almost five weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Plotner in Gowrie, Iowa. She went to Iowa by air and returned Friday with Des Moines friends, the C. F. Estelles, with whom she had spent one week of the five.

The Estelles' daughter, Debbie, and the local Debby were best friends and neighbors in Iowa before the Hausers moved here and have visited each other several times since. After a weekend stay here the Estelle family returned to Des Moines Sunday and the Hausers unpacked and repacked their daughter. She left Monday for two weeks of girl scout camping at Camp Hickory in Edgerton, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hauser spent the Fourth of July weekend with friends and fellow former Iowans near Traverse City, Mich., where they fished, reminisced and fished some more.

IF A SMALL portion of the population remarks that the summer's been dull the Guy Davis family, 408 N. Evergreen, won't be among 'em. They recently returned from four weeks on the west coast just in time for a round of showers for Miss Janet who will be married August 20.

Their west coast stay began in Seattle where the family visited Mrs. Davis' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Longnecker. Then came a stay in San Francisco, attending the Dale Carnegie convention and visiting former Arlington Heighters, the Taylor Biggs Lewises, in Mill Valley.

They spent some time too with Mrs. Lewis' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ottokar Hofmann. From San Francisco they went to Los Angeles for sightseeing that included a day at Disneyland which intrigued the elders in the family as well as young Guy. Next stop was in Phoenix for a stay with former Medinah friends, the Clare Tylers. Then the Davis family came home.

JULY 14 Janet was feted at a linen shower given by Mrs. James Lake, 412 N. Evergreen, that included several out-of-town guests as well as neighborhood friends. Here for the occasion was Janet's grandmother, Mrs. Cynthia Bolin of Lincoln, Neb. who will be with the Davises through the wedding date. Other guests included the mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Gordon Borchardt of Milwaukee; Janet's bridesmaid, Miss Phyllis Sharrar and her mother of Gary; her organist, Miss Ardyth Lohuis and her mother of Barrington Biltmore and a family friend and former Arlington Heighter, Mrs. Joe E. Brown, now of Middlebury.

Miss Davis will be married in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights to Henry Borchardt of Milwaukee. Mr. Borchardt is a seminary student and is currently serving as student minister for the North Lima Center Presbyterian church in Lima Center, Wis.

LAST THURSDAY the bride-elect was honored at a 6:30 dinner and miscellaneous shower given by five aunts of the groom in Milwaukee. Cohostesses were Mrs. Arthur Borchardt, Mrs. Edwin Borchardt, Miss Norma Borchardt, Mrs. Fred Rudolf and Mrs. Charles Hoffmann.

Thirty friends and family members gathered in the Arthur Borchardt home where pastel pink dominated the floral centerpiece and shower decorations. Ribbons issuing from the spout of a covered sprinkling can were attached to each of the gifts.

Immediately following services in the North Lima Center Presbyterian church Sunday the congregation feted Miss Davis and two local brides-to-be at a potluck dinner and miscellaneous shower. In the picturesque little country church Mr. Borchardt shared the spotlight with his bride-to-be.

MISS MARY Lou Reynertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reynertson, 327 S. Forrest, who will be an August 27 bride, was feted Sunday at a shower given in Chicago. Miss Reynertson's aunts, Mrs. Mae Ellefsen and Mrs. Margaret Reynertson were cohostesses to 15 family friends and relatives in the Ellefsen home where the bride-to-be was showered with gifts of linen.

Miss Reynertson will be married to Lester A. Bonaguro of Morton Grove in St. Ferdinand Catholic church in Chicago with open house for 100 guests immediately following in the Reynertson home. A 6 o'clock reception for 250 will be held in the Morton Grove Legion hall.

MRS. ALMA JONES of Cincinnati is a visitor in the home of her daughter and family, the Roy Gronauers, 3 N. Forrest. Mrs. Jones arrived July 11 and will return to her home in Ohio Sunday.

The Richard Cook family returned to 234 S. Mitchell Friday after a visit with relatives in Kalamazoo and a vacation at Niagara Falls. It was sweater weather at the falls, cool in Michigan and the weekend heat wave that welcomed the Cooks return was an uncomfortable contrast to their 10 days away from home.

The Gene Baughmans, 15 N. Forrest, came home last Thursday from a 13-day scenic motor tour to the Badlands of South Dakota, the Black Hills, Yellowstone National Park, Salt Lake City and Rocky Mountain National Park. They were much impressed with the sparkling neatness and warm hospitality for which Salt Lake City is noted.

RECENT VISITORS in the Jack Guilfoil home, 801 S. Chestnut, were cousins from Annandale, Va., the Paul Young family.

The Robert Paulys, 125 S. Burton, were hosts to weekend visitors from Crown Point, Ind. and eight other couples at a dinner and patio party in their home Saturday night. Outdoor lighting and music combined with a late and leisurely dinner to make the hot night vastly more tolerable.

Guests were the Indiana friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Sorensen, the Stan Edlunds of Prospect Heights, the William Voltzes of Des Plaines, former Arlington Heighters the Hal Houskeepers now of Deerfield and local friends, the John Jacksons, Richard Johannsens, Harry Spears and Charles Ewarts.

MR. AND MRS. Max Hershey, Palatine rd., returned last Saturday from two weeks in Florida where they enjoyed a tour of the state and visits with former Arlington Heights neighbors. They spent five days with local ex-nurserymen Gil Klehm and his wife who have "commuted" between Arlington Heights and Florida since their recent retirement while building a new home in Pompano Beach. The Klehms moved permanently about a month ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hershey also spent some time with former Palatine rd. neighbors, the Richard Schwartsegers, who moved to Del Ray Beach about two years ago. They asked to be remembered to friends here. The Hersheys completed their tour of Florida with a return trip via the west coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reitmeyer and Susan, 227 S. Mitchell, returned Saturday to a heat wave after 10 cool days in Erieville, N.Y. where they visited Mrs. Reitmeyer's mother, Mrs. Edward Slocum. Mrs. Slocum returned here with her daughter and family for a month's stay.

Mrs. Ida Meyer and daughters, Betty and Bernice of Sharon, Wis. visited here a week ago Monday. They were guests in the home of Mrs. Henry C. W. Meyer, 718 N. Evergreen, and with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meyer, 103 E. Hawthorne.

JUDY PAUL, 935 N. Mitchell, is among six local girls at Camp Norwesco in New Auburn, Wis. for a 2-week stay. She'll be home again August 1.

Family of the week . . . is that of LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, and their children, Tommy, 8, and Danny, 3, who bought their first home here five years ago. Andy, born and raised in the Chicago area, was serving as Lt. Andrew Reed, bombardier, at Childress Air Force base in Texas when he met LaRue, a Texan, who was a civil service employee. They were married 16 years ago; and following Andy's discharge from the service, they returned to Chicago where he became assistant sales manager for a firm distributing office equipment. The Reeds are active parishioners of St. James Catholic church.

Andy's outside activity is in maintaining his status in the active reserves corps, while LaRue's hobby is sewing for herself. However, their interests in common are many; including sports, reading, interior decorating and their new stereo hi-fi. Tommy, who will enter the third grade at St. James school this fall, is an active member of Little League.

The Reeds visit frequently with Andy's mother, Mrs. Ann Reed, and sister, Carol, in Chicago, but maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson, Huntsville, Ala., must be content with an annual vacation trip. LaRue and Andy are preoccupied right now in taking French lessons, for their hopes and dreams of the future include taking a trip abroad.

A LUNCHEON party was held a week ago yesterday for Linda, daughter of Alice and Richard Brown, 1413 N. Chicago, in celebration of her seventh birthday. Enjoying birthday cake and ice cream also were Karen Garland, Linda Donath, Joan Kohler, Linda Fluhrer and Linda Cech. Beth Martin missed out on the festivities, which included games, prizes, several rounds of croquet and balloon and whistle favors, due to illness.

A welcome is extended to Deanna and Glenn Olson, who moved here recently from Palatine to their first home at 1342 N. Chicago. Glenn is employed as a printer with Paddock Publications and his hobbies include golf and tennis. Deanna is busy in her role as a housewife, but looks forward to having the time and opportunity to swim again. He attends Bethel Lutheran church, Rolling Meadows, and she will attend St. James Catholic church.

Kenny, 5, son of Doris and Ken Koser, 1327 N. Illinois, received a thrill of a lifetime earlier this week, when he accompanied his father on a 2-day trip to Miami, Fla. It was the first time he had seen his father pilot a plane, and the fun included staying at a motel with a swimming pool right outside, a boat ride along the bay and a visit to the Seaquarium.

Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, co-hosted a farewell party Friday night for neighbors, Martha and Chuck Dillman, 1256 N. Chicago, who will depart soon for their new home in the east. The evening, concluded with a late barbecue supper, was enjoyed by Jerri and Bill Rix, Betty and Bob Gumz and Jackie and Joe Koenig.

A CIRCUS theme was apparent Tuesday afternoon at the home of Marge and Dick Frisbie, 1512 W. Oakton, as the eighth birthday of their daughter, Ann, was celebrated. Birthday cake and ice cream, games and favors were enjoyed by her guests, including Leslie Yates, Kathleen Brown, Mary Jo Burkhardt, her sister, Felicity, and several schoolmates.

Another couple to be welcomed into the Terrace recently are Janice and Bill Borland, 1210 N. Yale, and their son, Tim, 2. Although both are Pennsylvanians, they moved here from Buffalo, N. Y., the home office of Brockway Glass Co. for which Bill is employed as a salesman. Janice is content in her role as housewife and mother, but Bill is a baseball enthusiast and also finds time for golf. She will attend St. James Catholic church and Bill will attend the First Presbyterian church.

Eileen and Ray Brown, 1504 W. Oakton, enjoyed a vacation from the usual routine of things last week while Ray was home. The family, which includes Marianne, Kathleen, Jimmy, Barbara, Ray and Margaret, enjoyed a trip to Brookfield zoo, a picnic and much swimming, with a night out set aside for Eileen and Ray.

A luncheon party was held Saturday afternoon for Barbara, who was 5. Among those wishing her many happy returns were her brother, Jimmy, Terry Trummer, Ellen Frisbie, Lisa Yates, Suzanne Burkhardt, Colleen and Patricia Coleman, Christine and Diane Henneman, Mark Weber and Joey Dunne. Barbara's sisters, Marianne and Kathleen, assisted their parents in the game playing and serving of birthday cake and ice cream.

Mickey Mouse was present in the decorations throughout and the children were favored with hats, balloons and pinwheels to take home.

Leaving their daughter, Susan, at the home of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Shields, Kalamazoo, to enjoy a vacation, Mina and Don Shields, 1256 N. Race, departed for a 10-day vacation of their own, which, says Mina, included interesting stop-overs at Greenfield Village, Detroit, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and a general sightseeing tour of New York City.

Esther and Andy Turner, 1525 Clarendon, and the children, Jill, Steve and Lynne, enjoyed a 4-day visit last week from Andy's mother, Mrs. Emily Turner, La Grange. Her sojourn was made complete when, before departing for home Sunday, all were joined by Andy's brothers, Grant and Gerald, and their respective families from LaGrange and Hometown for a barbecue picnic.

NANCY AND Dick Quinn, former Terrace residents now residing in Springfield, spent the weekend with good friends, Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 W. Oakton. Highlight of their visit was a yacht cruise Friday evening, the Yateses and their guests, including Ann and Jack Jackson, Prospect Heights, themselves guests of the navy. Sandy comments that they entertained most of the weekend, as mutual friends of both couples dropped in to say hello and catch up with the latest news.

Dennis and Michael, twin sons of Laverne and Bud Reichert, 1208 N. Chicago, entered their teen years Saturday. Helping them to celebrate at a family dinner party that evening were their brothers, Terry and Jimmy, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, Chicago. After dinner they all went bowling, as per the boys' request.

A week ago Saturday night Dorothy and Don Ballard, 1241 N. Race, entertained friends from Chicago, Park Ridge Manor and Morton Grove. The affair, an annual summer event, was topped off with a barbecue supper, catching up on the news of one another and game playing.

Mary Lee Lyons, 1248 N. Race, and her children, Tommy, Dick and Jane, have returned from a 5-week vacation trip, the first two of which were spent in Florida with husband and father, Clayton. The remaining time was spent by Mary Lee and the children in eastern Kentucky, her home state, visiting relatives and friends.

CAROL AND Bill Narup, 1207 N. Race, and two of their children, Cathy and Scott, returned home early last week after spending a long weekend on a camping trip at Peninsula State park, Door County, Wis. They left 7-month-old Julie with her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorlief Narup, Park Ridge. Ironically, the Narups met their immediate neighbors, Carolyn and Bill Brown, 1211 N. Race, and their son, Doug, who had arrived at the camping site several days earlier, and all agreed it was fun to get together away from home.

Sue and Ralph Hollister and their children, David and Peggy, former Terrace residents who now live in Pensacola, Fla., and who are visiting relatives in the vicinity, spent this past weekend as guests of the Bill Narups, who entertained at a party Saturday night. Delighted to see the Hollisters again were the Bill Browns, Ed Lussiers, Dee Gehrigs, Terry McGuires, Ted Larsons, John Noerenbergs, Ed Hoovers, Blaine Crouches of Barrington, Jack Griffiths of Northbrook, and the Army Armstrongs of Aurora. The evening was concluded with a barbecue supper.

Wilke, after leaving Bob, Cathy and Dawn with their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Amann, Arlington Heights, and the baby, Jimmy, with next door neighbor, Margaret Dougherty. First stop was the Wagon Wheel, Rockton, where they enjoyed dining out, seeing the various shops and swimming. Then on to spend a day at the Wisconsin Dells before returning home Sunday.

Relatives and friends benefited from the week's vacation trip taken by Lena and Lee Duss, 1322 N. Race, and their son, Doug. They spent three days at Jefferson City, Mo., visiting Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Duss Sr., before going on to Mason City, Iowa, to spend some time with Lena's mother, Mrs. William Schubert.

Although her seventh birthday was July 22, Kim, daughter of Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, entertained her friends Thursday afternoon at a splash party at the park pool, following which her guests, among whom were her brother, Gary, Dawn Dolejs, Loni Larson, Joan Jacobsen, Jennifer Marshall, Gail McBride and Kathy and Vicki, returned to the Vogtritters for birthday cake and ice cream. Julv Vacationers Claim It's the Year's Shortest Month

July is nearly gone and local returnees from recent vacations claim this is the shortest month of the year. Those awaiting August vacations will argue the point and the only thing the kids know is that months during the school year have twice as many days as these summer months. The recent heat wave slowed activity of kids and adults alike—but not much.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Losch, 105 N. Forrest, returned a week ago Wednesday from a week's tour around Lake Michigan and a cool, restful three days on Mackinac Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Brown, recently of 1126 N. Dunton, held open house Saturday night for local and Chicago friends in their new home at Round Lake Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Al May, 509 Prindle, are home again after a 15-day cruise to the West Indies and tours of many of the islands. Ideal weather was an added bonus to the picturesque trip that was the Mays' silver wedding anniversary gift to each other.

On the anniversary date, June 22, the Mays hosted 18 friends at a dinner party in the Morton House and at an after-dinner celebration in their home. Guests included Michigan friends, here from Grosse Pointe Woods for the occasion who enjoyed a 3-day visit with Mr. and Mrs. May. Properly congratulated and bon-voyaged, the anniversary couple left the following Saturday and returned here a week ago Sunday.

MR. AND MRS. Theodore Mendl and Barbara, 745 E. Vail, came home last Friday from two weeks at the Rainbow Valley dude ranch in Woodland, Col., a fortnight best described as "horsey." The Mendls like to ride and rode a lot, although trips to Colorado Springs and Estes Park were presumably not on horseback. On one of their shorter sightseeing jaunts they visited a gold mine, but report coming out no richer than they went in.

Debby Hauser, 101 N. Forrest, came home for a quick hello, a short weekend and a fast goodbye after almost five weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Plotner in Gowrie, Iowa. She went to Iowa by air and returned Friday with Des Moines friends, the C. F. Estelles, with whom she had spent one week of the five.

The Estelles' daughter, Debbie, and the local Debby were best friends and neighbors in Iowa before the Hausers moved here and have visited each other several times since. After a weekend stay here the Estelle family returned to Des Moines Sunday and the Hausers unpacked and repacked their daughter. She left Monday for two weeks of girl scout camping at Camp Hickory in Edgerton, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hauser spent the Fourth of July weekend with friends and fellow former Iowans near Traverse City, Mich., where they fished, reminisced and fished some more.

IF A SMALL portion of the population remarks that the summer's been dull the Guy Davis family, 408 N. Evergreen, won't be among 'em. They recently returned from four weeks on the west coast just in time for a round of showers for Miss Janet who will be married August 20.

Their west coast stay began in Seattle where the family visited Mrs. Davis' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Longnecker. Then came a stay in San Francisco, attending the Dale Carnegie convention and visiting former Arlington Heighters, the Taylor Biggs Lewises, in Mill Valley.

They spent some time too with Mrs. Lewis' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ottokar Hofmann. From San Francisco they went to Los Angeles for sightseeing that included a day at Disneyland which intrigued the elders in the family as well as young Guy. Next stop was in Phoenix for a stay with former Medinah friends, the Clare Tylers. Then the Davis family came home.

JULY 14 Janet was feted at a linen shower given by Mrs. James Lake, 412 N. Evergreen, that included several out-of-town guests as well as neighborhood friends. Here for the occasion was Janet's grandmother, Mrs. Cynthia Bolin of Lincoln, Neb. who will be with the Davises through the wedding date. Other guests included the mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Gordon Borchardt of Milwaukee; Janet's bridesmaid, Miss Phyllis Sharrar and her mother of Gary; her organist, Miss Ardyth Lohuis and her mother of Barrington Biltmore and a family friend and former Arlington Heighter, Mrs. Joe E. Brown, now of Middlebury.

Miss Davis will be married in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights to Henry Borchardt of Milwaukee. Mr. Borchardt is a seminary student and is currently serving as student minister for the North Lima Center Presbyterian church in Lima Center, Wis.

LAST THURSDAY the bride-elect was honored at a 6:30 dinner and miscellaneous shower given by five aunts of the groom in Milwaukee. Cohostesses were Mrs. Arthur Borchardt, Mrs. Edwin Borchardt, Miss Norma Borchardt, Mrs. Fred Rudolf and Mrs. Charles Hoffmann.

Thirty friends and family members gathered in the Arthur Borchardt home where pastel pink dominated the floral centerpiece and shower decorations. Ribbons issuing from the spout of a covered sprinkling can were attached to each of the gifts.

Immediately following services in the North Lima Center Presbyterian church Sunday the congregation feted Miss Davis and two local brides-to-be at a potluck dinner and miscellaneous shower. In the picturesque little country church Mr. Borchardt shared the spotlight with his bride-to-be.

MISS MARY Lou Reynertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reynertson, 327 S. Forrest, who will be an August 27 bride, was feted Sunday at a shower given in Chicago. Miss Reynertson's aunts, Mrs. Mae Ellefsen and Mrs. Margaret Reynertson were cohostesses to 15 family friends and relatives in the Ellefsen home where the bride-to-be was showered with gifts of linen.

Miss Reynertson will be married to Lester A. Bonaguro of Morton Grove in St. Ferdinand Catholic church in Chicago with open house for 100 guests immediately following in the Reynertson home. A 6 o'clock reception for 250 will be held in the Morton Grove Legion hall.

MRS. ALMA JONES of Cincinnati is a visitor in the home of her daughter and family, the Roy Gronauers, 3 N. Forrest. Mrs. Jones arrived July 11 and will return to her home in Ohio Sunday.

The Richard Cook family returned to 234 S. Mitchell Friday after a visit with relatives in Kalamazoo and a vacation at Niagara Falls. It was sweater weather at the falls, cool in Michigan and the weekend heat wave that welcomed the Cooks return was an uncomfortable contrast to their 10 days away from home.

The Gene Baughmans, 15 N. Forrest, came home last Thursday from a 13-day scenic motor tour to the Badlands of South Dakota, the Black Hills, Yellowstone National Park, Salt Lake City and Rocky Mountain National Park. They were much impressed with the sparkling neatness and warm hospitality for which Salt Lake City is noted.

The Klehms moved permanently about a month ago.

Family of the week . . . is that of LaRue and Andy Reed, 1328 N. Yale, and their children, Tommy, 8, and Danny, 3, who bought their first home here five years ago. Andy, born and raised in the Chicago area, was serving as Lt. Andrew Reed, bombardier, at Childress Air Force base in Texas when he met LaRue, a Texan, who was a civil service employee. They were married 16 years ago; and following Andy's discharge from the service, they returned to Chicago where he became assistant sales manager for a firm distributing office equipment. The Reeds are active parishioners of St. James Catholic church.

Andy's outside activity is in maintaining his status in the active reserves corps, while LaRue's hobby is sewing for herself. However, their interests in common are many; including sports, reading, interior decorating and their new stereo hi-fi. Tommy, who will enter the third grade at St. James school this fall, is an active member of Little League.

The Reeds visit frequently with Andy's mother, Mrs. Ann Reed, and sister, Carol, in Chicago, but maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson, Huntsville, Ala., must be content with an annual vacation trip.

LaRue and Andy are preoccupied right now in taking French lessons, for their hopes and dreams of the future include taking a trip abroad.

A LUNCHEON party was held a week ago yesterday for Linda, daughter of Alice and Richard Brown, 1413 N. Chicago, in celebration of her seventh birthday. Enjoying birthday cake and ice cream also were Karen Garland, Linda Donath, Joan Kohler, Linda Fluhrer and Linda Cech. Beth Martin missed out on the festivities, which included games, prizes, several rounds of croquet and balloon and whistle favors, due to illness.

A welcome is extended to Deanna and Glenn Olson, who moved here recently from Palatine to their first home at 1342 N. Chicago. Glenn is employed as a printer with Paddock Publications and his hobbies include golf and tennis. Deanna is busy in her role as a housewife, but looks forward to having the time and opportunity to swim again. He attends Bethel Lutheran church, Rolling Meadows, and she will attend St. James Catholic church.

Kenny, 5, son of Doris and Ken Koser, 1327 N. Illinois, received a thrill of a lifetime earlier this week, when he accompanied his father on a 2-day trip to Miami, Fla. It was the first time he had seen his father pilot a plane, and the fun included staying at a motel with a swimming pool right outside, a boat ride along the bay and a visit to the Seaquarium.

Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and Shirley and Ralph Landes, 1251 N. Chicago, co-hosted a farewell party Friday night for neighbors, Martha and Chuck Dillman, 1256 N. Chicago, who will depart soon for their new home in the east. The evening, concluded with a late barbecue supper, was enjoyed by Jerri and Bill Rix, Betty and Bob Gumz and Jackie and Joe Koenig.

A CIRCUS theme was apparent Tuesday afternoon at the home of Marge and Dick Frisbie, 1512 W. Oakton, as the eighth birthday of their daughter, Ann, was celebrated. Birthday cake and ice cream, games and favors were enjoyed by her guests, including Leslie Yates, Kathleen Brown, Mary Jo Burkhardt, her sister, Felicity, and several schoolmates.

Another couple to be welcomed into the Terrace recently are Janice and Bill Borland, 1210 N. Yale, and their son, Tim, 2. Although both are Pennsylvanians, they moved here from Buffalo, N. Y., the home office of Brockway Glass Co. for which Bill is employed as a salesman. Janice is content in her role as housewife and mother, but Bill is a baseball enthusiast and also finds time for golf. She will attend St. James Catholic church and Bill will attend the First Presbyterian church.

Eileen and Ray Brown, 1504 W. Oakton, enjoyed a vacation from the usual routine of things last week while Ray was home. The family, which includes Marianne, Kathleen, Jimmy, Barbara, Ray and Margaret, enjoyed a trip to Brookfield zoo, a picnic and much swimming, with a night out set aside for Eileen and Ray.

A luncheon party was held Saturday afternoon for Barbara, who was 5. Among those wishing her many happy returns were her brother, Jimmy, Terry Trummer, Ellen Frisbie, Lisa Yates, Suzanne Burkhardt, Colleen and Patricia Coleman, Christine and Diane Henneman, Mark Weber and Joey Dunne. Barbara's sisters, Marianne and Kathleen, assisted their parents in the game playing and serving of birthday cake and ice cream.

JULY 2 is the natal day of Kevin, son of Barbara and Ralph Weiderhold, 1322 N. Chicago, so last Friday his brothers, Kim, Kyle, Robert and Dwight, maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Alexander, Park Ridge, and Mrs. Robert Wade and her daughter, Peggy, Chicago wished him a happy birthday at a luncheon party, topped off with birthday cake brought by his grandmother.

An afternoon party was held Saturday in honor of Kevin's sixth birthday, and present were his brother, Robert, Kevin Corley, Danny Healy, Guy Eisenhuth, Robert Husted, Virginia May Catlin and Debbie Graves, Carpentersville. Mickey Mouse was present in the decorations throughout and the children were favored with hats, balloons and pinwheels to take home.

Leaving their daughter, Susan, at the home of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Shields, Kalamazoo, to enjoy a vacation, Mina and Don Shields, 1256 N. Race, departed for a 10-day vacation of their own, which, says Mina, included interesting stop-overs at Greenfield Village, Detroit, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and a general sightseeing tour of New York City.

Esther and Andy Turner, 1525 Clarendon, and the children, Jill, Steve and Lynne, enjoyed a 4-day visit last week from Andy's mother, Mrs. Emily Turner, La Grange. Her sojourn was made complete when, before departing for home Sunday, all were joined by Andy's brothers, Grant and Gerald, and their respective families from LaGrange and Hometown for a barbecue picnic.

NANCY AND Dick Quinn, former Terrace residents now residing in Springfield, spent the weekend with good friends, Sandy and Dave Yates, 1522 W. Oakton. Highlight of their visit was a yacht cruise Friday evening, the Yateses and their guests, including Ann and Jack Jackson, Prospect Heights, themselves guests of the navy. Sandy comments that they entertained most of the weekend, as mutual friends of both couples dropped in to say hello and catch up with the latest news.

Dennis and Michael, twin sons of Laverne and Bud Reichert, 1208 N. Chicago, entered their teen years Saturday. Helping them to celebrate at a family dinner party that evening were their brothers, Terry and Jimmy, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Witt, Chicago. After dinner they all went bowling, as per the boys' request.

A week ago Saturday night Dorothy and Don Ballard, 1241 N. Race, entertained friends from Chicago, Park Ridge Manor and Morton Grove. The affair, an annual summer event, was topped off with a barbecue supper, catching up on the news of one another and game playing.

Mary Lee Lyons, 1248 N. Race, and her children, Tommy, Dick and Jane, have returned from a 5-week vacation trip, the first two of which were spent in Florida with husband and father, Clayton. The remaining time was spent by Mary Lee and the children in eastern Kentucky, her home state, visiting relatives and friends.

CAROL AND Bill Narup, 1207 N. Race, and two of their children, Cathy and Scott, returned home early last week after spending a long weekend on a camping trip at Peninsula State park, Door County, Wis. They left 7-month-old Julie with her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorlief Narup, Park Ridge. Ironically, the Narups met their immediate neighbors, Carolyn and Bill Brown, 1211 N. Race, and their son, Doug, who had arrived at the camping site several days earlier, and all agreed it was fun to get together away from home.

Sue and Ralph Hollister and their children, David and Peggy, former Terrace residents who now live in Pensacola, Fla., and who are visiting relatives in the vicinity, spent this past weekend as guests of the Bill Narups, who entertained at a party Saturday night. Delighted to see the Hollisters again were the Bill Browns, Ed Lussiers, Dee Gehrigs, Terry McGuires, Ted Larsons, John Noerenbergs, Ed Hoovers, Blaine Crouches of Barrington, Jack Griffiths of Northbrook, and the Army Armstrongs of Aurora. The evening was concluded with a barbecue supper.

A weekend trip was enjoyed by Rose Marie and Jim Amann, 1409 N. Wilke, after leaving Bob, Cathy and Dawn with their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Amann, Arlington Heights, and the baby, Jimmy, with next door neighbor, Margaret Dougherty. First stop was the Wagon Wheel, Rockton, where they enjoyed dining out, seeing the various shops and swimming. Then on to spend a day at the Wisconsin Dells before returning home Sunday.

Relatives and friends benefited from the week's vacation trip taken by Lena and Lee Duss, 1322 N. Race, and their son, Doug. They spent three days at Jefferson City, Mo., visiting Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Duss Sr., before going on to Mason City, Iowa, to spend some time with Lena's mother, Mrs. William Schubert.

Although her seventh birthday was July 22, Kim, daughter of Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, entertained her friends Thursday afternoon at a splash party at the park pool, following which her guests, among whom were her brother, Gary, Dawn Dolejs, Loni Larson, Joan Jacobsen, Jennifer Marshall, Gail McBride and Kathy and Vicki, returned to the Vogtritters for birthday cake and ice cream. Exclusive of Gary, of course, the girls were all favored with a bracelet momento. (A

Modern Etiquette

Q. Isn't it improper for two persons who are introduced at a dinner, to reach across the table to shake hands?

A. Although not improper, this usually proves rather awkward. It is better to nod your head pleasantly in acknowledgment of a table introduction. If, however, the other person does reach his hand across the table to you, you must not hesitate to accept it.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Isn't it improper for two persons who are introduced at a dinner, to reach across the table to shake hands?

A. Although not improper, this usually proves rather awkward. It is better to nod your head pleasantly in acknowledgment of a table introduction. If, however, the other person does reach his hand across the table to you, you must not hesitate to accept it.

Q. I've heard that it is bad luck for the bridegroom to help address the wedding invitations and announcements. Is this true?

A. This is nonsense! Although this is a function usually performed by the bride and her mother, there's no reason in the world why the bridegroom should not help, if he wishes to do so.

Q. When a girl breaks her engagement, which has already been publicly announced, how can she inform those of her friends who live out of town and might not otherwise learn of what has happened?

A. She can write brief, informal notes to them. All she needs to explain is that "circumstances" have forced the breaking of her engagement.

Q. At a buffet meal, should the hostess wait until all her guests have served themselves before she fills her own plate?

A. She is not required to be absolutely the last, but she should be among the last.

Q. Is it proper for the mother of a newborn baby to mail out printed cards of thanks for the gifts her baby has received?

A. Never! Her thanks should be expressed in personally-written notes.

Q. I've heard that it is bad luck for the bridegroom to help address the wedding invitations and announcements. Is this true?

A. This is nonsense! Although this is a function usually performed by the bride and her mother, there's no reason in the world why the bridegroom should not help, if he wishes to do so.

Q. When a girl breaks her engagement, which has already been publicly announced, how can she inform those of her friends who live out of town and might not otherwise learn of what has happened?

A. She can write brief, informal notes to them. All she needs to explain is that "circumstances" have forced the breaking of her engagement.

Q. At a buffet meal, should the hostess wait until all her guests have served themselves before she fills her own plate?

A. She is not required to be absolutely the last, but she should be among the last.

Q. Is it proper for the mother of a newborn baby to mail out printed cards of thanks for the gifts her baby has received?

A. Never! Her thanks should be expressed in personally-written notes.

New Bikini Nighties Capture Imagination of Suburb Males

by NATALIE McKENZIE

If it's an itsy-bitsy, teeny, weeny yellow polka dot bikini you want, you'll have a pretty hard time finding it in the Arlington Heights area.

Man, it's not bikini swim suit that's the rage, these days. It's the bikini nightie.

This is the story learned on a tour of women's sportswear shops one hot Friday afternoon. And the big buyer of the bikini nightie is not the lady of the family. No, sir, they're too smart for that. It's the men. Instead of the slinky black nightie of yore, they now think the brief, sheer bikini's the thing.

"They're the hottest thing out. We reorder and reorder, and reorder," it is learned at Ricky's Sportswear. Of all the sleeping bikinis viewed, Ricky's had the slinkiest, the sheerest, the filmiest — and the best seller among the men!

ONE STORE does have the swim suit. That's the Lorraine Anne Shop. "We've sold more this year than in the past five," the Lorraine Anne manager said. "That's largely because we have been able to buy more from the suit manufacturers."

Biggest customer for this briefer than brief swim apparel is the older teen-ager. Suit makers make their models convertible. Straps at the side of each leg enable a young lady to raise or lower the waistline.

Trying to find the bikini "nightie," "sleepwear," or "pajama" is another story, however, than the swim suit. There are many of them available, ranging from the sheer nylon three-piece suit to glazed and plain cotton pajamas.

THE GIRLS LAUGH! The men love 'em. It's the bikini nighties. A filmy number is held up for size here by two women at Ricky's sportswear, Arlington Heights. At left is Kittie Arrasmith. Holding the top of the nightie is Eve Neiman. A peignoir to the three-piece set is on the counter.

Response to the nightie and two-piece swim suit varies, of course, from store to store. What might be right for the French Riviera, or the cat's meow for Brigitte Bardot, just doesn't sell at the Emerald Shop.

No two - piece swim suits there. "The only thing we have resembling a bikini is the pajama, which we STILL have!" the saleswoman lamented Brief lines made of paisley print cotton. Their model has a top with elastic on the bottom to keep it down. A third piece to the outfit is a "poncho" to for the more modest female.

THE MURIEL Mundy store has no bikini swim suits. They have had two calls for it from the ladies and a third from a man. "Our two pajama styles are going beautifully. It's not the teenager who's buying, but the young married women. Most are sold in the small and medium sizes. But, we've sold some to some women who have been pretty big," the lithe salesgirl admitted. The largest size the nightie comes in would fit the 36 - 38 figure.

The two styles at Muriel Mundy were a sheer, almost batiste cotton checked number. It had no covering poncho. The other style, in gay glazed yellow and white print, looked very chic with a big tent - like overtop.

The Maison de Romayne admitted that it perhaps wasn't as adventuresome as its neighboring competitors. Demand hadn't justified stocking the swim suit, though the store does have one two-piece model. Isn't cut low enough from the waist, though, to be called a bikini.

THE SAME reply came from Terri Lee, now operating under new management. They carried no two-piecers this year. Had some last year that sold well. They've had a few calls for the sleeping bikinis, less for swim suit bikinis. They stocked neither.

The Ruth Miller store looked sort of dismayed at the question, and said, "This isn't the swimming suit time of the year."

We've just started having our hottest weather, and clothing stores are having their summer sales, ready to show fall clothes. Doesn't seem like it makes much sense.

"Yes, we sold most of our suits between February and June," the answer comes from the Ruth Miller store. "We had one that might qualify as a bikini, but it isn't really as brief as some pictures show."

SO, THAT'S the story. One-piece swimming suits are still the most popular. Apparently it's going to take some pretty daring women to replace them. Also some very non active swimmers.

For the follower of fads, however, the bikini nightie is the thing.

And for the tired, hot shoper, any store is the greatest. They are all air-conditioned!

Amendments to Be Discussed

Several amendments to the constitution are on the agenda of this month's business meeting for members of the Northwest Art Center, to be held at Pioneer Park fieldhouse on Thursday, July 28, at 8 p.m.

Primary consideration is being given to administrative reorganization as the Art Center prepares for its third season of exhibits, classes and programs.

Although closed to the public during the month of August for redecoration, the Palatine rd. gallery of the center will be the scene of preparation for the autumn schedule of exhibits.

Civilized society is perpetually menaced with disintegration through this primary hostility of men towards one another.

New Bikini Nighties Capture Imagination of Suburb Males

by NATALIE McKENZIE

If it's an itsy-bitsy, teeny, weeny yellow polka dot bikini you want, you'll have a pretty hard time finding it in the Arlington Heights area.

Man, it's not bikini swim suit that's the rage, these days. It's the bikini nightie.

This is the story learned on a tour of women's sportswear shops one hot Friday afternoon. And the big buyer of the bikini nightie is not the lady of the family. No, sir, they're too smart for that. It's the men. Instead of the slinky black nightie of yore, they now think the brief, sheer bikini's the thing.

"They're the hottest thing out. We reorder and reorder, and reorder," it is learned at Ricky's Sportswear. Of all the sleeping bikinis viewed, Ricky's had the slinkiest, the sheerest, the filmiest — and the best seller among the men!

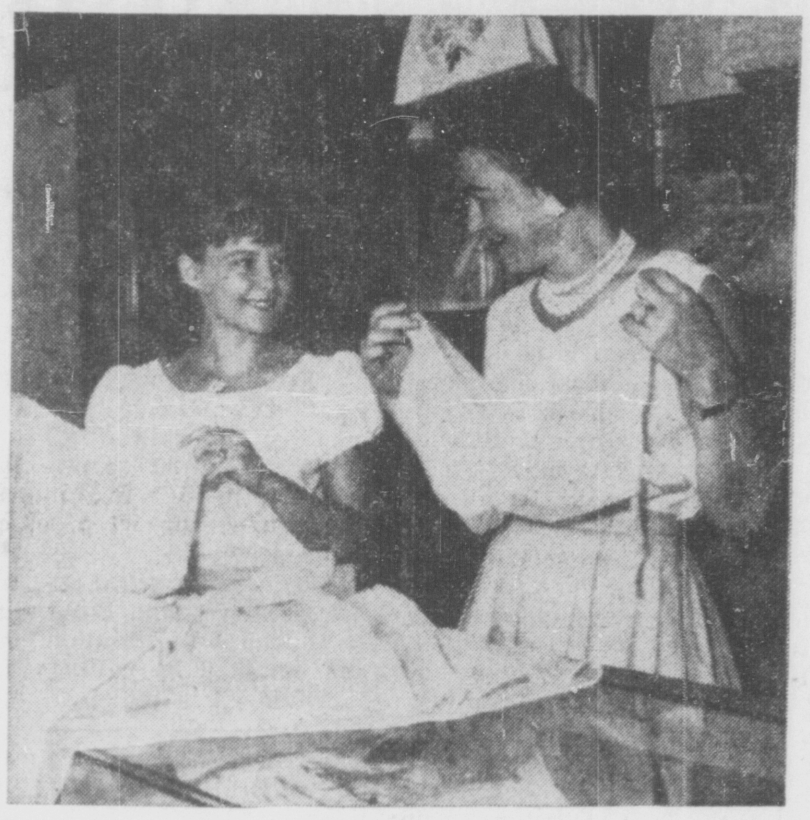
ONE STORE does have the swim suit. That's the Lorraine Anne Shop. "We've sold more this year than in the past five," the Lorraine Anne manager said. "That's largely because we have been able to buy more from the suit manufacturers."

Biggest customer for this briefer than brief swim apparel is the older teen-ager. Suit makers make their models convertible. Straps at the side of each leg enable a young lady to raise or lower the waistline.

Trying to find the bikini "nightie," "sleepwear," or "pajama" is another story, however, than the swim suit. There are many of them available, ranging from the sheer nylon three-piece suit to glazed and plain cotton pajamas.

Response to the nightie and two-piece swim suit varies, of course, from store to store. What might be right for the French Riviera, or the cat's meow for Brigitte Bardot, just doesn't sell at the Emerald Shop.



THE GIRLS LAUGH! The men love 'em. It's the bikini nighties. A filmy number is held up for size here by two women at Ricky's sportswear, Arlington Heights. At left is Kittie Arrasmith. Holding the top of the nightie is Eve Neiman. A peignoir to the three-piece set is on the counter.

No two - piece swim suits there. "The only thing we have resembling a bikini is the pajama, which we STILL have!" the saleswoman lamented Brief lines made of paisley print cotton. Their model has a top with elastic on the bottom to keep it down. A third piece to the outfit is a "poncho" to for the more modest female.

THE MURIEL Mundy store has no bikini swim suits. They have had two calls for it from the ladies and a third from a man. "Our two pajama styles are going beautifully. It's not the teenager who's buying, but the young married women. Most are sold in the small and medium sizes. But, we've sold some to some women who have been pretty big," the lithe salesgirl admitted. The largest size the nightie comes in would fit the 36 - 38 figure.

The two styles at Muriel Mundy were a sheer, almost batiste cotton checked number. It had no covering poncho. The other style, in gay glazed yellow and white print, looked very chic with a big tent - like overtop.

The Maison de Romayne admitted that it perhaps wasn't as adventuresome as its neighboring competitors. Demand hadn't justified stocking the swim suit, though the store does have one two-piece model. Isn't cut low enough from the waist, though, to be called a bikini.

THE SAME reply came from Terri Lee, now operating under new management. They carried no two-piecers this year. Had some last year that sold well. They've had a few calls for the sleeping bikinis, less for swim suit bikinis. They stocked neither.

The Ruth Miller store looked sort of dismayed at the question, and said, "This isn't the swimming suit time of the year."

We've just started having our hottest weather, and clothing stores are having their summer sales, ready to show fall clothes. Doesn't seem like it makes much sense.

"Yes, we sold most of our suits between February and June," the answer comes from the Ruth Miller store. "We had one that might qualify as a bikini, but it isn't really as brief as some pictures show."

SO, THAT'S the story. One-piece swimming suits are still the most popular. Apparently it's going to take some pretty daring women to replace them. Also some very non active swimmers.

For the follower of fads, however, the bikini nightie is the thing.

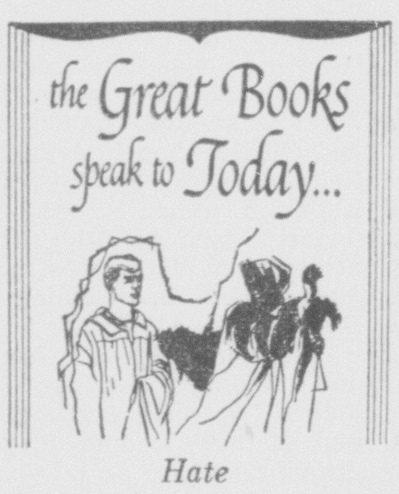
And for the tired, hot shoper, any store is the greatest. They are all air-conditioned!

Amendments to Be Discussed

Several amendments to the constitution are on the agenda of this month's business meeting for members of the Northwest Art Center, to be held at Pioneer Park fieldhouse on Thursday, July 28, at 8 p.m.

Primary consideration is being given to administrative reorganization as the Art Center prepares for its third season of exhibits, classes and programs.

Although closed to the public during the month of August for redecoration, the Palatine rd. gallery of the center will be the scene of preparation for the autumn schedule of exhibits.



the Great Books speak to Today...

Hate

Civilized society is perpetually menaced with disintegration through this primary hostility of men towards one another.

—SIGMUND FREUD (1856-1939)

If there be anything sinful in a man's outward sins against his neighbor, it is all to be traced to his inward hatred.

—ST. THOMAS AQUINAS (c. 1225-1274)

As his ways were quite alien from theirs they hated alike what was bad and what was good in him.

—TACITUS (c. 55- c. 117) Roman historian

Insofar as men are carried away by envy or any affect of hatred towards one another, so far are they contrary to one another, and consequently so much the more are they to be feared, as they have more power than other individuals of nature.

—BENEDICT DE SPINOZA (1632-1677) Dutch philosopher

Name Full-time Rabbi To Area Congregation

The short history of the Northwest suburbs' Beth Tikvah congregation added a new chapter Friday night, June 22, when the congregation voted on the board of directors' selection of a full-time rabbi.

The approval of Hillel Gamoran as the congregation's first full-time rabbi was the culmination of four years of faith, hard work and perseverance of a few Jewish families in the area.

When these 10 families moved to the northwest suburbs in 1956, they found no Jewish congregation. Their primary concern was religious training for their children.

IT WAS FROM this need that the idea of forming a congregation unfolded. The first year the small group met in Hoffman Estates schools under lay leadership. Occasionally, a guest rabbi would fill the pulpit.

As more Jewish families moved into the area, the congregation grew. The second year a student rabbi from the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati officiated at religious services every fourth week and also at High Holy Day services.

Last year Beth Tikvah had the services every other week of Rabbi Richard G. Hirsch, director of the Chicago Federation American Hebrew congregations.

The Sunday school started with 17 children and one teacher. At present there are 122 children, two professional teachers, and five volunteer teachers.

ROSH HASHONNO and Yom Kippor, 1960, will be the fourth year that Beth Tikvah has held High Holy Day services. The first two years these services were held in "Community Barn" in Hoffman Estates. Last year, the Arlington Park race track chapel was used.

Beth Tikvah congregation has celebrated five Bar Mitzvahs and three baby naming ceremonies. The first confirmation class will be coming up this year.

The congregation is comprised of families from 14 different northwest communites: Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Wood Dale, Mt. Prospect, Roselle, Wheeling, Glen Ellyn, Palatine, Addison, Arlington Heights, Wheaton, Bloomingdale, and Elmhurst.

RABBI HILLEL Gamoran received his B. A. from the University of Cincinnati in 1951. He entered the New York School of the Hebrew [illegible] college, Jewish Institute [illegible] Religion, in the fall of that year. In 1956 he received the degree of Master of Hebrew Letters and was ordained as rabbi.

In 1953-54 Rabbi Gamoran took a leave of absence from the college-institute to go to Israel. He spent the year studying the Hebrew language and literature, Jewish history, and philosophy at the Hebrew university in Jerusalem.

Upon his return from Israel, he became student rabbi at the newly-organized Temple B'Nai Or in Morristown, New Jersey. Following ordination, he became the full time rabbi there.

HIS SPECIAL interest is in the field of education, in the religious school, youth activities, and adult education. He is married and has two children.

He is the son of Dr. Emanual Gamoran, director of education of the Union of American Hebrew congregations and Mamie G. Gamoran, author of religious school textbooks. At present Rabbi Gamoran is in Moscow visiting his father-in-law, who is doing research there.

Tax Bills Ready for Mailing

Real estate taxpayers in northwest surburbs will soon be receiving their 1959 tax bills.

Collectors for Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling, and Palatine townships advised all taxpayers to check their tax bills as to the new property identification number. A new system of identifying real estate for tax billing purposes becomes effective on the bills now being prepared for mailing.

Taxpayers will notice that no longer is the legal description shown on the bill but an identifiable "Permanent Index Number" is shown instead. These numbers have been on all tax bills since 1949. Check the numbers with last years's bill to be certain that the same property is covered.

How Droll

I don't hate anyone. I try not to get mad at anyone. And I enjoy what I do.--Chancellor Adenauer.

Reveal Winners In Sweepstakes

Residents of Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights were winners in a sweepstakes held July 16 for the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children.

John Connor, Rolling Meadows, was the grand prize winner. He went home from the Arlington Market drawing with a Sylvania styleline clock-radio. Joe Schneller, president of the Market Business association, pulled Harold Dunn's name as second prize winner. Dunn's gift is a BVI canopener.

PROCEEDS from the drawing will be used for operating expenses of the school. Larry Walsh, Palatine, is fund-raising chairman. His co-chairman is Russ Fredericksen, Arlington Heigths.

The school, operating year-round, has 16 children in session now. There are more applications for fall, according to Mrs. Liz Senofsky, public relations chairman.

Classes have been moved from a Sunday school room at the Community church of Rolling Meadows, to a large room in the church basement. The room will accommodate 25 to 30 children instead of the 15 that could be comfortable upstairs.

IN ADDITION, children may be taught in small groups in a kitchen outside the room.

Mrs Senofsky said the biggest difficulty caused by the move to the basement was teaching children to use stairs. "So many of them come from homes without stairs. For a normal child, the process is simple, but for a retarded child, for whom coordination is often difficult, stairs were quite a challenge."

Mrs. Senofsky used this story to show how Mrs. Ceil Frederickson, the teacher of Clearbrook's 16 students, uses every opportunity to teach. Since the move, all students have mastered the stairs.

Tax Bills Ready for Mailing

Real estate taxpayers in northwest surburbs will soon be receiving their 1959 tax bills.

Collectors for Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling, and Palatine townships advised all taxpayers to check their tax bills as to the new property identification number. A new system of identifying real estate for tax billing purposes becomes effective on the bills now being prepared for mailing.

Taxpayers will notice that no longer is the legal description shown on the bill but an identifiable "Permanent Index Number" is shown instead. These numbers have been on all tax bills since 1949. Check the numbers with last years's bill to be certain that the same property is covered.

I don't hate anyone. I try not to get mad at anyone. And I enjoy what I do.--Chancellor Adenauer.

Reveal Winners In Sweepstakes

Residents of Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights were winners in a sweepstakes held July 16 for the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children.

John Connor, Rolling Meadows, was the grand prize winner. He went home from the Arlington Market drawing with a Sylvania styleline clock-radio. Joe Schneller, president of the Market Business association, pulled Harold Dunn's name as second prize winner. Dunn's gift is a BVI canopener.

PROCEEDS from the drawing will be used for operating expenses of the school. Larry Walsh, Palatine, is fund-raising chairman. His co-chairman is Russ Fredericksen, Arlington Heigths.

The school, operating year-round, has 16 children in session now. There are more applications for fall, according to Mrs. Liz Senofsky, public relations chairman.

Classes have been moved from a Sunday school room at the Community church of Rolling Meadows, to a large room in the church basement. The room will accommodate 25 to 30 children instead of the 15 that could be comfortable upstairs.

IN ADDITION, children may be taught in small groups in a kitchen outside the room.

Mrs Senofsky said the biggest difficulty caused by the move to the basement was teaching children to use stairs. "So many of them come from homes without stairs. For a normal child, the process is simple, but for a retarded child, for whom coordination is often difficult, stairs were quite a challenge."

Mrs. Senofsky used this story to show how Mrs. Ceil Frederickson, the teacher of Clearbrook's 16 students, uses every opportunity to teach. Since the move, all students have mastered the stairs.

Housewife's Zeal to Learn Disrupts Suburban Routine

Educational TV Sparks Crisis in Family Life

by PHILIP NELSON

Teevee courses are very educational. A suburban housewife can muzzle her urchin and turn on Channel 11 by obliterating Captain Dungaree with a twist of the wrist and listen to soporifics on child psychology.

Go to college while diapering the squaller and drying the dishes. Marvelous, Carrie thought. Innocently, so did I. Even three-year-old David sounded gleeful. That's how insidious it is.

At first, we merely played second fiddle to a bachelor professor telling mothers of 16 and 18 tots how to rear their little ones. Then, the Russian language entered our home, and it proved to be chaos, while she struggled with impossible dipthongs and slides up and down the syllabic scale. I have never thought it possible to sneer with the same word that one smiled.

AS SOCIOLOGY and political science played their roles, David and I were "college orphans," our potatoes cold and tasteless, the center of our world bent over textbooks and endless themes.

Everyone fled my approach, after awhile, when burdened with interview papers she had given me for earth-quaking surveys, I strove to fill the void in the global ignorance. "Oh, no, not again," I could hear them mumble distastefully as I approached. "Let's duck," I heard them mutter as with laden arms I entered an empty room.

Political science corrupted me. I never want to hear the governor of any state again, repeating the same stale platform with the same shoulder-shrugging gestures, the identical build-up as the First Lady burst upon the scene, glamor struggling with good old corn - shucking friendliness.

THEN CAME the finals. Hurried conversations on the phone. These are written tests in The Presence. One must appear in the college with hundreds of other overburdened housewives, each revolving in her mind myriads of trivia like: "I must leave a note for the milkman to leave two quarts for Thursday, one pint Friday," and "beauty parlor appointment at five, Popeye bubble gum for David, gosh, what'll I leave Phil for dinner — I wonder how he'll like cold spaghetti?"

Babble of voices on the phone, as Carrie and Phil exchange last-minute notes. I must cover a village board meeting, won't be back until late. "If Imiss the bus," she reports, "I'll fall behind in the exam." "I can't," I exclaim, "the work's twice as heavy as usual today," and I'm going the other direction after I get home.

"Murder," she says, "it's always rush, rush, rush. David, climb out of the sink. Wait a minute, she hissed before I heard the splash of water.

"He insisted on taking a bath," she said, "the water's an inch deep on the bathroom floor. Okay, so, then you'll be home about ten or eleven, you said All right, so I'll see you later. There's cold cutlets in the frig and help yourself. David, I said, leave the bird alone. Oh, goodness, I got to hang up. He's got his head stuck in the birdcage. Goo'bye."

THE RECEIVER slammed down as I heard the pathetic squawk of a three-year-old whose head is caught in a birdcage. I sighed and put the phone down.

I got home late, rummaged in the frig. Cold cutlets tasted remarkably like raw liver and slid down with difficulty. I gulped huge draughts of milk and suffered later.

There were still a myriad of parakeet feathers lying loosely around the birdcage. I could hear the bird's squawks of terror when David's head appeared in the cage. I chuckled, then went downstairs to look for the baby-sitter watching teevee.

It was completely dark downstairs. No babysitter. For a moment, I grew frantic, then caught myself. He's upstairs, no doubt, in the baby's bedroom, probably lying down near David, probably both were sleeping.

AS I entered the room, a chill paralyzed my spine. The bedroom was empty. No sign of the babysitter, no sign of the baby.

I dashed down the stairs, my hair standing on end, and as I flung the door open, there stood the Maker of My Destiny, hands on her hips, blood in her eye.

"What's the big idea?" she demanded. "I've been ringing the bell for an hour."

"David," I gasped. "He's been — kidnapped"

There's nothing comparable to the look of withering scorn that can be given by a hausfrau, unless it is one given by a teevee-college educated hausfrau.

"Your son —" she began, then motioned to someone behind her. It was a village cop, a big redheaded giant with an embarrassed smile, who was carrying David in his arms. "I couldn't get a babysitter," Carrie went on, "had to take him with me to college. He upset the whole school, cried and carried on. They had to give him lactic acid — from the laboratory — out of a test tube.'

"I flunked my exam,(" she

"I flunked my exam," sh accused, "because he rubbed his grubby fingers smeared with candy over three of my best answers."

Just then David woke up, his eyes blinked, and he let out a wait. "Daa—aady," he yelled, reaching his pudgy fingers for me.

The cop smiled embarrassedly, Carrie's high - pitched voice went on and on, David clawed my cheek with one hand and my neck with the other as he plopped sleepily into my arms.

Education! I'm going to break a TV tube, just a little one. (B8

Journalist-Gymnast Tries Topsie Turvie

Bouncing Craze Sweeps Suburbs

Trampoline Lures Fans Of All Ages

by TOM McSHANE

There were these bouncing people, see; the air was full of 'em.

The first time I went by it on the train I thought I was seeing things. A slower inspection by automobile told me they really were there; all kinds and sizes, from skinny toddlers to white-haired gents with saggy middles.

Up and down they went, from knees to seat to tummy to back and up again toward the sky. Some laughed at a fall; others concentrated on the somersault.

And I thought of the hula hoop, and about what a crazy bunch we are, and about the guy down the street with a coin collection, and baseball and about how much fun this thing looked like, and how I ought to try it.

So I did. And, you know, it was the craziest thing, kind of like flying upside down or leaping from a 100-foot tower or hanging on to a pitching ship in a heavy sea storm.

Everyone got a big jolt out of watching a whale like me make a fool of himself. The guy that fills the soda pop machine was all busted up. And the Willes thought it was pretty funny, too. They own the place.

Anyway, I climbed aboard one of the Trampolines and started bouncing. Agile bull that I am, I thought I was doing all right just going up and down and staying on the thing.

Then I got off and this guy started spiraling all over the place, bouncing and twisting like a ballet dancer, doing flips and all those other tricks he learned in high school.

When I got back on I was determined to do one of those "seat drops." I bounced for awhile, then kicked my feet out in front and landed on the old posterior. You're supposed to come bouncing back up on your feet. Instead I went bouncing back on my back and watched some crazy-quilt clouds on the heaving pad till it stopped.

After several tries at this "easiest of tricks" I learned one thing—the clouds were breaking up.

So was the audience. They were in stitches.

I glanced at this kid on the next Trampoline. He was about 8 years old, and he was doing things that take a lot of courage and a pretty agile frame. I decided to bow out gracefully, so I tried one of those "knee drops" and ended up flat on my face.

I got off the thing under my own power. Then this one joker who was laughing so hard told me to jump up and down on the ground. What a weird feeling! After the give of the Trampoline springs, old terra firma felt pretty hard. I walked around awhile regaining my equilibrium.

After these crazy carryings-on I talked to Bill Wille about the business.

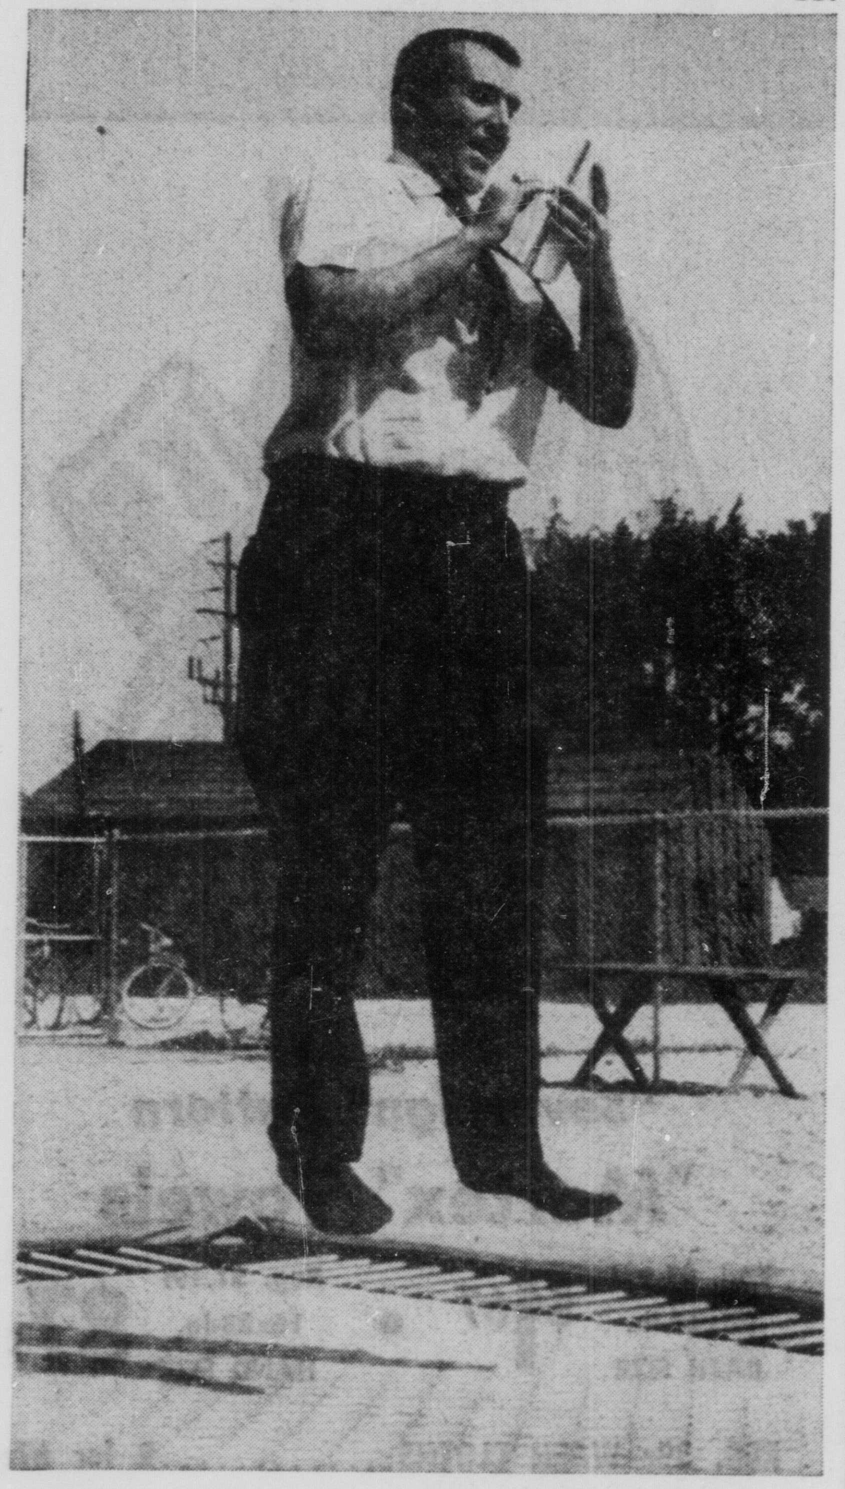
The center, called Topsie Turvie, is located on Northwest hwy., next to the Jewel Food store in Mt. Prospect. Bill and his three brothers opened it two weeks ago. This is the first one in the northwest suburbs. The centers gained immense popularity on the west coast, and now are moving across the country.

Wille was quick to point out that the Trampoline is fun for the entire family. Besides being good exercise, the sport is helpful for people who want to lose weight. I grunted.

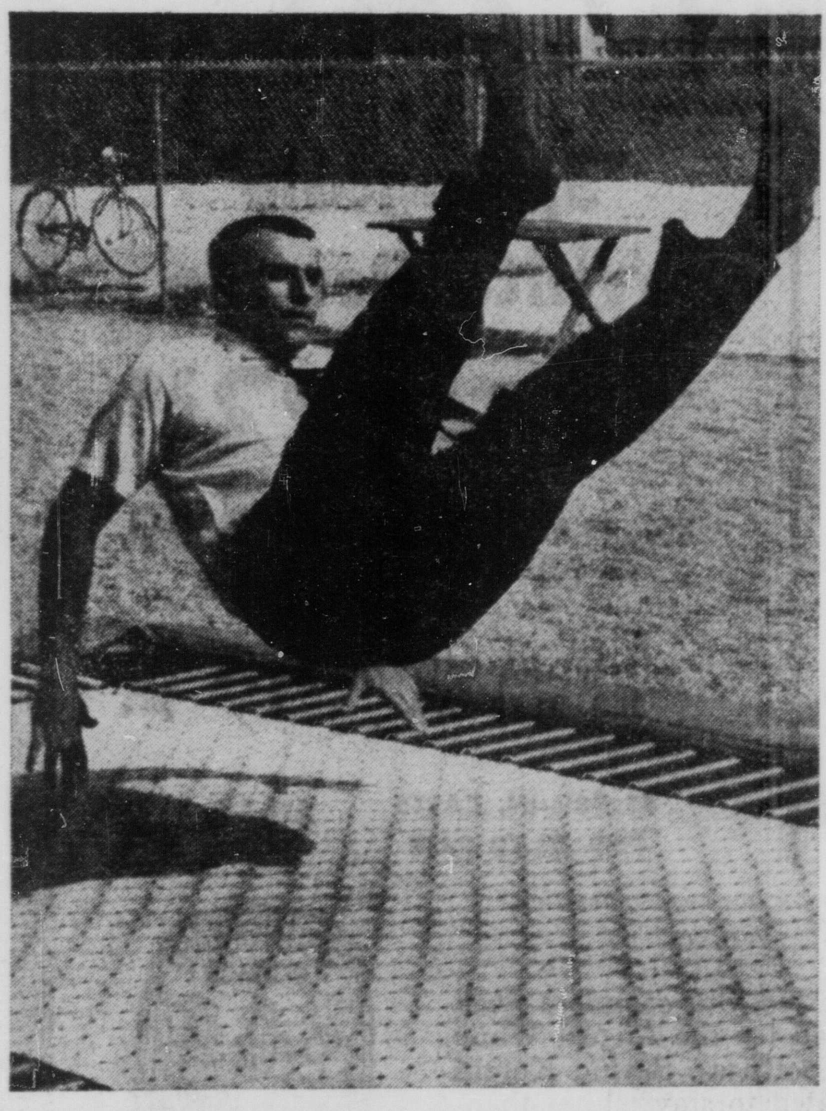
He said the most often voiced objection to the sport is the safety angle. But, he was quick to point out, if the rules are followed the Trampoline is as safe as most other forms of recreation.

The center, which is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., is offering lessons for anyone who wants to take up the sport. The students will go through three stages of training: beginning, intermediate, and advanced. By the time they graduate, they'll be able to do most of those twisting stunts we rank amateurs view with amazement.

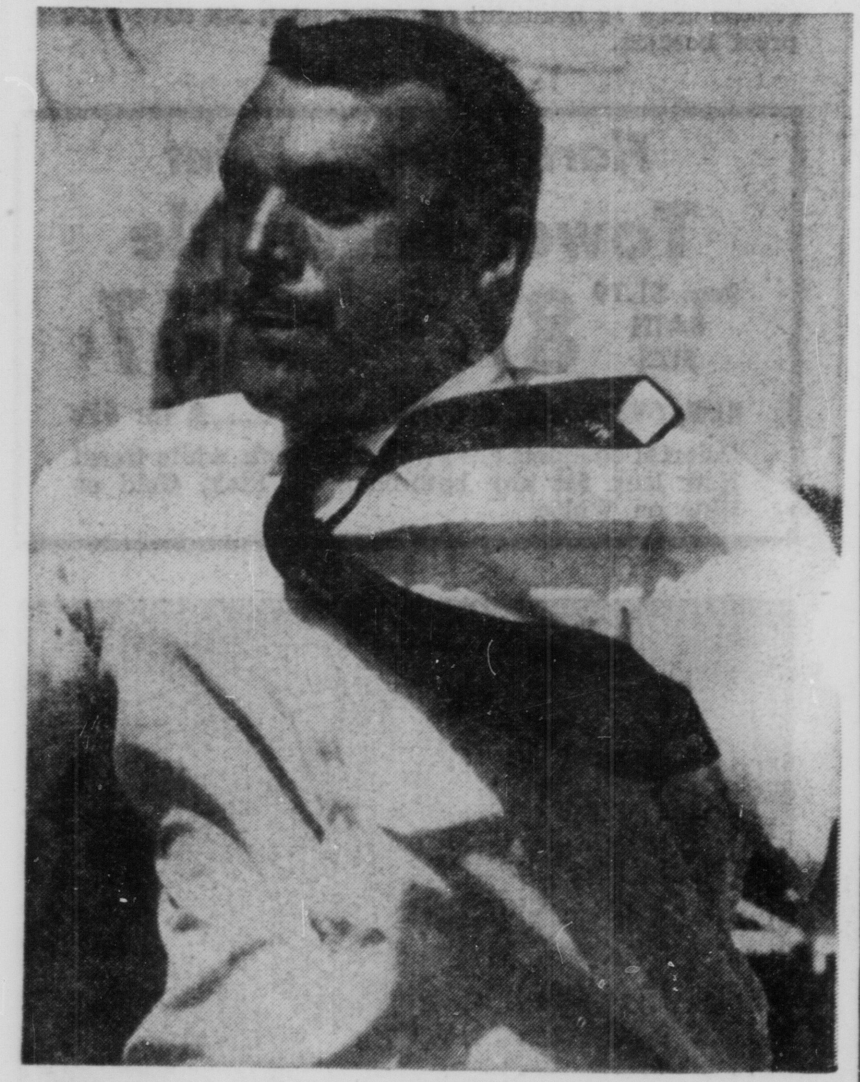
Maybe I ought to go back and try it just once more.



"Now . . . what . . . do . . . you . . . call these . . . contraptions?"



. . . AND, uh, and . . . some . . . equilibrium . . .



"It . . . just . . . takes . . . concentration . . .

Journalist-Gymnast Tries Topsie Turvie

Bouncing Craze Sweeps Suburbs

Trampoline Lures Fans Of All Ages

by TOM McSHANE

There were these bouncing people, see; the air was full of 'em.

The first time I went by it on the train I thought I was seeing things. A slower inspection by automobile told me they really were there; all kinds and sizes, from skinny toddlers to white-haired gents with saggy middles.

Up and down they went, from knees to seat to tummy to back and up again toward the sky. Some laughed at a fall; others concentrated on the somersault.

And I thought of the hula hoop, and about what a crazy bunch we are, and about the guy down the street with a coin collection, and baseball and about how much fun this thing looked like, and how I ought to try it.

So I did. And, you know, it was the craziest thing, kind of like flying upside down or leaping from a 100-foot tower or hanging on to a pitching ship in a heavy sea storm.

Everyone got a big jolt out of watching a whale like me make a fool of himself. The guy that fills the soda pop machine was all busted up. And the Willes thought it was pretty funny, too. They own the place.

Anyway, I climbed aboard one of the Trampolines and started bouncing. Agile bull that I am, I thought I was doing all right just going up and down and staying on the thing.

Then I got off and this guy started spiraling all over the place, bouncing and twisting like a ballet dancer, doing flips and all those other tricks he learned in high school.

When I got back on I was determined to do one of those "seat drops." I bounced for awhile, then kicked my feet out in front and landed on the old posterior. You're supposed to come bouncing back up on your feet. Instead I went bouncing back on my back and watched some crazy-quilt clouds on the heaving pad till it stopped.

After several tries at this "easiest of tricks" I learned one thing—the clouds were breaking up.

So was the audience. They were in stitches.

I glanced at this kid on the next Trampoline. He was about 8 years old, and he was doing things that take a lot of courage and a pretty agile frame. I decided to bow out gracefully, so I tried one of those "knee drops" and ended up flat on my face.

I got off the thing under my own power. Then this one joker who was laughing so hard told me to jump up and down on the ground. What a weird feeling! After the give of the Trampoline springs, old terra firma felt pretty hard. I walked around awhile regaining my equilibrium.

After these crazy carryings-on I talked to Bill Wille about the business.

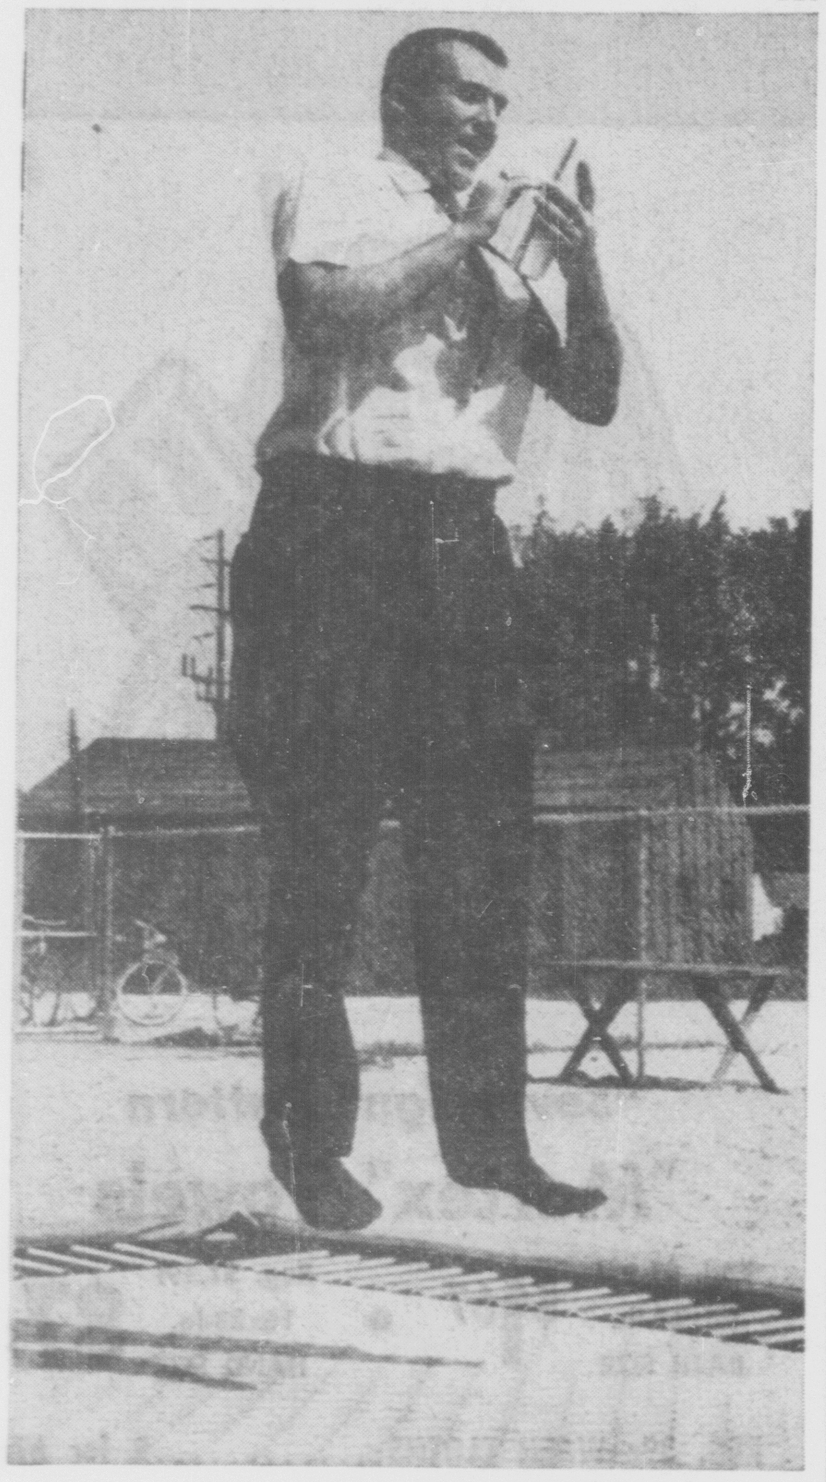
The center, called Topsie Turvie, is located on Northwest hwy., next to the Jewel Food store in Mt. Prospect. Bill and his three brothers opened it two weeks ago. This is the first one in the northwest suburbs. The centers gained immense popularity on the west coast, and now are moving across the country.

Wille was quick to point out that the Trampoline is fun for the entire family. Besides being good exercise, the sport is helpful for people who want to lose weight. I grunted.

He said the most often voiced objection to the sport is the safety angle. But, he was quick to point out, if the rules are followed the Trampoline is as safe as most other forms of recreation.

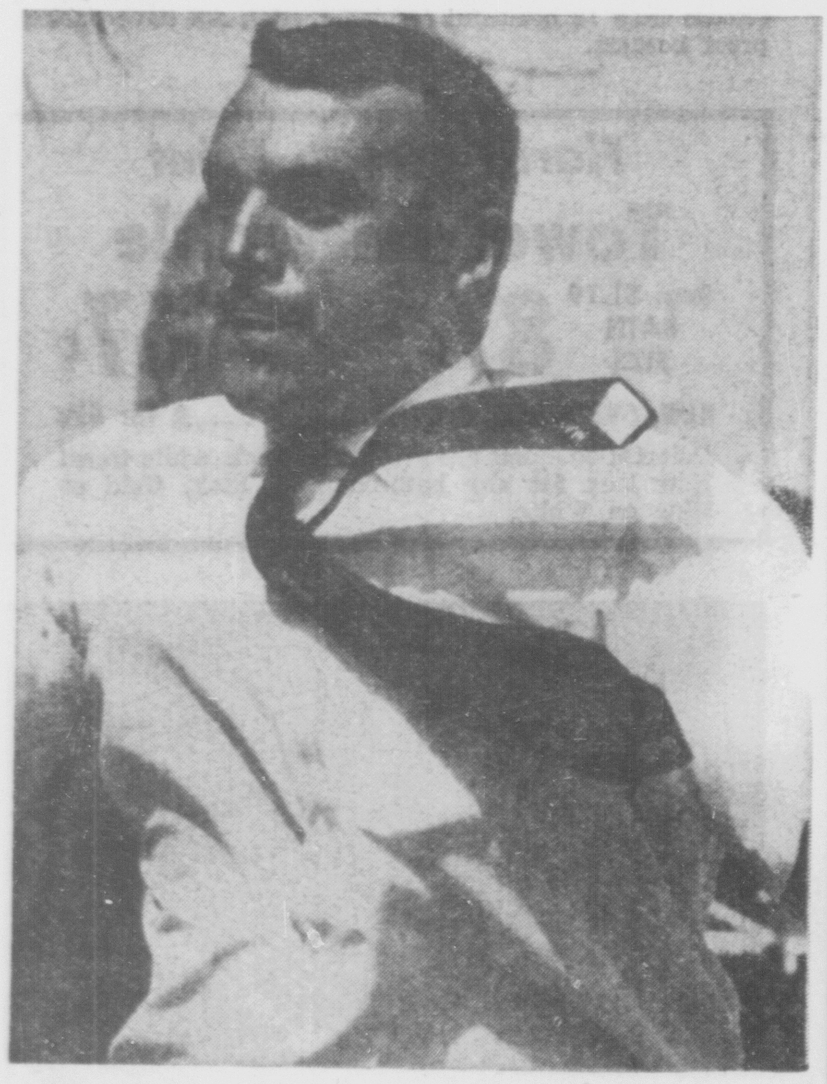
The center, which is open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., is offering lessons for anyone who wants to take up the sport. The students will go through three stages of training: beginning, intermediate, and advanced. By the time they graduate, they'll be able to do most of those twisting stunts we rank amateurs view with amazement.

Maybe I ought to go back and try it just once more.



"Now . . . what . . . do . . . you . . . call these . . . contraptions?"

. . . AND, uh, and . . . some . . . equilibrium . . .



"It . . . just . . . takes . . . concentration . . .

. . . to be successful."

Q. Does a woman ever rise when a man extends his hand either to greet her or bid her goodby?

A. As a hostess, yes — but not otherwise, unless the man is an important personage or very elderly.

Q. When a bride is writing her thank-you notes for wedding gifts received, does she write also to the bridegroom's mother and father, and to his sisters and brothers for the gifts they gave?

A. This is not necessary if she has been able to give them her sincere, verbal thanks.

Q. We would like to give money to my husband's niece for a wedding present. Is it all right for us to hand the check to her at the wedding reception?

A. This would be in very poor taste. Correctly, you send your check to the bride soon after the receipt of your wedding invitation.

RIDGE PARK

Former Arlington Heighters, the Jack Buckley family of Evanston were Saturday guests in the Eldon Robson home, 927 N. Chicago.

A leisurely 10-day tour around Lake Michigan was the recent pleasure of the Edward H. Merges family, 834 N. Harvard. They visited friends in Bangor, Mich., enjoyed a day on Mackinac Island and on the return route through Wisconsin stopped briefly in Door county. There was ample time on their no-hurry schedule for the children to have swims on both the Michigan and Wisconsin shores of the lake as their parents enjoyed the scenic beauties of both states.

Susan Hosang, 901 N. Patton, is home from a 2½-week vacation in the Bahamas with her grandparents, the A. W. Dietrichs of West Palm Beach, Fla. They enjoyed a cruise among the islands with sightseeing and much shopping on New Providence, especially in its capitol, Nassau. Several of Susan's local friends are now smartly and uniquely straw-hatted with souvenir gifts from Susan which are the specialty of the islands. The teenage traveller returned home by jet a week ago Tuesday.

Mrs. Andrew Lofquist, 910 N. Kennicott, returned early last week from a 5-day visit in Branch, Mich., with her mother, Mrs. John M. Underwood. The Lofquists' son, John, in the air force reserve, returned Sunday from two weeks with the service in Wichita Falls, Texas. Mrs. Lofquist's vacation was much cooler than her son's.

MR. AND MRS. Russell Carlson and the children recently returned to 636 N. Salem after a visit in Clearwater, Fla., with the senior Mrs. Carlson and sightseeing in the southern states. They were away two weeks and visited many of the historic sites on a leisurely return route.

Everybody on the 800 block of N. Fernandez who wasn't away on a vacation a week ago Sunday was dining, dancing and whooping it up at a block party held all along the roped - off - for - the - occasion street. As far as the "hausfraus" were concerned, the best part was the men doing the cooking. The chefs, therefore, were happy that each woman contributed an item to the menu. There were games for the little people and for their parents, too, with prizes for everyone. Cartoons were shown for the children and equally appreciated by the adults, and when the children were put to bed street dancing climaxed the energetic day for the grown-ups. Twenty-three adults and 21 children rested a good part of the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rossiter, 809 N. Patton, returned last Wednesday after a 3½-week vacation of visiting, sightseeing and lots of driving along the west coast. They visited Mr. Rossiter's brother in Denver and Mrs. Rossiter's brother in Corvallis, Ore. There was some deep sea fishing, attending a wild west gun show and touring the Pacific northwest mountain and coastal areas on the schedule, with just enough plain relaxing to bring the Rossiters home well rested.

SANDY SCHULTHEIS, 826 N. Harvard, Lynn Buckley, 1404 W. Elm, and Shirley Elsner, 819 N. Kaspar, are half of a group of local lassies who left recently for two weeks at Camp Norwesco in New Auburn, Wis. They'll be home August 1.

A dinner party for eight local, Wheeling and Skokie friends Saturday night included an after-dinner bridge session in the Joseph Heinz home, 906 N. Patton.

Marge Lurtz celebrated her 15th birthday Sunday at a swim party and buffet supper with 25 Chicago and west coast family members in the Lurtz home, 909 N. Patton, with the splashy part of the party in the back yard pool Guests included a few California relatives who are currently visiting in the Chicago area.

The C. W. Burens, 821 N. Harvard, eluded the local weekend heat wave with a cool, refreshing stay at Lake Superior, near Ashland, Wis.

If Mr. and Mrs. William Groh, are seen waltzing while doing the weeding or mowing the lawn at 912 N. Chicago it's because they're still happy and excited about winning a cup for excellence in the waltz. They placed first and won the cup at the recent St. James Catholic parish barbeque picnic and dance contest that had nearly 100 couples in competition.

MR. AND MRS. Jerry Mockenhaupt recently returned from New Jersey, where they attended the National Housewares show in Atlantic City and visited with Mrs. Mockenhaupt's sister in Summit. A guest last week in the Mockenhaupt home, 818 N. Harvard, was Jane Warren, daughter of former Ridge Parkers the William Warrens of Detroit. Jane was Lynn's guest for a week and returned to Michigan Tuesday.

Weekend guests in the William Frost home, 1225 W. Oakton, were Mrs. Frost's mother, uncle and aunt, Mrs. Vivian Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beneke, all of Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Miller, Marsha and Paul of Phoenix, Ariz., were visitors for four days last week at the home of Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bauer, 804 W. Elm. The Millers began their vacation with a 4-day stay in Denver, where they attended a family wedding before coming here. After they left Arlington Heights last Wednesday, they spent a few days in Springfield, Mo., with the senior Mrs. Miller and then began the homeward trip.

Jeffrey Platt, 806 N. Kennicott, and Dale Kluesing, 905 N. Salem, were among local boys camping for the weekend in Busse woods. Mr. Kluesing spent Friday overnight with the boys.

SHERWOOD

Among Sherwood boy scouts who were weekend campers in Busse Woods was Alan Carlson, 1314 N. Harvard. Alan's dad overnighted Friday with Alan and the others.

Girl-type scouts like camping too, and Mary Ehrke, 1106 N. Patton and Jeanne DeWilde, 1102 Burgoyne, are having two weeks of it at Camp Norwesco in New Auburn, Wis. They will be at the camp until August 1.

The Paul Fellinghams, 1145 N. Patton, returned Saturday from a 3-week trip to the west coast and a return by way of Minneapolis. They went by train all the way and came home not at all road-weary. In San Francisco they visited business friends of Mr. Fellinghams', then entrained for Washington, where they divided their stay between a sister, Miss Ruth Fellingham in Spokane, and other relatives in Seattle. On the way home, via the northern route, they enjoyed a stay with Mrs. Fellinghams' sister, Mrs. John Monroe and her family.

Your square dance news correspondent had a delightful busman's holiday, watching square dancing, during her annual two weeks in the old home town in the White Lake area, Mich. Part of a 3-day centennial celebration in Whitehall was the outdoor dancing, in authentic costume, of the town's well-loved "Swedish Dancers."

Scandinavian folk dances, the cherished Maypole dance and good old American square dances were performed by over 200 dancers, rehearsed and directed by Mrs. Carl Beausang of Whitehall, coincidentally reigning as Centennial Queen.

In the grassy park they twirled, they hopped and they do-ci-doed, the brilliant reds, blues and yellows of their Swedish dress sometimes blurring with the speed of the dance. Here and there a slipper flew into the air, a hat or bonnet bounced off, a ribbon worked loose and dropped to the ground. It was great good fun. And impressive. Whitehall's "Swedish Dancers" are children from 10 to 14 years old.

Swingin' Pairs

News of a July 9 square dance co-sponsored by Barrington's Swingin' Pairs and the TNT club of North Chicago reached this desk during vacation time and missed the pre-dance edition. Still timely however is information that the committees of both clubs are busy with plans for newcomer dances in the fall and with their regular club program. Information about the TNTs may be obtained by calling Jackson 6-4851; the Swingin' Pairs, Dunkirk 1-2180.

Swingin' Squares

The annual Swingin' Squares family picnic will be held Sunday at Prairie club camp in Deer Grove. Directions are being mailed to members and registered guests and others interested in coming to the picnic may call Harry Ryan CL 3-0750. There will be games, refreshments, dancing and fun for all the family from 11 in the morning until dark.

Recently elected officers for the 1960-61 season are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan of Arlington Heights as co-presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wuest of Rolling Meadows, co-treasurers and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sloss, co-secretaries.

THEY ANNOUNCE that the club has acquired the services of caller Don Finfrock who will start the Swingin' Squares eighth season September 2. All dances will be held in the Recreation Park field house, Arlington Heights, and the season lasts through April 1961. Regularly scheduled dances begin at 8:30 p.m. and end at 11, with a social and refreshment hour immediately following, and will be held the first and third Friday night of each month. (A13

Egyptian, 5, Faces Surgery

Wrap Gifts for Roger

How to gift wrap a goldfish was a major problem Sunday evening in the David Bone home, 704 N. Salem, Arlington Heights, where local friends joined members of Mrs. Bone's Sunday school class at a "Wrapping for Roger" party.

Roger is the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Hanna Rehayem of Alexandria, Egypt, who arrives in Chicago this week for delicate heart surgery in Children's Memorial hospital.

The task of gift wrapping dime store presents for Roger, one for each day of his hospitalization, was converted into a party in the Bone home and everyone did fine until they came to the fish. He still swims free, but Mrs. Bone vows Roger will get the finny gift of a local donor if she has to walk him to Chicago.

THE BONDS that Sunday night tied Alexandria, Egypt to Arlington Heights, U.S.A. are easily agitated consciences and American generosity. William Liebetrau of Chicago is a letter-writing stamp collector who two years ago began corresponding to three employees of a bank in Alexandria. Roger's father was one of them.

Early this year Liebetrau learned through the other two men than the Rehayems had recently learned Roger's heart needed corrective surgery and the little boy, their only son, couldn't live without it.

There is no surgical center in the Mideast equipped to operate on Roger and the family could not finance a trip to America.

LIEBETRAU'S conscience began to prickle. He couldn't afford the $3000 the Rehayems were told they'd need but he decided he'd get them here somehow. A May 31 edition of the Chicago Sun-Times tells the full story of his efforts. Involved are the Egyptian government, our State Department, airlines, doctors, banks and newspapers.

Mrs. Bone read the story and her conscience began to make itself felt. She contacted Liebetrau, decided on the gift idea and began calling local friends.

Roger and his mother arrive at O'Hare airport 6:15 tomorrow night and Liebetrau, his wife and daughter. Crystal will be there to greet them. He'll spend his two-week vacation chauffeuring Mrs. Rehayem to and from the hospital and at the hospital will be a gift a day from Arlington Heighters, including a clerk in the dime store who overheard Mrs. Bone's reason for shopping.

There's still need for dollars and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. is still acting as collection agency. The bank's address is 231 S. LaSalle and the department handling donations is "Lifeline for Roger" Fund, P.O. Box 1959, Chicago 90, Ill. It's amazing how single dollar donations can add up when lots of people contribute; almost as amazing as the lots of people there are in the Arlington Heights area. (A

Hasbrook Women on Homeowners Panel

Is the home really built well? Does the builder live up to his promises? What are the hidden costs of buying a home that you ran into?

These are some of the questions that are expected to be tossed at a panel of women homeowners Sunday, July 31, at Hasbrook Construction Co.'s 531-home development in Arlington Heights.

THE 3-WOMAN panel will enable home prospects to "ask the gal who owns one" from 3 to 6 p.m. Panelists will be:

Mrs. John Alderson, 608 W. Thomas, Mrs. Richard Blassey, 1730 N. Ridge, and Mrs. Herbert Abrahamson, 1537 N. Ridge.

"Housing experts tell you that the best way to judge a house is by asking someone who's bought one like it," according to James Welch, sales manager. "This panel will make the job easy."

MRS. ALDERSON owned a home before moving to Hasbrook. Mrs. Blassey and Mrs. Abrahamson are both first-time owners.

"These women are typical of the owners we have," Welch said. "They've been through the home-buying process, and can answer just about any questions you can think of."

The Hasbrook subdivision is on Palatine rd. one mile west of Arlington Heights rd. (A

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Miller, Marsha and Paul of Phoenix, Ariz., were visitors for four days last week at the home of Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bauer, 804 W. Elm. The Millers began their vacation with a 4-day stay in Denver, where they attended a family wedding before coming here. After they left Arlington Heights last Wednesday, they spent a few days in Springfield, Mo., with the senior Mrs. Miller and then began the homeward trip.

Jeffrey Platt, 806 N. Kennicott, and Dale Kluesing, 905 N. Salem, were among local boys camping for the weekend in Busse woods. Mr. Kluesing spent Friday overnight with the boys.

SHERWOOD

Among Sherwood boy scouts who were weekend campers in Busse Woods was Alan Carlson, 1314 N. Harvard. Alan's dad overnighted Friday with Alan and the others.

Girl-type scouts like camping too, and Mary Ehrke, 1106 N. Patton and Jeanne DeWilde, 1102 Burgoyne, are having two weeks of it at Camp Norwesco in New Auburn, Wis. They will be at the camp until August 1.

The Paul Fellinghams, 1145 N. Patton, returned Saturday from a 3-week trip to the west coast and a return by way of Minneapolis. They went by train all the way and came home not at all road-weary. In San Francisco they visited business friends of Mr. Fellinghams', then entrained for Washington, where they divided their stay between a sister, Miss Ruth Fellingham in Spokane, and other relatives in Seattle. On the way home, via the northern route, they enjoyed a stay with Mrs. Fellinghams' sister, Mrs. John Monroe and her family.

For the next two weeks this column will continue to be written by Dorothy Meyer. News items may be phoned in to her at CLearbrook 3-2298

Wrap Gifts for Roger

How to gift wrap a goldfish was a major problem Sunday evening in the David Bone home, 704 N. Salem, Arlington Heights, where local friends joined members of Mrs. Bone's Sunday school class at a "Wrapping for Roger" party.

Roger is the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antoine Hanna Rehayem of Alexandria, Egypt, who arrives in Chicago this week for delicate heart surgery in Children's Memorial hospital.

The task of gift wrapping dime store presents for Roger, one for each day of his hospitalization, was converted into a party in the Bone home and everyone did fine until they came to the fish. He still swims free, but Mrs. Bone vows Roger will get the finny gift of a local donor if she has to walk him to Chicago.

THE BONDS that Sunday night tied Alexandria, Egypt to Arlington Heights, U.S.A. are easily agitated consciences and American generosity. William Liebetrau of Chicago is a letter-writing stamp collector who two years ago began corresponding to three employees of a bank in Alexandria. Roger's father was one of them.

Early this year Liebetrau learned through the other two men than the Rehayems had recently learned Roger's heart needed corrective surgery and the little boy, their only son, couldn't live without it.

There is no surgical center in the Mideast equipped to operate on Roger and the family could not finance a trip to America.

LIEBETRAU'S conscience began to prickle. He couldn't afford the $3000 the Rehayems were told they'd need but he decided he'd get them here somehow. A May 31 edition of the Chicago Sun-Times tells the full story of his efforts. Involved are the Egyptian government, our State Department, airlines, doctors, banks and newspapers.

Mrs. Bone read the story and her conscience began to make itself felt. She contacted Liebetrau, decided on the gift idea and began calling local friends.

Roger and his mother arrive at O'Hare airport 6:15 tomorrow night and Liebetrau, his wife and daughter. Crystal will be there to greet them. He'll spend his two-week vacation chauffeuring Mrs. Rehayem to and from the hospital and at the hospital will be a gift a day from Arlington Heighters, including a clerk in the dime store who overheard Mrs. Bone's reason for shopping.

There's still need for dollars and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. is still acting as collection agency. The bank's address is 231 S. LaSalle and the department handling donations is "Lifeline for Roger" Fund, P.O. Box 1959, Chicago 90, Ill. It's amazing how single dollar donations can add up when lots of people contribute; almost as amazing as the lots of people there are in the Arlington Heights area. (A

Is the home really built well? Does the builder live up to his promises? What are the hidden costs of buying a home that you ran into?

These are some of the questions that are expected to be tossed at a panel of women homeowners Sunday, July 31, at Hasbrook Construction Co.'s 531-home development in Arlington Heights.

THE 3-WOMAN panel will enable home prospects to "ask the gal who owns one" from 3 to 6 p.m. Panelists will be:

Mrs. John Alderson, 608 W. Thomas, Mrs. Richard Blassey, 1730 N. Ridge, and Mrs. Herbert Abrahamson, 1537 N. Ridge.

"Housing experts tell you that the best way to judge a house is by asking someone who's bought one like it," according to James Welch, sales manager. "This panel will make the job easy."

MRS. ALDERSON owned a home before moving to Hasbrook. Mrs. Blassey and Mrs. Abrahamson are both first-time owners.

"These women are typical of the owners we have," Welch said. "They've been through the home-buying process, and can answer just about any questions you can think of."

The Hasbrook subdivision is on Palatine rd. one mile west of Arlington Heights rd. (A

Square Dance Club News

Dorothy Meyer CLearbrook 5-2298

by DOROTHY MEYER

Your square dance news correspondent had a delightful busman's holiday, watching square dancing, during her annual two weeks in the old home town in the White Lake area, Mich. Part of a 3-day centennial celebration in Whitehall was the outdoor dancing, in authentic costume, of the town's well-loved "Swedish Dancers."

Scandinavian folk dances, the cherished Maypole dance and good old American square dances were performed by over 200 dancers, rehearsed and directed by Mrs. Carl Beausang of Whitehall, coincidentally reigning as Centennial Queen.

In the grassy park they twirled, they hopped and they do-ci-doed, the brilliant reds, blues and yellows of their Swedish dress sometimes blurring with the speed of the dance. Here and there a slipper flew into the air, a hat or bonnet bounced off, a ribbon worked loose and dropped to the ground. It was great good fun. And impressive. Whitehall's "Swedish Dancers" are children from 10 to 14 years old.

Swingin' Pairs

News of a July 9 square dance co-sponsored by Barrington's Swingin' Pairs and the TNT club of North Chicago reached this desk during vacation time and missed the pre-dance edition. Still timely however is information that the committees of both clubs are busy with plans for newcomer dances in the fall and with their regular club program. Information about the TNTs may be obtained by calling Jackson 6-4851; the Swingin' Pairs, Dunkirk 1-2180.

Swingin' Squares

The annual Swingin' Squares family picnic will be held Sunday at Prairie club camp in Deer Grove. Directions are being mailed to members and registered guests and others interested in coming to the picnic may call Harry Ryan CL 3-0750. There will be games, refreshments, dancing and fun for all the family from 11 in the morning until dark.

Recently elected officers for the 1960-61 season are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ryan of Arlington Heights as co-presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wuest of Rolling Meadows, co-treasurers and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sloss, co-secretaries.

THEY ANNOUNCE that the club has acquired the services of caller Don Finfrock who will start the Swingin' Squares eighth season September 2. All dances will be held in the Recreation Park field house, Arlington Heights, and the season lasts through April 1961. Regularly scheduled dances begin at 8:30 p.m. and end at 11, with a social and refreshment hour immediately following, and will be held the first and third Friday night of each month. (A13

Eastwood Events

Vacation comings and goings are the main summertime interests of our Eastwood neighbors; and trips to all points of the compass have been on their agenda.

The first vacation of the William Edgerton family of 630 N. Dryden started out with their attendance at the wedding of a niece in Albion, Mich, and since they figured they were partly there, they decided to keep on going, via Canada, to see Niagara Falls, a spot they had always talked of visiting. After arriving home the Edgertons took off again, but toward the West this time, where they visited for one week with Mrs. Edgerton's mother, Mrs. Olga Bergeman, in Manketo, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lollar of 634 N. Dryden spent the weekend with friends in LaCrosse, Wis. While they were away, their daughters Julie and Cindy, enjoyed a stay from Friday to Monday with their paternal grandparents.

[illegible] return her 8-year old niece, Claudia Kassel, to her home in San Jose, Cal. was the occasion for Mrs. Carl Carlman's train trip to the west coast. Claudia, who flew here alone, had spent two weeks visiting the Carlmans. Sightseeing in and around San Francisco highlighted Mrs. Carlman's visit.

BEFORE getting home she had the opportunity to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carlman, her sister-and-brother-in-law, of 410 N. Dryden, who were also in San Francisco at that time. The Fred Carlmans, who were traveling by train, visited in Los Angeles and Los Vegas.

Touring the state of Colorado with stops at Colorado Springs, Denver and Estes Park was the vacation trip of Mr. and Mrs. William Lenheim of N. Beverly lane. They returned home by way of the Black Hills and the Badlands.

Colorado was also the vacation destination of the Wollert Ellertson family of N. Euclid ave. For 12 days they visited in Colorado Springs, Aspen, Grand Lake, Estes Park and Denver.

Another Western vacation was that of Mrs. Leon McKnight and her son Roger of 211 N. Brighton, who drove to Sacramento, Cal., where they were joined by Mr. McKnight who flew from southern California where he was on a business trip. The McKnight family then drove up the coast to San Francisco and Portland, and on into Seattle where they visited with relatives. From there they journeyed home via the northern route.

BUD AND Delores Scully and their three daughters, Claudia, Celine and Jeanie vacationed in Pembine, Wis. at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Hodel, parents of Mrs. Scully. For two weeks they enjoyed lovely weather, and fished and swam and relaxed the days away all too quickly.

An outdoor party, complete with Japanese lanterns and community singing, was given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson in their home on N. Beverly for all the employees of Harris drug store. Next door neighbors, the Manchees, were also guests at the party. (A

Crusade Film Here Sunday

The documentary film of the Billy Graham crusade in Australia and New Zealand, the "Southern Cross Crusade," will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 31 in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church. The meeting is open to the public.

The film sound presents a comprehensive coverage of Dr. Graham's "down under" campaign and is perhaps his most successful.

Dr. Graham has agreed to conduct a crusade in Chicago in 1962. (A

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT MENTAL HEALTH AND OTHER PUBLIC WELFARE INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $150,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by the State of Illinois.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, general election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $150,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve overcrowded conditions by making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Department of Public Welfare.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Public Welfare Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Public Welfare Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as provided in this Act have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation of such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $150,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a separate ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds", enacted by the Seventy-first General Assembly, become effective and the State of Illinois contract a debt of $150,000,000 and issue serial bonds to that amount bearing not to exceed 4% interest pursuant to said Act to provide funds for permanent improvements for mental health and other public welfare institutions of the State of Illinois, and shall the State of Illinois levy annually a direct tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall accrue and to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds within 25 years from their date, in accordance with said Act, which Act provides that, to the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer of funds from time to time from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by said Act, and to the extent that money is so transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose, then the appropriate officers in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax shall make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the taxes to be levied and such tax shall be abated in that amount?	YES
	NO

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and a declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least 2 daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Section 9. If any section, sentence or clause of this Act is for any reason held invalid or to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act.

Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. (Approved July 22, 1959.)

The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University, Illinois State Normal University, Northern Illinois University, and Western Illinois University.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes the acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings. (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $195,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve over-crowded conditions by making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University and the Teachers College Board.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Universities Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Universities Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Universities Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Universities Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as herein provided have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation for such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $195,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. Eastwood Events

Vacation comings and goings are the main summertime interests of our Eastwood neighbors; and trips to all points of the compass have been on their agenda.

The first vacation of the William Edgerton family of 630 N. Dryden started out with their attendance at the wedding of a niece in Albion, Mich, and since they figured they were partly there, they decided to keep on going, via Canada, to see Niagara Falls, a spot they had always talked of visiting. After arriving home the Edgertons took off again, but toward the West this time, where they visited for one week with Mrs. Edgerton's mother, Mrs. Olga Bergeman, in Manketo, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lollar of 634 N. Dryden spent the weekend with friends in LaCrosse, Wis. While they were away, their daughters Julie and Cindy, enjoyed a stay from Friday to Monday with their paternal grandparents.

To return her 8-year old niece, Claudia Kassel, to her home in San Jose, Cal. was the occasion for Mrs. Carl Carlman's train trip to the west coast. Claudia, who flew here alone, had spent two weeks visiting the Carlmans. Sightseeing in and around San Francisco highlighted Mrs. Carlman's visit.

BEFORE getting home she had the opportunity to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carlman, her sister-and-brother-in-law, of 410 N. Dryden, who were also in San Francisco at that time. The Fred Carlmans, who were traveling by train, visited in Los Angeles and Los Vegas.

Touring the state of Colorado with stops at Colorado Springs, Denver and Estes Park was the vacation trip of Mr. and Mrs. William Lenheim of N. Beverly lane. They returned home by way of the Black Hills and the Badlands.

Colorado was also the vacation destination of the Wollert Ellertson family of N. Euclid ave. For 12 days they visited in Colorado Springs, Aspen, Grand Lake, Estes Park and Denver.

Another Western vacation was that of Mrs. Leon McKnight and her son Roger of 211 N. Brighton, who drove to Sacramento, Cal., where they were joined by Mr. McKnight who flew from southern California where he was on a business trip. The McKnight family then drove up the coast to San Francisco and Portland, and on into Seattle where they visited with relatives. From there they journeyed home via the northern route.

BUD AND Delores Scully and their three daughters, Claudia, Celine and Jeanie vacationed in Pembine, Wis. at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Hodel, parents of Mrs. Scully. For two weeks they enjoyed lovely weather, and fished and swam and relaxed the days away all too quickly.

An outdoor party, complete with Japanese lanterns and community singing, was given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson in their home on N. Beverly for all the employees of Harris drug store. Next door neighbors, the Manchees, were also guests at the party. (A "MOTHER GOOSE Dream" and "A Family in Space" will be presented both nights. In addition, the Thursday audience will see "Jack and Jill" and "The Weatherman on Trial." The Friday audience will see "Alice's House Warming."

Despite vacations, measles and other interruptions, all of the children enrolled have been included in the cast. The plays are under the direction of Sharon L. Smith with the assistance of Harriet Smith. (A

Crusade Film Here Sunday

The documentary film of the Billy Graham crusade in Australia and New Zealand, the "Southern Cross Crusade," will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 31 in Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church. The meeting is open to the public.

The film sound presents a comprehensive coverage of Dr. Graham's "down under" campaign and is perhaps his most successful.

Dr. Graham has agreed to conduct a crusade in Chicago in 1962. (A

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS AT MENTAL HEALTH AND OTHER PUBLIC WELFARE INSTITUTIONS OWNED BY THIS STATE ACT AND BOND ISSUE

Voters at the November 8, 1960, general election will be afforded the opportunity to vote on a proposal for a bond issue which is essentially as follows: Shall the State of Illinois borrow $150,000,000 for a building program in order to relieve overcrowded conditions at the State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions?

The detailed provisions are contained in a law which was passed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly and approved by the Governor. The text of the act is published below, as required by the State constitution. The following Statement and Suggestions has been prepared to afford a proper understanding of the proposition to be voted on.

STATEMENT AND SUGGESTIONS

Scope of the Building Program. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by the State of Illinois.

The term "permanent improvements" is defined in Section 3 of the act and includes acquisition of land as well as the construction, enlargement, and rehabilitation of buildings (Future General Assemblies will determine what specific improvements are to be made.)

Term, Interest, and Sale of Bonds. The bonds are to be fully retired within 25 years of issue, and they are to bear 4 per cent annual interest. They are to be sold, after newspaper advertising, to the "highest and best bidder, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids."

Payments to be Made. Payments on the principal and interest of the bonds are to be made, as they become due, from a Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, as provided in Section 5 of the act.

In order that this Bond Fund contain sufficient moneys to meet the required payments, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, of State funds from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund. The General Revenue Fund is supported by a major portion of the tax revenues of the State. If the General Assembly should fail to direct such transfers of funds, then Section 6 of the Act, which levies a property tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation, will be in full force and effect. The proceeds of this tax, if levied, shall be paid into this Bond Fund for the purpose of making payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. However, if sufficient money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to this Bond Fund to meet the required payments, then no tax levy will be necessary and none will be made.

Referendum Requirement. The act providing for this bond issue will go into full force and effect only if it receives a majority of the votes cast for members of the General Assembly at the November 8, 1960, general election. The proposition is to be submitted on a separate ballot, except that where voting machines are in use, such machines may be used to vote upon the proposition.

The form of ballot is given below in the text of the act. (The ballot itself, as well as the act, should be studied now.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $150,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve overcrowded conditions by making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Department of Public Welfare.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall bear interest, payable annually, from their date, at the rate of not more than 4% per annum. They shall be serial bonds and be dated, issued and sold from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary to provide sufficient money to make improvements provided for in this Act. Each bond shall be in the denomination of $1000.00 or some multiple thereof, and shall be made payable within 25 years from its date. These bonds shall be signed by the Governor and attested by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State and countersigned by the State Treasurer. The signatures of the Governor and the Secretary of State may be lithographed facsimile signatures. Interest coupons with lithographed facsimile signatures of the Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer may be attached to the bonds. The fact that an officer whose signature or facsimile thereof appears on a bond or interest coupon no longer holds such office at the time the bond or coupon is delivered shall not invalidate such bond or interest coupon.

Pending the preparation and execution of any such bonds, temporary bonds may be issued with or without interest coupons. The bonds shall be sold to the highest and best bidders, for not less than their par value, upon sealed bids. The Board shall, from time to time as bonds are to be sold, advertise in at least 2 daily newspapers one of which is published in the City of Springfield and one in the City of Chicago for proposals to purchase the bonds. Each of such advertisements for proposals shall be published at least 10 days prior to the date of the opening of the bids. The Board may reserve the right to reject any and all bids. The bonds may, at the request of owners, be registered with the Secretary of State. The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Public Welfare Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State owned mental health and other public welfare institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The State Treasurer may, with the approval of the Governor, invest and reinvest, at the existing market price and in any event not to exceed 102% of par plus accrued interest, any money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the State treasury which, in the opinion of the Governor communicated in writing to the State Treasurer, is not needed for current expenditures due or about to become due from such fund, in obligations of the United States Government maturing not more than one year after the date of purchase. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Public Welfare Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

All earnings accruing upon such investment shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury, which separate fund in the State treasury is hereby created. All of the moneys received from the sale or redemption of such obligations of the United States Government shall be replaced in the Public Welfare Building Fund.

Section 5. To the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer, from time to time, from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund of sufficient money to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by this Act, as the same become due, and to the extent such transfer of funds is authorized by the General Assembly for that purpose, the taxes levied for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as provided by Section 6 of this Act shall be abated.

Section 6. Each year, after this Act becomes fully operative, and until all of the bonds issued as provided in this Act have been retired, there is levied a direct annual tax upon all real and personal property in this State subject to taxation of such amount as shall be necessary and sufficient to pay the interest annually, as it shall accrue, on all bonds issued under the provisions of this Act and also to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds at par value, as such bonds fall due; and the amounts of such direct annual tax shall be appropriated for that specific purpose.

The proceeds of this tax shall be paid into the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund in the State treasury.

The required rate of such direct annual tax shall be fixed each year by the officers charged by law with fixing the rate for State taxes on the valuation of real and personal property in this State subject to taxation in accordance with the provisions of the statutes in such cases: provided, however, that if money has been transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for the same purpose for which said direct annual tax is levied and imposed then said officers shall in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the tax levied under this Section and the tax levied under this Section shall be abated in that amount.

Section 7. The proposition of whether this Act shall take effect, a debt of $150,000,000 be contracted, bonds be issued to that amount and the principal of such bonds be paid within 25 years of their date and the interest thereon be paid as it accrues by levying and imposing a direct annual tax and by authorizing the General Assembly to transfer money in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund therefor, shall be submitted to the People of the State of Illinois at the general election to be held on Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, A. D. 1960, on a separate ballot to be substantially in the following form:

Shall an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, entitled "An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at mental health and other public welfare institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds", enacted by the Seventy-first General Assembly, become effective and the State of Illinois contract a debt of $150,000,000 and issue serial bonds to that amount bearing not to exceed 4% interest pursuant to said Act to provide funds for permanent improvements for mental health and other public welfare institutions of the State of Illinois, and shall the State of Illinois levy annually a direct tax sufficient to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall accrue and to pay and discharge the principal of such bonds within 25 years from their date, in accordance with said Act, which Act provides that, to the extent that funds are available in the General Revenue Fund of the State, the General Assembly is authorized to direct the transfer of funds from time to time from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds provided for by said Act, and to the extent that money is so transferred from the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose, then the appropriate officers in fixing the rate of said direct annual tax shall make proper allowance in the amount of money so transferred in reduction of the taxes to be levied and such tax shall be abated in that amount?	YES

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and a declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least 2 daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Section 9. If any section, sentence or clause of this Act is for any reason held invalid or to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act.

Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Public Welfare Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. (Approved July 22, 1959.)

THE ACT OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Act of the General Assembly hereinbefore mentioned is as follows:

An Act to authorize the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Illinois for the purpose of obtaining funds to be used for making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State and to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest upon such bonds.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly:

Section 1. The State of Illinois is authorized to issue and sell and provide for the retirement of bonds of the State of Illinois to the amount of $195,000,000 for the purpose of providing funds in order to relieve over-crowded conditions by making permanent improvements at educational institutions owned by this State which are now under the jurisdiction, management and control of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois, the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University and the Teachers College Board.

Section 2. The Building Bond Board, hereinafter called the Board, is created to consist of the Governor, the State Treasurer and the Attorney General. The issuance, sale and retirement of bonds authorized by this Act shall be under the general supervision and control of the Board.

The bonds shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and when sold the proceeds of the bonds shall be paid into the State treasury and kept in a separate fund which shall be known as the Universities Building Fund, which separate fund is hereby created.

Section 3. The proceeds from the sale of bonds issued pursuant to this Act shall be used for making permanent improvements at State institutions.

As used in this Act, the term "permanent improvements" means and includes construction of buildings, enlargement and rehabilitation of existing buildings, with fixed equipment installed; preparation of plans and specifications therefor; land acquisition; landscaping and construction of sidewalks, roads, driveways and parking space; and all other things necessary for completion of construction of buildings and grounds in connection therewith.

Section 4. The cost price of all such obligations shall be considered as cash in the custody of the State Treasurer and such obligations shall be conveyed at cost price as cash by the State Treasurer to his successor. The money in the Universities Building Fund in the form of such obligations shall be set up by the State Treasurer as a separate account of such fund and shown distinctly in every report issued by him regarding fund balances.

Such ballot shall be separate from all others used at such election, except that where voting machines are used under the direction of any county clerk, such voting machines may be used to vote upon such proposition instead of upon the separate ballot.

Notice of the submission of the proposition shall be given by the various county clerks and the ballots shall be canvassed and returned, abstracts of the vote made and submitted, the votes canvassed and declaration of the result made in the same manner as is provided by Sections 3, 5, 6 and 7 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this State", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in case of the submission of a proposed constitutional amendment; provided that, if separate ballots are used, ballots for the submission of such proposition shall be printed on paper that is white in color.

Section 8. Before the vote of the people is taken upon such proposition, the Secretary of State is authorized and directed to cause publication of this Act to be made in at least two daily newspapers, one of which shall be published in the City of Springfield and the other in the City of Chicago. Such publications shall be made and repeated at such times as is provided for by Section 2 of "An Act to provide the manner of proposing amendments to the constitution, and submitting the same to the electors of this state", approved March 14, 1877, as amended, in the case of publication of a proposed constitutional amendment.

Section 9. If any section, sentence or clause of this Act is for any reason held invalid or to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act.

Section 10. This Act shall go into full force and effect upon receiving at the general election at which it is submitted the majority of votes required by Section 18 of Article IV of the Constitution. The provisions of this Act for the payment of the principal of said bonds at maturity and of the interest thereon annually, as it shall accrue, by authorizing the General Assembly to direct the transfer of funds in the General Revenue Fund to the Universities Building Bond Retirement and Interest Fund for that purpose and by the direct annual tax upon real and personal property which has been levied and imposed herein for that purpose, shall be irrepealable until such debt and interest is paid in full, and for the making of such payments the faith of the State of Illinois is hereby pledged. New Comedy Is Set at Catlow

Billy Wilder's newest film, "The Apartment," is a comedy, but that description only skims the surface of the film's intent. It also contains pathos, near - tragedy, satire and a wealth of observation on life.

"The Apartment," which is now at the Catlow theatre, Barrington, is a biting view of deed and aspirin in the aspirin age, with emphasis on the pursuit of money and sex. It stars Jack Lemmon, Shirley MacLaine and Fred MacMurray.

Produced and directed by Billy Wilder, "The Apartment" is released through United Artists.

Double Feature

"The Story of Ruth" and "The Golden Age of Comedy" is the double feature program at the 53 Outdoor Theatre starting Friday for one week.

The theatre, located at routes 12 and 53 near Palatine, offers late shows every Friday and Saturday nights.

Don Heyden to Head Reorganized Players

Palatine Players, oldest community theater group in Northwest suburbs, has announced a reorganization beginning this summer.

According to the new president, Donald Heyden, 500 W. Helen, Palatine, the Players felt a change in leadership and framework would result in better use of the group's talent.

Heyden, a sales engineer with General Electric and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, said the reorganized group hopes to expand membership, offer a better quality of production, and encourage people to participate in more phases of theater work.

A drama major, Heyden has done radio work for WBBM.

Herbert Gegenhuber, 142 S. Pine, Palatine, will fill the new office of executive vice-president.

HE IS IN charge of membership, public relations, and publicity. The office was formed to ease some of the duties formerly handled by the president.

Gegenhuber, a sales engineer with Commercial Filters corp., joined the Players last year and has appeared in two productions.

James Hodapp, 731 W. Kenilworth, Palatine, a sales engineer with General Electric, is vice-president. He joined the group in 1955.

Joe Rogers, Route 3, Box 28, Palatine, has been named treasurer. Production manager with Moss Type corp. of Elk Grove Village, Rogers joined Palatine Players this year and appeared in Arsenic and Old Lace.

Secretary is Scotty Schinke, 624 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights. She appeared in "Gigi."

HELEN BODELSON, 1796 Meacham rd., Palatine, last of the original members still with the organization, will be director of the talent bank.

Twice past-president, she is in charge of using the talents of the players for cuttings, meetings and programs.

Ruth Lockwood, 457 N. Comfort, Palatine, is past-president.

We feel strongly about attempting worthwhile productions, particularly shows of proven worth, whether they appear ordinary or experimental," said Heyden.

Among its productions since its founding in 1947 are "Claudia," "Dear Ruth," "Harvey," "Time Out for Ginger," "My Three Angels," and "Tea House of the August Moon."

PALATINE Players production of "Time Out for Ginger" was featured in an article on community theater in 1958 in Saturday Evening Post magazine.

Probably the group's most ambitious effort was "Night Must Fall," presented at the Edgewater Beach hotel as a benefit for the Northwest Community hospital.

"We are always interested in new members," said Heyden. "There is a place for any and all interests. The theater presents many realms of endeavor from pulling a stage curtain to serving tea."

Persons interested in joining should contact Marge Gegenhuber at FL 8-3380 or Toni Hodapp at FL 8-5314.

The reorganization committee consisted of Herb Gegenhuber, chairman; Dorothy Daniels, 567 W. Hellen, Palatine; Dave Dove, 31 S. Highland, Arlington Heights; Jean Bonesteel, 340 N. Mozart, Palatine; Don Heyden, and Charles Bailey, Rand rd., Palatine.

New Comedy Is Set at Catlow

Billy Wilder's newest film, "The Apartment," is a comedy, but that description only skims the surface of the film's intent. It also contains pathos, near - tragedy, satire and a wealth of observation on life.

"The Apartment," which is now at the Catlow theatre, Barrington, is a biting view of deed and aspirin in the aspirin age, with emphasis on the pursuit of money and sex. It stars Jack Lemmon, Shirley MacLaine and Fred MacMurray.

Produced and directed by Billy Wilder, "The Apartment" is released through United Artists.

Double Feature

"The Story of Ruth" and "The Golden Age of Comedy" is the double feature program at the 53 Outdoor Theatre starting Friday for one week.

The theatre, located at routes 12 and 53 near Palatine, offers late shows every Friday and Saturday nights.

"GUYS AND DOLLS" revue will open at Villa Venice on Monday, Aug. 28 at 8:30 p. m. with a cast of 30. The revue will be presented every Monday night at the supper club, 2855 N. Milwaukee ave., Northbrook. Giovanni Lonzollo, Harold Porankiewicz, Frank Cantor, and Ed Garbow will be featured. Tickets are available at the Villa Venice for $2.20 or at Padre Production office, 5 N. Wabash, Chicago.

Don Heyden to Head Reorganized Players

Palatine Players, oldest community theater group in Northwest suburbs, has announced a reorganization beginning this summer.

According to the new president, Donald Heyden, 500 W. Helen, Palatine, the Players felt a change in leadership and framework would result in better use of the group's talent.

Heyden, a sales engineer with General Electric and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, said the reorganized group hopes to expand membership, offer a better quality of production, and encourage people to participate in more phases of theater work.

A drama major, Heyden has done radio work for WBBM.

Herbert Gegenhuber, 142 S. Pine, Palatine, will fill the new office of executive vice-president.

HE IS IN charge of membership, public relations, and publicity. The office was formed to ease some of the duties formerly handled by the president.

Gegenhuber, a sales engineer with Commercial Filters corp., joined the Players last year and has appeared in two productions.

James Hodapp, 731 W. Kenilworth, Palatine, a sales engineer with General Electric, is vice-president. He joined the group in 1955.

Joe Rogers, Route 3, Box 28, Palatine, has been named treasurer. Production manager with Moss Type corp. of Elk Grove Village, Rogers joined Palatine Players this year and appeared in Arsenic and Old Lace.

Secretary is Scotty Schinke, 624 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights. She appeared in "Gigi."

HELEN BODELSON, 1796 Meacham rd., Palatine, last of the original members still with the organization, will be director of the talent bank.

Twice past-president, she is in charge of using the talents of the players for cuttings, meetings and programs.

Ruth Lockwood, 457 N. Comfort, Palatine, is past-president.

We feel strongly about attempting worthwhile productions, particularly shows of proven worth, whether they appear ordinary or experimental," said Heyden.

Among its productions since its founding in 1947 are "Claudia," "Dear Ruth," "Harvey," "Time Out for Ginger," "My Three Angels," and "Tea House of the August Moon."

PALATINE Players production of "Time Out for Ginger" was featured in an article on community theater in 1958 in Saturday Evening Post magazine.

Probably the group's most ambitious effort was "Night Must Fall," presented at the Edgewater Beach hotel as a benefit for the Northwest Community hospital.

"We are always interested in new members," said Heyden. "There is a place for any and all interests. The theater presents many realms of endeavor from pulling a stage curtain to serving tea."

Persons interested in joining should contact Marge Gegenhuber at FL 8-3380 or Toni Hodapp at FL 8-5314.

'Bells Are Ringing' Clean, Funny Movie

By JIM PHILLIPS

If "Bells Are Ringing" does nothing else, it will give you an evening's enjoyment, not to mention publicity for answering services. I found the entire show quite funny, relaxing, and in general, wonderfully clean.

Judy Holliday stars as the "Susanswerphone" telephone operator who insists on solving all the problems of her callers by acting as mother, agent, lovelornist, and general " soothe and solve" gal. Dean Martin is an easy-going male lead; a guy whose playwright partner has deserted him. When Dean keeps in touch with his producer through Judy's answering service, he finds himself confessing his faults and weaknesses to her. In order to keep him going, Judy disguises herself as a kindly old lady named "Ma." Needless to say, things get pretty bad for Dean in the "confidence department." He has convinced himself he'll never be able to write again, and Judy has convinced herself that she's fallen in love with Dean. Naturally, our gal Holliday can't reveal her true identity right away—but when she does—well, that's when the fun begins.

INTERMIXED within the framework of this major theme is a sub-plot involving a bookie and his musical system for betting on nags; a dentist who composes music through his drill hose; a budding young actor who "out-beatniks" the beatniks; and a crowd of society people who would make an Eskimo's blood run cold.

You'll find nothing in the plot to slow down the movie. Especially Judy, who is still herself, despite the character she is playing. She clowns, sings, dances, smiles, and just sits there at the switchboard enjoying what she's doing. Dean Martin is in good voice and well-suited to his part. Eddie Foy doesn't sound as good as Eddie Lawrence did in the Broadway version of "Bells," but he's still a pro.

The music is full of pep, thanks to some fine arranging-conducting by the brilliant Andre Previn, who did the academy award scoring for "Porgy and Bess." Arthur Freed is the man responsible for the whole goings-on, and can be proud of a job well-done. Vincente Minelli directed "Bells Are Ringing," and really has a knack for getting the most out of musical scenes involving large numbers of people; the staging is excellent.

THERE ARE some particularly funny episodes involving Judy and her "clients." You'll find her "beatnik take-off" full of laughs; the scene in which she first invades Dean Martin's apartment is a fancy bit of clowning. Tender moments appear in the picture, too, but only briefly, never bogging down the lightness of the whole affair.

Incidentally, if you ever wondered whether many of the Chicago movie critics see the pictures "they" review, there was a little hint of the answer in a Chicago newspaper's movie review column a few weeks ago. The staff member who did the write-up stated that some of the nicer tunes in the movie were "Long Before I Knew You," "Just in Time," and "The Party's Over." Between you and me and the box-office, "Long Before I Knew You" doesn't appear in the picture. You'll find the other tunes are there, though, including the delightful "bookie number" sung by Eddie Foy and his gang. Putting it lightly, "Bells are Ringing" is something you shouldn't miss — especially if you can get into an air-conditioned theater!

Capsule Comment: Here's one telephone bill you won't mind paying!

PHILLIPS' Opinions 'n Predictions: Often wondered why a growing community like Wheeling doesn't have a motion picture theater. I've heard people around that area say they wish they didn't have to travel in order to see a movie!

Think your local library is up to date? Drop in someday and ask a staff member to show you the number of films, sound and otherwise, that are in stock.

While attending a movie in Milwaukee a few weeks ago, I was startled at the following: the ticket-taker smiled at me; an usher actually asked me where I would like to sit, and showed me the way to my choice; the program was not interrupted by those senseless, merchandising intermissions that mark Chicago theater programs; the projectionist was able to focus the picture before the movie was half-over!

Many of our park districts have summer programs for children — but how many have one hour set aside for educational movies? It's amazing how children enjoy such films "away from the classroom situation." Also, any park program is liable to be faced with rainy days —how about a selection of films to show youngsters? The person in charge of this film session would have to know his educational movies—being careful to keep the subjects lively, varied, and interesting — there would always be room for an occasional cartoon, too!

At Prospect Theatre

ALEC GUINNESS, flanked by Jo Morrow and Ernie Kovacs, is shown above in a scene from the Carol Reed production, in CinemaScope, "Our Man in Havana." The Columbia release also stars Burl Ives, Maureen O'Hara, Noel Coward, and Ralph Richardson.

Farce For Shady Lane

Shady Lane Playhouse revives a famous old-timer when the comedy "Apron Strings" opens August 2 for a one-week engagement through Sunday, August 7.

Dorrance Davis wrote "Apron Strings," in which a thoroughly upright young man finds that his mother's will cautions him to act with such reserve that his bride walks out on him in pique. Roger Pryor played the role of the son in the original Broadway production.

Herbert Hoover was in the White House when this amusing glimpse into the troubles wrought by a mother's overly protective love for her darling son ran a season in New York and 13 weeks in Chicago's Loop in the depths of the depression.

BUT A mama's boy who shakes himself loose from the silver cord that ties him to his mother's apron strings is always topical, and Frank Bryan is expecting one of the biggest weeks of Shady Lane's nineteenth season at the beautifully converted barn on Route 20, three miles west of Marengo.

Curtain times are at 8:45 Tuesdays through Fridays, 7 and 10 on Saturdays, and 7:45 on Sunday evenings. Dorothy Bryan's kitchen dispenses delectable comestibles in the spacious farmhouse next door to the Playhouse both before and after the dramaturgy.

At The Catlow

SHIRLEY MACLAINE, as an elevator girl, is given a big play by Jack Lemmon, an IBM operator for an insurance company. The scene is from Billy Wilder's hilarious comedy, "THE APARTMENT," now at the Catlow Theatre in Barrington through Tuesday. On Wednesday, August 3rd, the Catlow will open with Alfred Hitchcock's "Pycho."

PHILLIPS' Opinions 'n Predictions: Often wondered why a growing community like Wheeling doesn't have a motion picture theater. I've heard people around that area say they wish they didn't have to travel in order to see a movie!

Think your local library is up to date? Drop in someday and ask a staff member to show you the number of films, sound and otherwise, that are in stock.

While attending a movie in Milwaukee a few weeks ago, I was startled at the following: the ticket-taker smiled at me; an usher actually asked me where I would like to sit, and showed me the way to my choice; the program was not interrupted by those senseless, merchandising intermissions that mark Chicago theater programs; the projectionist was able to focus the picture before the movie was half-over!

Many of our park districts have summer programs for children — but how many have one hour set aside for educational movies? It's amazing how children enjoy such films "away from the classroom situation." Also, any park program is liable to be faced with rainy days —how about a selection of films to show youngsters? The person in charge of this film session would have to know his educational movies—being careful to keep the subjects lively, varied, and interesting — there would always be room for an occasional cartoon, too!

Farce For Shady Lane

Shady Lane Playhouse revives a famous old-timer when the comedy "Apron Strings" opens August 2 for a one-week engagement through Sunday, August 7.

Dorrance Davis wrote "Apron Strings," in which a thoroughly upright young man finds that his mother's will cautions him to act with such reserve that his bride walks out on him in pique. Roger Pryor played the role of the son in the original Broadway production.

Herbert Hoover was in the White House when this amusing glimpse into the troubles wrought by a mother's overly protective love for her darling son ran a season in New York and 13 weeks in Chicago's Loop in the depths of the depression.

BUT A mama's boy who shakes himself loose from the silver cord that ties him to his mother's apron strings is always topical, and Frank Bryan is expecting one of the biggest weeks of Shady Lane's nineteenth season at the beautifully converted barn on Route 20, three miles west of Marengo.

Curtain times are at 8:45 Tuesdays through Fridays, 7 and 10 on Saturdays, and 7:45 on Sunday evenings. Dorothy Bryan's kitchen dispenses delectable comestibles in the spacious farmhouse next door to the Playhouse both before and after the dramaturgy.

At The Catlow

SHIRLEY MACLAINE, as an elevator girl, is given a big play by Jack Lemmon, an IBM operator for an insurance company. The scene is from Billy Wilder's hilarious comedy, "THE APARTMENT," now at the Catlow Theatre in Barrington through Tuesday. On Wednesday, August 3rd, the Catlow will open with Alfred Hitchcock's "Pycho."

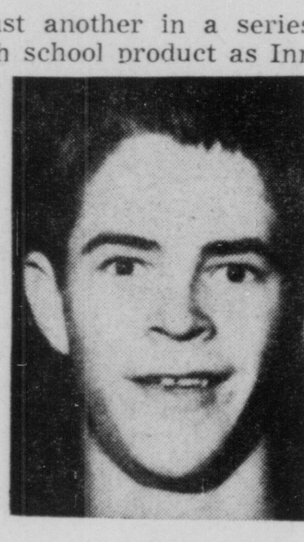
KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

TRYING TO GET organized after two hot, humid weeks with the Air Force in Wichita Falls, Tex., we came across an item on Bob Inman, that lanky southpaw who made an impressive name for himself in West Suburban athletic circles.

Inman, an all-league basketball player and singles runnerup in WSC tennis, is engaged in the National Junior tennis tournament in Kalamazoo, Mich. this week with a crack field of young net talent seeking the coveted singles and doubles championships.

The Kalamazoo tourney is just another in a series of tennis meets for the Arlington high school product as Inman has been enjoying a busy and successful summer on the courts.



BOB INMAN

A June grad of AHS, Bob has teamed with Stu Opdycke of Evanston for firsts in junior doubles competition in both the Chicago JC tourney and Evanston Open. He was third in Junior singles in the JC meet and teamed with a Peoria netman for a second in doubles in the Peoria Invitational competition. In addition, he reached the finals of the Oak Park tourney and also competed in a Pekin, Ill. test.

Inman and Opdycke, who both experienced outstanding prep careers, are also slated to team up in the River Forest tournament Aug. 8. Opdycke teamed with Dave Hemphill to give Evanston's state champions three key points in the high school finals last spring while Inman, competing with Jim Erickson, was on a runner-up unit as a high school junior.

Although Inman was a conference standout in tennis, he drew more notice for his performances in basketball as he collected 204 league points and 377 over the 1959-60 season. Headed for Harvard in the fall, Bob turned in his top prep cage exhibition in Arlington's first sectional victory in history, the impressive conquest of Barrington.

THE SWITCH FROM high school to semi-pro baseball hasn't been too difficult for Jim Blake, an outfielder on Arlington high's outstanding diamond squad last spring. Lloyd Meyer, an Arlington resident and veteran of the semi-pro wars in this area, reports that Blake is wielding quite a bat with the Des Plaines Merchants. At last check, Meyer reports, Blake had 14 for 24 for a .583 standard.

Blake was the "forgotten man" on the all-conference team last spring, and it's still a mystery how he was overlooked on the post-season honor squad.

The word now is that regardless of what the future holds for the Arlington Heights Jr. Legion baseball team there will be the state legion tournament at Recreation Park next summer. And with the local legion post in charge, you can be sure the state finale will be an impressive operation. Merle Guild Post 208 did an outstanding job with the Cook County playoffs.

Ed Moehling Jr., the Mt. Prospect golfer who won the Illinois State amateur crown this summer, finished fifth in the recent Chicago District Golf Assn. Jr. invitational at Medinah country club. Moehling fired rounds of 73, 75, 84, and 78 for a 310 total, seven strokes off the pace.

ODDS AND ENDS:

Two Arlington swimmers placed in the Chicago Tribune's 100 yard freestyle races last weekend . . . Marguerite Dalton finished second and Bill Raasch fifth in their respective classes . . . Allen Carius, the mile phenom from Morton township, will attend the University of Illinois in the fall . . . Carius, state mile champ and a member of Paddock Publications' All-State cinder squad, had a season best of 4:18.4 but was hampered by the weather throughout the spring . . . College stars of the Midwest are displaying their skills in the House of Charles All-Star summer basketball tournament in Chicago Heights this week . . . Among the standouts are Nolden Gentry, Iowa great; Ralph Wells, Bill Cacciatore, and Chuck Brandt of Northwestern University; Howie Carl and McKinley Cowsen of DePaul; and Bill Small of the University of Illinois, an All-Stater at West Aurora in 1959 . . . The tournament, an eight-team single elimination event, is unique in that it offers a first-rate brand of basketball in July . . . And, through a recent change in NCAA rules, college stars with eligibility remaining are permitted to participate.

The Boston Red Sox battery of IKE Delock and Russ NIXON gained more attention than usual this week for obvious reasons.

If the pre-season football prognosticators are accurate, Mississippi will be the national collegiate champion, Illinois will walk away with the Big Ten with Michigan State the runnerup, and the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns will rule the National Football league this fall . . . Gordon Cobbledick of the Cleveland Plain Dealer has asked Dr. Bernard Mandel, Fenn College history teacher, for a copy of his treatise on the value of the home run . . . Could be he wants a documentary justification for the Colavito-Kuenn deal.

As a closing item, Cavallinis of Dolton is the Illinois Semi-Pro baseball champion thanks to a 9-2 win over the Chicago Vets. Hurling for the Vets in the finale was Bob Thollander, former Bensenville (now Fenton) standout. Thollander fanned 13 in the title tilt, including 12 in the first five innings, but had the misfortune of tossing a gopher ball with the sacks loaded.

Tennis Club Units Hold League Lead

Arlington Tennis Club's "A" and "B" divisions were able to hold their lead in the North and West Suburban Tennis League last Saturday with victories over the Berwyn Tennis Club. In both divisions the victories were close and not decided until the last doubles matches. Clarence Feiereisel, after losing his singles match, teamed up with Bob Sir of Mt. Prospect to clinch the "A" division match with a 6-4, 6-3 victory.

In the "B" division it was almost the same story. Arlington and Berwyn were tied two all before the doubles match when Paul Eckley of Palatine and his 16 year old son, Steve, beat Cwinski and Nelson of Berwyn in the deciding match 6-2, 6-3. The Arlington "B" division, therefore, still remains undefeated in league play. The "A" division remains tied with Wheaton for first place with identical 4 and 1 records.

Bob Inman, one of the best tennis products of Arlington high school, returned from the State J. C. tennis tournament in Peoria where he reached the semi-finals to give the Arlington team a boost by winning 7-5, 6-4.

Meadows Nine Tops PH, 1-0

Rolling Meadows' Little League entry won its first area playoff game Monday evening by edging Prospect Heights 1-0 on a neat one-hit, 10-strikeout performance by Tom Lundgren.

The winners scored their only run in the fourth frame when Lundgren got on, thanks to a fly ball that fell for two bases and rode home on an infield hit by Johnny Hildebrand.

Losing pitcher Jeff Powell pitched fine ball for Prospect Heights, fanning five and walking only two. The losers' only hit was a single by Bruce Irwin in the last of the fourth.

Lundgren had a second inning single in addition to his fourth inning double for two of the four hits off Powell.

Des Plaines Captures Ninth District Jr. Legion Crown

Mt. Prospect's impressive legion entry, a front-runner all summer in the ninth district title chase, finally came to the end of the line Friday evening.

Coach Al Carstens' Des Plaines aggregation wrapped up the 1960 ninth district championship with a 4-2 playoff victory and earned a shot at Berwyn's fifth district champs.

Three clubs had tied for the top slot in the ninth district after the regulation schedule, forcing a playoff. Mt. Prospect drew a bye and when Des Plaines crushed Park Ridge 15-1, the stage was set for a meeting between Carstens' unit and Gus Holzrichter's Pro Sport Shop edition.

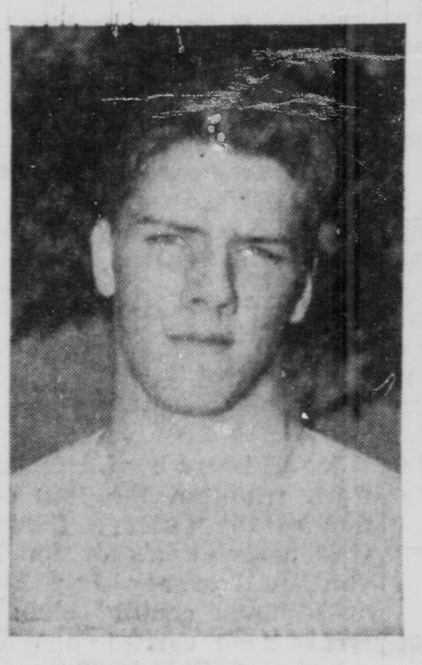
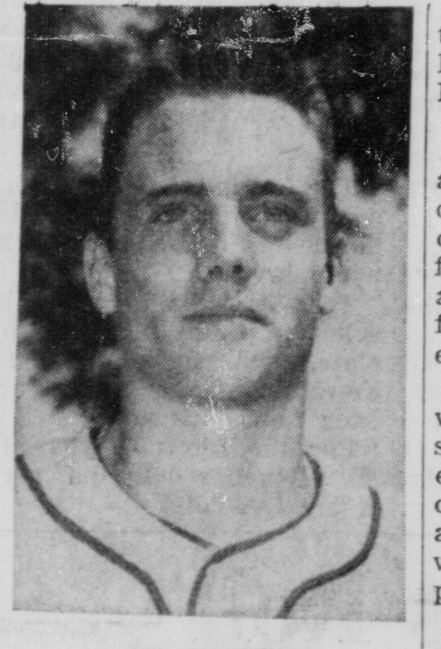
ADDING some more drama to the hectic loop finish, Des Plaines came up with three runs in the final inning Thursday to gain an 11-11 deadlock with Mt. Prospect and send the single elimination playoff into another game.



GEORGE McRAE



BOB GLASER

It was a different story Friday as Des Plaines took the early lead and held on with right hander Bob Kunkel scattering nine hits in the 4-2 decision.

Des Plaines didn't last long in the playoff against Berwyn as the J. Sterling Morton high school entry picked up victories Sunday and Monday and moved into the Cook County finals in Chicago Heights.

MT. PROSPECT counted first in Thursday's encounter, but Des Plaines bounced back with a pair in the first and a single marker in the second for a 3-1 lead.

Four walks and singles by Wayne Lundstrom and Bob Glaser accounted for two tallies in the third, but Carstens' squad erupted with a trio of its own in the home half of the third.

Two walks, an error, a double by Fred Lussow and singles by Chuck Staral, Dick Palmer, and Glaser sent home five runs in the fourth and Mt. Prospect appeared on its way. Des Plaines added a single run in the fourth to narrow the gap, but the Pro Sport Shop nine registered two more in the fifth in the free-swinging affair.

DES PLAINES kept within striking distance until the seventh and then disaster hit a Mt. Prospect unit that was within three outs of the ninth district championship.

An error, two walks, and two hits gave Des Plaines three runs and an 11-11 tie and the two clubs had to start all over again Friday.

Fred Empkie, who tallied four runs for Mt. Prospect, Mark Thorne, and Glaser had two hits each for Holzrichter's squad while Mike Rowlee collected three for Des Plaines.

MT. PROSPECT collected a hit in every inning Friday off the slants of Kunkel but couldn't counter until the fifth when singles by Empkie and Dick Palmer and a walk followed a free pass to Glaser.

Empkie led off the first with a single but failed to score, and Mt. Prospect loaded the bases in the second on hits by George McRae and Chuck Loerzel and a walk and again failed to punch across a run.

Lussow's third inning single was wiped out with a double play and McRae wasted a one-base knock in the fourth.

MT. PROSPECT finally broke into the scoring column in the fifth but two more frustrating innings were to follow. Glaser singled in the sixth and was stranded and a hit batsman and single by Staral in the seventh frame was taken care of by another Des Plaines double play.

Thorne went the route for Mt. Prospect and fanned nine, yielding only eight hits. The big blow by the winners was a fifth inning homer by Doug Halpenny.

Empkie and McRae had two hits each for Mt. Prospect and Dan Humay and Rowlee delivered the impressive sticks for the winners and ninth district champions.

Kruse Among Early Leaders

Mt. Prospect's Al Kruse, a June graduate of Arlington high school, fired a first round 70 Monday afternoon to rank among the early leaders in the Chicago American's 15th annual Jr. Open golf tourney at the Jackson Park golf club.

Kruse, the 1958 champion of the Jr. Open and West Suburban conference medalist for two straight years, was three strokes off the pace set by Ken Benson, a junior at Crete-Monee high school.

The Arlington high product, who also finished in the runnerup slot in the state test last spring, fired rounds of 34-36 Monday afternoon.

WAYNE ROLFS, 204 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights, fired a 74 at Barrington's Biltmore country club to capture top honors in the annual Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce golf outing July 13. Awarding trophy to Rolfs is Chamber manager Don Hess.

Fernstroms Drops Pair To Evanston Legion Nine

Collecting only seven hits and four run in 14 innings, Arlington's Jr. Legion baseball nine went down to a pair of defeats to Evanston Sunday afternoon.

Fernstroms Storage and Van entry, a 3-1 victor over this same Evanston outfit just the week bfore, couldn't get rolling in the twinbill and suffered 6-0 and 5-4 pastings in the non-loop encounters.

Arlington solved Dick Scott for 10 hits in the initial meeting but could only garner two singles Sunday in the lidlifter and the Evanston moundsman coasted home with an impressive shutout.

DENNIS Koeppen opened the first inning for Fernstroms with a single and Gary Erwin cracked out a third inning safety for the locals' only two hits. Scott faced only 13 batters over the final four stanzas.

Evanston counted a pair in the first on an error and home run by Barry Werner, added a single tally in the sixth, then put across some insurance markers in the seventh without the aid of a base hit. Two walks, two hit batsmen, a wild pitch and error all figured in Evanston's final trio of runs.

Gene Dahlquist and Jack Lane shared the pitching chores for Arlington with Lane relieving in the fourth. The two hurlers shackled Evanston on only two hits but the winners used other means to deliver their six runs.

FERNSTROM'S offense picked up in the second contest but still couldn't pull out a victory. Buzz Williams and Gregg Beckway worked on the mound for Arlington.

Evanston's Werner cracked out another important blow with a first inning triple that led to two runs, and the visitors added another run in the second thanks to two hits and a balk.

The victors picked up two gift runs in the fifth on four walks, two errors and two stolen bases.

SKIP WITT came in with Fernstroms' first run in the fourth and three hits brought home the two markers in the fifth.

Arlington's final tally in the seventh came without the aid of a base hit as an error, walk, and fielder's choice brought in Vince Furlong.

Juveniles to Vie At Six Furlongs

It's hats off to the budding two-year-old division at Arlington Park where on Saturday the $200,000 gross Arlington Park Futurity, richest offering of the year thus far for juveniles, steps into the nation's spotlight.

Every top-ranking two-year-old in training is numbered among the hefty roster of 296 eligibles to this year's six furlongs Futurity, which last year went to T. V. Lark in a resounding upset over Bally Ache and Venitian Way.

Owned by C. R. McCoy of Pasadena, Calif., T.V. Lark won the $135,600 Arlington Classic last Saturday by about three-quarters of a length over John William, while the even-money favorite Venetian Way finished third.

Heading the probable Futurity roll-call is Mrs. Herbert Herff's Intentsive, a classy son of Intent who rapidly had become the outstanding juvenile in the midwest area, winning the George Woolf Memorial and, more recently, the Hyde Park Stakes.

INTENSIVE rocketed to stardom quite early this year when he sauntered off with the Gulfstream Park Dinner Stakes in Florida this winter, then wisely was turned out to await the more lucrative events this spring and summer.

He resumed action this spring at Washington Park and promptly humbled Ford-Kelty's high - running Iron Rail in the $10,000 George Woolf Memorial.

Journeying across town to Arlington, he proved that victory was to fluke when he charged to a dramatic tally in the Hyde Park Stakes, running down the classy J. Graham Brown entry of OK Chief and He's a Pistol, the latter a full brother to Kentucky Derby winner, Venetian Way.

ANOTHER speedy challenger will be Fourth Estate Stable's Editorialist who has been a disappointment of late but has been burning up the track in morning trials.

Among other top two-year-old Futurity candidates are Oak Hill Stable's Oak Dandy; Calumet Farm's Beau Prince and St. Honore, Mrs. H. J. Damm's Arab Road, and Fred W. Hooper's Grozier and Dad's Image.

Colt League Winners Meet

Lions Park, Mt. Prospect, will be the site of an exhibition game between two winning Colt League teams on Sunday, July 31, at 3:30 p.m.

The North Suburban Continental Colt league winner, Mt. Prospect Sox, managed by Al Glover, will play the North Suburban National Colt League winner, North Chicago, managed by Bill Hamlet.

Elks Top Minors, A's 2nd

Possessing a 10-1 season mark, the Elks captured the Minor League championship of the Mt. Prospect American division.

In one of the strongest finishes on record, the Athletics won their last six games to place only one game out of first.

The A's stopped the Tigers 10-4 with Crawford doing the pitching, yielding only two hits and striking out 12.

MARK LIND was on the mound for the victors in the Athletics' 19-2 win over the Red Sox and Jimmy Civinelli registered three hits. Scott Crawford went 4-for-5 and Lind, besides winning a one-hitter, collected three safeties in four trips to the plate.

With Crawford on the hill the A's stopped the Senators 19-5 as Scott allowed only three hits and fanned 10. Crawford, Civinelli, and Ed Odmark rapped homers.

The A's closed the season with a victory over the Indians.

IN OTHER league action the Hornets toppled the Yankees 21-20 as B. Reordan got the win.

The Tigers bumped the Orioles 13-5 as Gary Andrews fanned 10. Dennis Holste and Scott Nyquist each hit two homers to supply the power for the Tigers.

Kim Schier hurled the Chiefs past the Red Sox 8-7 in the final report.

Three Qualify For Finals

Mt. Prospect dropped a pair of dual swim meets during the past week but qualified three of its members in the finals of the Chicago Tribune Swim Meet.

Qualifying for the Tribune finals were Kathy Farleigh, 12 and under girls; John Mulder, 13 year old boys; and Judy Mulder, 15 year old girls.

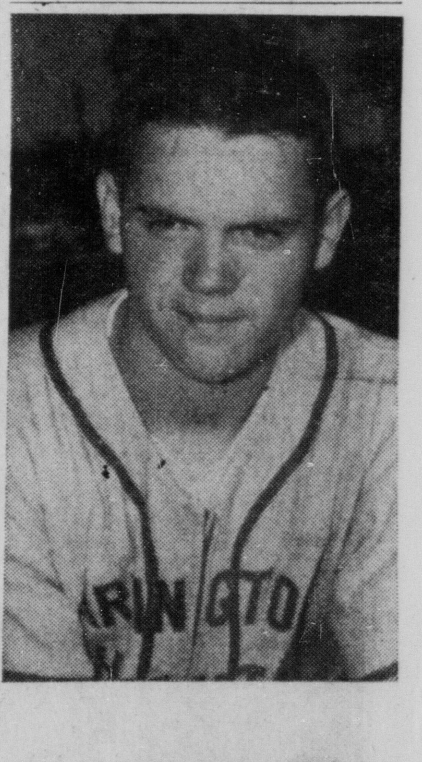
DES PLAINES bombarded the Prospect swimmers 291-140 in their first home meet of the summer.

Weakened by injuries and vacations, Mt. Prospect was beaten 276-153 at DeKalb.

Joe Mulder picked up five first place finishes and Hooly Wieber garnered three during the two meets to pace the losers. Donna Gitzke, Judy Mulder, Jeff Cassel and Bill Roosen each won a pair while Joe Waldo, Fred Brereton, Kathy Farleigh, Mary Kennedy, Paul Harris, Tom Walter and Bob Wilson took one victory each.



BUZZ WILLIAMS was the mound victor for Arlington s Jr. Legion team in a 3-1 win over Evanston not Jack Lane as was erroneously reported last week. Lane started but was relieved by Williams in the third.

Futurity Headlines Saturday's Racing

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

TRYING TO GET organized after two hot, humid weeks with the Air Force in Wichita Falls, Tex., we came across an item on Bob Inman, that lanky southpaw who made an impressive name for himself in West Suburban athletic circles.

Inman, an all-league basketball player and singles runnerup in WSC tennis, is engaged in the National Junior tennis tournament in Kalamazoo, Mich. this week with a crack field of young net talent seeking the coveted singles and doubles championships.

The Kalamazoo tourney is just another in a series of tennis meets for the Arlington high school product as Inman has been enjoying a busy and successful summer on the courts.

BOB INMAN

A June grad of AHS, Bob has teamed with Stu Opdycke of Evanston for firsts in junior doubles competition in both the Chicago JC tourney and Evanston Open. He was third in Junior singles in the JC meet and teamed with a Peoria netman for a second in doubles in the Peoria Invitational competition. In addition, he reached the finals of the Oak Park tourney and also competed in a Pekin, Ill. test.

Inman and Opdycke, who both experienced outstanding prep careers, are also slated to team up in the River Forest tournament Aug. 8. Opdycke teamed with Dave Hemphill to give Evanston's state champions three key points in the high school finals last spring while Inman, competing with Jim Erickson, was on a runner-up unit as a high school junior.

Although Inman was a conference standout in tennis, he drew more notice for his performances in basketball as he collected 204 league points and 377 over the 1959-60 season. Headed for Harvard in the fall, Bob turned in his top prep cage exhibition in Arlington's first sectional victory in history, the impressive conquest of Barrington.

THE SWITCH FROM high school to semi-pro baseball hasn't been too difficult for Jim Blake, an outfielder on Arlington high's outstanding diamond squad last spring. Lloyd Meyer, an Arlington resident and veteran of the semi-pro wars in this area, reports that Blake is wielding quite a bat with the Des Plaines Merchants. At last check, Meyer reports. Blake had 14 for 24 for a .583 standard.

Blake was the "forgotten man" on the all-conference team last spring, and it's still a mystery how he was overlooked on the post-season honor squad.

The word now is that regardless of what the future holds for the Arlington Heights Jr. Legion baseball team there will be the state legion tournament at Recreation Park next summer. And with the local legion post in charge, you can be sure the state finale will be an impressive operation. Merle Guild Post 208 did an outstanding job with the Cook County playoffs.

Ed Moehling Jr., the Mt. Prospect golfer who won the Illinois State amateur crown this summer, finished fifth in the recent Chicago District Golf Assn. Jr. invitational at Medinah country club. Moehling fired rounds of 73, 75, 84, and 78 for a 310 total, seven strokes off the pace.

ODDS AND ENDS:

Two Arlington swimmers placed in the Chicago Tribune's 100 yard freestyle races last weekend . . . Marguerite Dalton finished second and Bill Raasch fifth in their respective classes . . . Allen Carius, the mile phenom from Morton township, will attend the University of Illinois in the fall . . . Carius, state mile champ and a member of Paddock Publications' All-State cinder squad, had a season best of 4:18.4 but was hampered by the weather throughout the spring . . . College stars of the Midwest are displaying their skills in the House of Charles All-Star summer basketball tournament in Chicago Heights this week . . . Among the standouts are Nolden Gentry, Iowa great; Ralph Wells, Bill Cacciatore, and Chuck Brandt of Northwestern University; Howie Carl and McKinley Cowsen of DePaul; and Bill Small of the University of Illinois, an All-Stater at West Aurora in 1959 . . . The tournament, an eight-team single elimination event, is unique in that it offers a first-rate brand of basketball in July . . . And, through a recent change in NCAA rules, college stars with eligibility remaining are permitted to participate.

The Boston Red Sox battery of IKE Delock and Russ NIXON gained more attention than usual this week for obvious reasons.

If the pre-season football prognosticators are accurate, Mississippi will be the national collegiate champion, Illinois will walk away with the Big Ten with Michigan State the runnerup, and the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns will rule the National Football league this fall . . . Gordon Cobbledick of the Cleveland Plain Dealer has asked Dr. Bernard Mandel, Fenn College history teacher, for a copy of his treatise on the value of the home run . . . Could be he wants a documentary justification for the Colavito-Kuenn deal.

As a closing item, Cavallinis of Dolton is the Illinois Semi-Pro baseball champion thanks to a 9-2 win over the Chicago Vets. Hurling for the Vets in the finale was Bob Thollander, former Bensenville (now Fenton) standout. Thollander fanned 13 in the title tilt, including 12 in the first five innings, but had the misfortune of tossing a gopher ball with the sacks loaded.

Tennis Club Units Hold League Lead

Arlington Tennis Club's "A" and "B" divisions were able to hold their lead in the North and West Suburban Tennis League last Saturday with victories over the Berwyn Tennis Club. In both divisions the victories were close and not decided until the last doubles matches. Clarence Feiereisel, after losing his singles match, teamed up with Bob Sir of Mt. Prospect to clinch the "A" division match with a 6-4, 6-3 victory.

In the "B" division it was almost the same story. Arlington and Berwyn were tied two all before the doubles match when Paul Eckley of Palatine and his 16 year old son, Steve, beat Cwinski and Nelson of Berwyn in the deciding match 6-2, 6-3. The Arlington "B" division, therefore, still remains undefeated in league play. The "A" division remains tied with Wheaton for first place with identical 4 and 1 records.

Bob Inman, one of the best tennis products of Arlington high school, returned from the State J. C. tennis tournament in Peoria where he reached the semi-finals to give the Arlington team a boost by winning 7-5, 6-4.

Meadows Nine Tops PH, 1-0

Rolling Meadows' Little League entry won its first area playoff game Monday evening by edging Prospect Heights 1-0 on a neat one-hit, 10-strikeout performance by Tom Lundgren.

The winners scored their only run in the fourth frame when Lundgren got on, thanks to a fly ball that fell for two bases and rode home on an infield hit by Johnny Hildebrand.

Losing pitcher Jeff Powell pitched fine ball for Prospect Heights, fanning five and walking only two. The losers' only hit was a single by Bruce Irwin in the last of the fourth.

Lundgren had a second inning single in addition to his fourth inning double for two of the four hits off Powell.

Des Plaines Captures Ninth District Jr. Legion Crown

Mt. Prospect's impressive legion entry, a front-runner all summer in the ninth district title chase, finally came to the end of the line Friday evening.

Coach Al Carstens' Des Plaines aggregation wrapped up the 1960 ninth district championship with a 4-2 playoff victory and earned a shot at Berwyn's fifth district champs.

Three clubs had tied for the top slot in the ninth district after the regulation schedule, forcing a playoff. Mt. Prospect drew a bye and when Des Plaines crushed Park Ridge 15-1, the stage was set for a meeting between Carstens' unit and Gus Holzrichter's Pro Sport Shop edition.

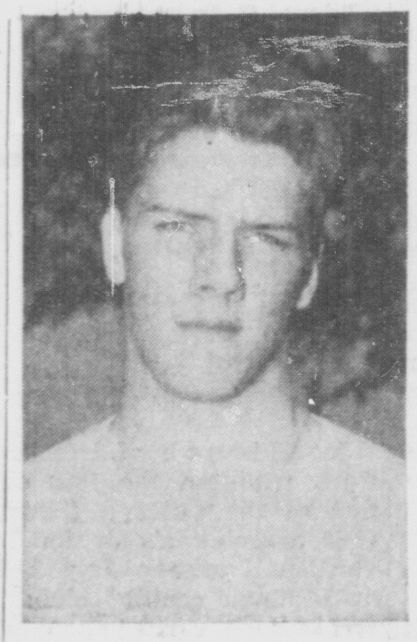
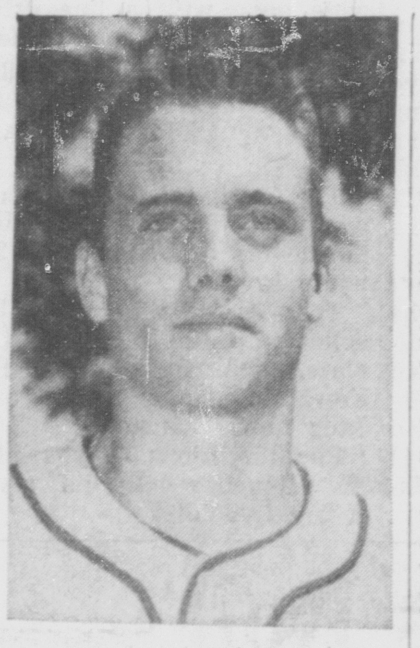
ADDING some more drama to the hectic loop finish, Des Plaines came up with three runs in the final inning Thursday to gain an 11-11 deadlock with Mt. Prospect and send the single elimination playoff into another game.



GEORGE McRAE



BOB GLASER

It was a different story Friday as Des Plaines took the early lead and held on with right hander Bob Kunkel scattering nine hits in the 4-2 decision.

Des Plaines didn't last long in the playoff against Berwyn as the J. Sterling Morton high school entry picked up victories Sunday and Monday and moved into the Cook County finals in Chicago Heights.

MT. PROSPECT counted first in Thursday's encounter, but Des Plaines bounced back with a pair in the first and a single marker in the second for a 3-1 lead.

Four walks and singles by Wayne Lundstrom and Bob Glaser accounted for two tallies in the third, but Carstens' squad erupted with a trio of its own in the home half of the third.

Two walks, an error, a double by Fred Lussow and singles by Chuck Staral, Dick Palmer, and Glaser sent home five runs in the fourth and Mt. Prospect appeared on its way. Des Plaines added a single run in the fourth to narrow the gap, but the Pro Sport Shop nine registered two more in the fifth in the free-swinging affair.

DES PLAINES kept within striking distance until the seventh and then disaster hit a Mt. Prospect unit that was within three outs of the ninth district championship.

An error, two walks, and two hits gave Des Plaines three runs and an 11-11 tie and the two clubs had to start all over again Friday.

Fred Empkie, who tallied four runs for Mt. Prospect, Mark Thorne, and Glaser had two hits each for Holzrichter's squad while Mike Rowlee collected three for Des Plaines.

MT. PROSPECT collected a hit in every inning Friday off the slants of Kunkel but couldn't counter until the fifth when singles by Empkie and Dick Palmer and a walk followed a free pass to Glaser.

Empkie led off the first with a single but failed to score, and Mt. Prospect loaded the bases in the second on hits by George McRae and Chuck Loerzel and a walk and again failed to punch across a run.

Lussow's third inning single was wiped out with a double play and McRae wasted a one-base knock in the fourth.

MT. PROSPECT finally broke into the scoring column in the fifth but two more frustrating innings were to follow. Glaser singled in the sixth and was stranded and a hit batsman and single by Staral in the seventh frame was taken care of by another Des Plaines double play.

Thorne went the route for Mt. Prospect and fanned nine, yielding only eight hits. The big blow by the winners was a fifth inning homer by Doug Halpenny.

Empkie and McRae had two hits each for Mt. Prospect and Dan Humay and Rowlee delivered the impressive sticks for the winners and ninth district champions.

Three Qualify For Finals

Mt. Prospect dropped a pair of dual swim meets during the past week but qualified three of its members in the finals of the Chicago Tribune Swim Meet.

Qualifying for the Tribune finals were Kathy Farleigh, 12 and under girls; John Mulder, 13 year old boys; and Judy Mulder, 15 year old girls.

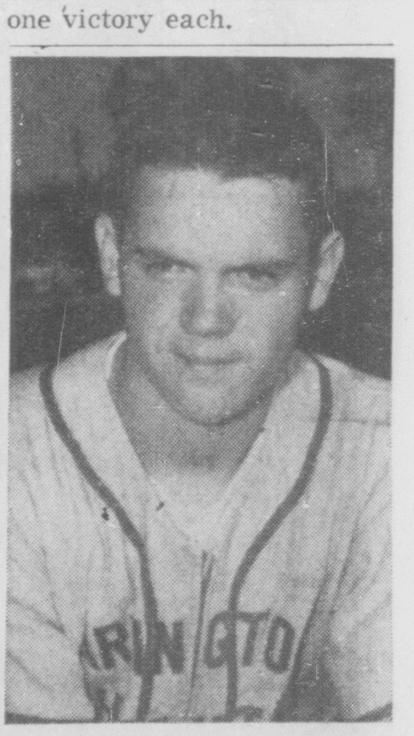
DES PLAINES bombarded the Prospect swimmers 291-140 in their first home meet of the summer.

Weakened by injuries and vacations, Mt. Prospect was beaten 276-153 at DeKalb.

Joe Mulder picked up five first place finishes and Hooly Wieber garnered three during the two meets to pace the losers. Donna Gitzke, Judy Mulder, Jeff Cassel and Bill Roosen each won a pair while Joe Waldo, Fred Brereton, Kathy Farleigh, Mary Kennedy, Paul Harris, Tom Walter and Bob Wilson took one victory each.



BUZZ WILLIAMS was the mound victor for Arlington s Jr. Legion team in a 3-1 win over Evanston not Jack Lane as was erroneously reported last week. Lane started but was relieved by Williams in the third.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

A RECENT ISSUE of the Journal of Applied Physiology has an interesting discussion on the topic, "Effects of a Short Period of Training of Varying Severity on Some Measurements of Physical Fitness." The experiment was made with 44 untrained men of the Royal Air force. Divided into four groups, one was subjected to moderate exercise, another walked six miles daily, a third walked 12 miles, and the fourth 18 miles each day.

On the basis of physical fitness measurements the group walking 12 miles daily showed the most rapid improvement in fitness warranting the conclusion that a 12 mile daily hike is a good way to improve fitness on short notice particularly with groups too large to handle individually.

According to this test you average golfers who walk approximately five miles in and out of roughs, from greens to the tees, and into the club house between nines for refreshments, etc., along with the 6,500 yards of the course, in playing 18 holes of golf have an excellent argument for your wives that you should spend the whole day at the course and play 36 holes.

It is considered by authorities as much better for your fitness than hoeing the garden, painting the kitchen, washing windows, mowing the law, and other household tasks. However, perhaps you had better soft pedal this angle after all for wifey may conclude that commuters should walk to the station, leaving the car at home, and walk down town to the bank and store on business. When you come right down to plain facts of fitness the conclusion is very obvious that all of us have allowed the automobile to make us physically unfit.

And speaking of physical fitness, our society has even taken a good deal of the exercise out of golf by the introduction of the golf mobile or mechanical cart upon which to ride from shot to shot and hole to hole. Some courses have eliminated caddies by substitution of these carts and some require the caddies to ride on the cart, a concession to unemployment of 14 year olds arising from this new gadget. Of course few persons ever carry their own clubs anymore. That is hard work and it is a good deal tougher than 20 years ago for golf bags are twice as heavy and the average golfer seems to think he must have at least a dozen clubs in his bag even though he could play just as well with six or eight and probably never uses more than that in a round of play.

The daily fee courses have almost universally adopted the hand pulled cart for transporting the clubs. This eliminates the wear and tear of dropping the bag of clubs on the ground at every shot as well as easing the strain on one's shoulders but even on these courses the mechanical car is beginning to be seen.

Some clubs have rules that riding carts are available only to those having heart trouble or other ailments attested to by a physician and allow use of them by others when they run out of a supply of caddies. Such rules are hard to enforce and impossible to administer fairly. Some golfers who live near courses have their own mechanical carts and ride from their home across the course to the first tee. It is pretty hard to keep them from using the cart just because it keeps a caddy from working or because some authority feels that exercise is needed. It is a soft generation we are becoming but there is a hopeful sign in all this. The percentage of our population engaging in golf, tennis, swimming, and other activities open to all ages is increasing steadily and would increase still more if there were more pools, tennis courts, and golf courses available. Attention to this situation is needed by public institutions and agencies.

WE NOTICED an item a week or two ago in one of Paddock's papers about Dorothy Warder winning a ladies golf tournament at the Roselle Golf Club. Is it any wonder. Dorothy is the married daughter of Stan Arendt, pro at the Inverness Club. She comes by golf skill naturally and through the teaching of her dad. Her brother, Stan Junior, a war hero who did not return from the Korean conflict, holds the course record at Inverness with a 67 and could hit a longer ball than anyone we have ever seen play the course. Dorothy Arendt is married to John Warder who has always been on our list of favorite athletes from the days when we coached at Palatine High. John was very small for athletics but eventually, through hard work and determination, became outstanding in track as a runner. He had trouble making the first group in basketball but as a sub his spirit had a lot to do with the morale of one of the three top cage teams in Palatine High history.

100-Lap Feature Slated for O'Hare

Top drivers in the NASCAR Midwest division will Friday night be prepping for the big 100-lap NASCAR Summer Championship slated Saturday evening at O'Hare Stadium to get their cars in top condition in the best method known • high speed competition.

Friday night's action will be highlighted by a regular 25-lap main event with the big 100-lap classic assuming a natural top spot on the card Saturday. In addition, there will be a torrid and destructive demolition race both nights. First race is always at 8:30 p.m. Gates open at 6.

Among the top drivers entered both nights are Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Chicagoans Roy Szach and "Tiger Tom" Pistone, Erik Johnson of Highland Park, Butch Linden of Buffalo Grove and some 40 others.

Lorenzen will be out to make sure that his mount holds together Saturday. He led until the 83rd lap in a 100 lapper at O'Hare last month, but then had to retire when a tire gave out as victory was within his grasp.

O'Hare also continues to present full stock car racing programs on Wednesday nights at bargain admission rates.

No-Hitter for Kowal

Cards Stop Lions Twice In LL Series

Greg Kowal and Tommy Manderscheid gave the National League Lions a sample of some excellent pitching in the Mt. Prospect Major Little League World Series.

The two standouts from the American division champion Cards pitched successive shutouts with Kowal chalking up another no-hitter in his 3-0 win. Manderscheid yielded five hits and didn't walk a man in registering his fifth victory of the season.

Kowal fanned 12 and didn't allow a ball hit out of the infield in putting the Cardinals off to a one game lead in the best 3-of-5 World Series. Mike Mueller worked for the Lions and allowed 11 hits, fanning seven and walking only two.

THE FIELDING highlight of the day was made by Steve Weber who speared a sharply hit line drive down the first base line. Weber also got a key hit to break the game wide open with a line drive single with the bags loaded.

Livi of the Cardinals had a perfect day at the plate while Kowal went 3-for-3, all sharp singles.

The Cards made it two in a row with Manderscheid doing the honors this time in a 12-0 triumph.

Tom fanned nine and also collected three hits at the plate, including a homer. Kowal blasted a homer and Jack Lewis tripled.

For the Lions, 10-year-old Mike Mueller collected two of the five hits.

Cardinals Roll To American Loop Title in MP Play

Mt. Prospect's Little League Cardinals had no trouble rolling to the American division championship of the Majors as they swept to 14 victories in 15 encounters.

Dr. L. J. Weber's aggregation dumped the Orioles 3-2 for its final victory as three pitchers combined for 23 strikeouts in the nine inning, rain-interrupted contest.

Jimmy LaRocca of the losers hurled a strong game and got two of the six hits allowed by the Cardinal pitchers. LaRocca fanned 12.

TOMMY MANDERSCHEID drove in the winning run with a sharp single to center in the bottom of the ninth.

Making good use of two round trippers by Bob Keck and four-hit pitching by Wayne Kuklinski, the Bruning Sox defeated the VFW 17-3. It was Kuklinski's fifth win of the year for the Sox and Bill Erbach took the loss for the Vets.

The Bruning's followed up with another victory, dumping the Merchants 7-5. Bob Grady was the winner while his teammate Craig Leonard chipped in with a double and homer.

Bob Leitzen hit a homer for the losing Merchants and Tom Davis was the losing pitcher.

The VFW Dodgers, behind Danny Klingburg, defeated the Orioles 5-4 despite a well-pitched game by Ed Harney who also homered in the defeat.

For the Dodgers it was victory number four and credit goes to the smallest battery in the league, Klingburg and Dennis Palubicki.

Tennis Club Records Sweep Over Wheaton

The Arlington Tennis Club made a clean sweep over Wheaton in all three divisions, Men's "A," Men's "B," and Women's.

The Arlington Men's "A" victory moved them into a tie for first place in the league. One of the best matches was between Jim Erickson of Arlington and John Teas of Wheaton. Erickson, a graduate of Arlington high school and now a sophomore at Northwestern U., had to struggle for over two hours in an extremely close match before he won 6-2, 11-13, 7-5.

The Men's "B" division swept their match 5-0 to remain undefeated in the North and West Suburban Tennis League.

The Arlington women's division, after losing two close matches in the past two weeks to Des Plaines and Elmhurst, won for the first time 3-2.

Downward Motion Key To Your Chip Shots

PLAYING THE UTILITY SHOTS

The utility shots in golf cover many phases. You have the sand shots, the pitch shot, and the chip shot.

The average golfer has trouble playing the chip shot mainly because he doesn't understand the nature of the shot. Usually he puts the ball with an iron and calls it a chip.

Simply bunting the ball with an iron from the apron of the green does not constitute the chip shot unless one particular motion is applied. Such a shot depends mostly on lady luck.

THE MOTION is downward, the essential action in all iron shots. This downward blow into the chip shot is essential because it imparts spin which in turn gives you control.

I like to think of the pitch or chip shot as an exaggerated putt. For example, you putt with your shoulders, just stroking the ball. For a short shot of maybe fifteen feet, you again stroke the ball with your shoulders and no body. In other words, the least amount of room there is for air.

As illustrated in the picture, you can see a definite shoulder action as the club head follows the ball square to the hole.

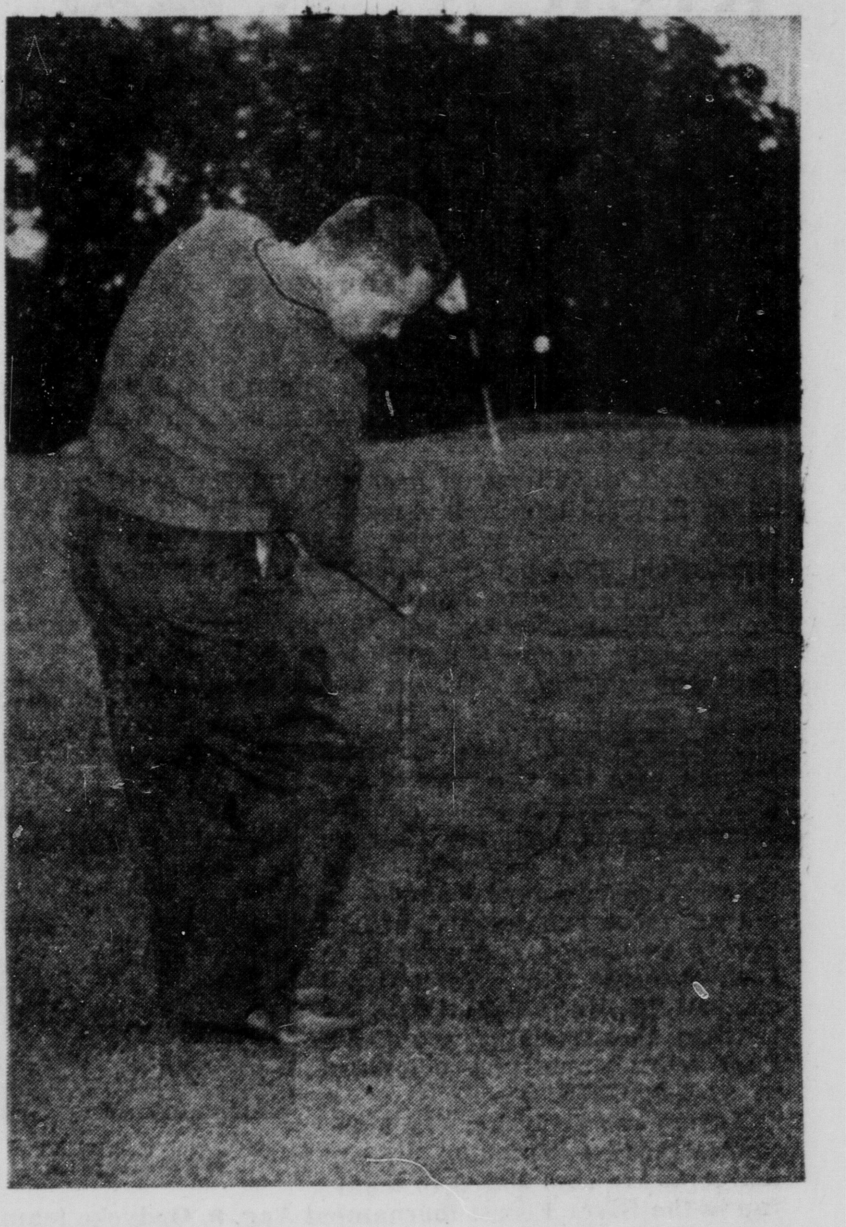
THERE ARE several schools of thought on how to judge a chip shot. Some contend you should judge the roll and let the ball land where it may. Others say you should pick a spot on the green for the ball to land and let the roll take care of itself.

Possibly the simplest method is to judge a chip shot by the manner in which it would react if you rolled it by hand toward the cup. Unless you can already visualize this, practice it.

Roll the ball underhand, then transfer the results to the proper technique of the chip shot. This is the most practical way to coordinate your muscles. Afterwards, judging the chip is a matter of using your imagination.

By practicing this, you will see your golf scores go down the same as your chip shots will.



ROLLING GREEN PRO Chuck Pedersen demonstrates the proper downward motion used in all basic iron shots. This type of motion provides the backspin that helps those approach shots drop and hold the green in position for one putt.

Proviso Knocks Colt Sox From Tourney, 4-1

Mt. Prospect's Colt Sox dropped out of tournament play with a 4-1 loss to Proviso but still finished the season with an impressive 12-3 mark.

The Sox gained the playoffs with a victory over Niles in the tilt to decide the league championship.

Danny Schmidt handled the mound chores for Mt. Prospect in the decisive 13-1 win as the hard-hitting Sox enjoyed one of their most satisfying victories of the 1960 campaign.

Braves Stop Indians 12-2 In MP Baseball

The Braves chalked up a 12-2 win over the Indians in the Mt. Prospect National league by scoring nine runs in the first inning and adding three more later. Jim Newgard got the victory while Ken Kelpin got three hits and Jim Theroux batted in five runs with a pair of safeties.

Cubs Claim Three Pony League Wins In Mount Prospect

The Cardinals hold a two game lead over the runnerup Yankees in the Mt. Prospect Pony League although the Cubs made their bid last week with three victories.

Tom Wall was on the mound as the Cubs topped the Sox 11-8, overcoming a five runs deficit for the victory.

Right hander Emil Sell pitched the Cubs to a 6-5 win over the Braves with Bill Mutert slapping a homer. Sell tripled but was out trying to stretch the safety into a home run.

MUTERT FIGURED prominently in winning it for the Cubs Sunday over the Tigers 6-5. He pitched seven innings and also singled in the tying run in the seventh.

In the eighth Tommy Clow laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to score Jeff Heiden with the deciding tally.

It took three extra innings for the Braves to topple the Indians 5-4. Mike Burke pitched five-hit ball for seven innings, then Tom Rogers came in and hurled two scoreless and hitless frames.

LARRY BOGART led the Braves at the plate with four hits, driving in the tying and winning runs in the last of the ninth. McLillan hit a long triple for the Braves.

Right hander Keith Bergen won for the Pirates with a 4-2 decision over the Giants.

Dick Dvorak collected five hits for the Pirates in a 9-8 win over the Yankees and drove in the deciding tally in the last inning. Ryan and Henry each collected three hits.

The Pirates weren't as fortunate Sunday as the Indians won easily 14-6, scoring 12 runs in the final two innings. Ron Moehling got credit for the mound decision.

Kogan Named Prexy At BPAA Convention

The election of Nat Kogan of Cleveland as president and the passage of a tournament and exhibition bowling rule by the members highlighted the 28th annual Bowling Proprietors' Association of America Convention recently completed in Las Vegas, Nev.

Kogan, a bowling proprietor for 20 years, has been a member of the BPAA's executive committee for the past six years and the board of directors for 15 years. He succeeds Joseph F. Paulus of Detroit, association president for the past two years.

Most prominent of the nine by-laws passed by more than 500 members attending the six-day affair, which ran June 20-25 at the Stardust hotel along Las Vegas' "Strip," was one establishing a tournament and exhibition rule requiring all bowlers competing in the seven BPAA national tournaments, including the All-Star, to do all their tournament and advertised exhibition bowling exclusively in BPAA member houses in order to be eligible.

ALSO THE RULE requires all state, district and city BPA groups to follow the same rule as the national for tournaments that they sponsor.

Nine years ago members voted to establish a rule making only those who do all their league bowling only in BPAA houses eligible for BPAA national tournaments. The new rule is an extension of this thinking.

This rule will not affect the majority of bowlers since 85 per cent of the lanes in America -- this figure is 75,000 -- belong to the BPAA.

Also the members changed the by-laws of the association, enabling it to become a world-wide organization. Executive Director Howard C. Seehausen informed the conventioneers that inquiries for membership had been received from all parts of the world from Austria to Australia. Previously only establishments within the United States, Canada, and Mexico were eligible.

ALSO ADOPTED was a by-law providing for separate tenpin departments in states having non-tenpin proprietor associations. The area chiefly affected is along the eastern seaboard.

Because of the growth of the BPAA, the allignment of areas for the nine vice presidencies was shifted by the members.

The nine vice presidents elected were Mickey Hamalak, Long Island City, N. Y., representing the Northeast region; R. C. Vandever of Chester, Pa., from the Eastern region; Lou Frantz of Shively, Ky., for the Southeast; Carl Hindel of Indianapolis, Ind., for the East Central; Victor Lerner of Kansas City, Mo., for the West Central; Vincent Kelley Jr. of Omaha, Neb., for the Midwest; Otto Hoes of Dallas, Tex., for the Southwest; Dusty Springston of Las Vegas, Nev., for the Pacific; and Jack Fasso of Seattle, Wash., for the Northwest. Frantz and Kelley were the only vice presidents re-elected.

W. J. HAYMAN of Elmhurst, Ill., Steve Stefan of Cleveland, and J. B. Coker of San Diego, Calif., were re-elected secretary, treasurer and sergeant-at-arms, respectively.

A record 1,414 persons registered for the convention, topping the previous high of slightly more than 1,000 last year in Miami Beach. Also the 55 exhibitors at the convention was a record.

Blind Bogey Event of Day

Event of the day, July 25, in the Old Orchard ladies 18-hole golf league was Blind Bogey. Winners were Pat Fenner, 1st flight; Ruth Schreiner, 2nd flight; Rose Davis, 3rd flight.

Yankees Gain 3rd In Elk Grove LL

Exploding with an 11-hit attack, the Yankees assured themselves of third place finish in the Elk Grove Village Little League with a 10-5 win over the Cubs last Friday evening.

Dick Adam worked on the mound for the Yanks and yielded seven hits.

Gary DeBerge slammed two doubles to pace the winner's attack and Jimmy Hegg and Jimmy Halas played outstanding defensive games in the outfield.

The Cubs scored in every inning in a 6-2 win over the Braves with Rizzuto on the mound for the victors, hurling no-hit ball for 4 2/3 innings before Bob Rogowski singled.

Werner, Miedema, and Ruzzoto collected doubles for the winners.

A 3-run homer by Tasche in the first inning sent the Sox off to an effortless 9-3 win over the Dodgers with Bischof getting the decision.

Tasche registered the win as the Sox outslugged the Dodgers 17-10, scoring eleven runs in the first inning, and the Yankees bounced the Cubs 10-5 with Adams the winner.

Koop's Golf Entry Gains In AH Loop

Koop's Mustard increased its lead over second place Stan Standard Service by four points even though two members were absent in the Arlington Twilight league. The alternates, however, came through with flying colors with win and low net points respectively. New Emerald Cleaners took George C. Poole Inc. 10-2 to move from seventh to a one point edge in third position.

Stan Magnuson, a new member playing with a one handicap, tied Ken Seeger for a low gross of 38. A low net 30 was brought in by George Fisher shooting with a 14 handicap.

Eight players registered "Birds," John Coffee, Ken Seeger, Al Seyler, Chris Tessem, R. Witthans, Paul Malchow, Stan Magnuson, and Ernie Simmons.

Tommy Grafton got the win for the squad that holds a 1½ game lead over the runnerup Phillies and Hawks.

The second place Phillies topped the Redlegs 5-4, giving the pacesetters their first loss of the season. It was Jim Sesterhenn on the hill with a beautiful four-hitter. Jeff Winterburg hit a two-run homer to lead the winners.

SESTERHENN also pitched the Phils to a 25-10 victory over the Knights.

Gary Billings was the winning pitcher as the Hawks topped the Braves 8-3. Gary got hitting support from Bill Karlovitz who homered and Paul Mueller who tripled.

Jim McDonald pitched the Pirates to a 17-15 victory over the Cardinals but needed some excellent relief pitching from Bob Lund. The big blows for the winners were triples by Tim Gottschalk and Rick Muraski.

Exploding with an 11-hit attack, the Yankees assured themselves of third place finish in the Elk Grove Village Little League with a 10-5 win over the Cubs last Friday evening.

Dick Adam worked on the mound for the Yanks and yielded seven hits.

Gary DeBerge slammed two doubles to pace the winner's attack and Jimmy Hegg and Jimmy Halas played outstanding defensive games in the outfield.

The Cubs scored in every inning in a 6-2 win over the Braves with Rizzuto on the mound for the victors, hurling no-hit ball for 4 2/3 innings before Bob Rogowski singled.

Werner, Miedema, and Ruzzoto collected doubles for the winners.

A 3-run homer by Tasche in the first inning sent the Sox off to an effortless 9-3 win over the Dodgers with Bischof getting the decision.

Tasche registered the win as the Sox outslugged the Dodgers 17-10, scoring eleven runs in the first inning, and the Yankees bounced the Cubs 10-5 with Adams the winner.

Van Driel's Takes Over First Place

Monday night, July 18, the Van Driel Drug team met the boys from Kruse's Schlitz in the Mt. Prospect Monday golf league.

The Druggists routed the Kruse group, winning 8½ out of a possible 10 points and took over first place. Kruse's Schlitz dropped to third place when the George O'Day Realtors won seven points from Moler's Barber Shop.

The low gross was shot by Ray Krewson who had a 37. Mr. Krewson—one of the better golfers—plays in the number A spot for Van Driel Drugs and pretty obviously helped his team win this important victory. George O'Day, playing on his own team, won the low net with a total of 43-13-30 to help his team pass up the floundering Schlitzers.

You have to beat those first place boys in order to do it and the Van Driel's team seemed to have no trouble on this Monday night.

Birdies were scored by Guy Courtney on number 10, John Moran on number 9, Carl Dilsaver on 5, George O'Day on 8 and Joe Cole, the all important secretary, on number 2.

Reimer Checks Hometown Running Mate at Waukegan

Young Milwaukeean John Reimer stopped a hometown running mate, Greg Kr from being the only able to set the fast qualifying time at the Waukegan Speedway this season. He bested Krieger's time by 3/100th's of a second and went on to place first in the 25 lap main event for the modified stock an average speed of 49.59 m.p.h.

In nine previous weeks Krieger has set the fast time of the night eight times and on the other, no time trials were run because of rainy weather. Reimer's speed in qualifying was measured at 52.13 mph.

Don Schumaker, Belvidere, Ill., grabbed the lead at the start of the feature and built himself up a half lap lead by the eighth lap of the race. By the time he started lapping slower cars, however, he began losing ground to Reimer who set a steady pace and moved smoothing through the field finally catching and taking over the number one spot on lap number 17. Krieger moved up to take over the second spot from Schumaker on the 22nd, and failed in his bid for the first place spot on the last lap of the event.

THE ACTION packed semi race saw three starts as on lap one, Ralph Patty, Zion, was driven into the concrete retainer wall on the backstretch by Glen Eichmann, Lake Zurich. Seconds later, Swede Johnson, Waukegan piled into the stalled cars, and all three were forced from the event. On the second start, all cars got one lap in, but on lap two, Frank Hough, Zion, ran into leader, Jack Norman, Waukegan, and climbed up onto Norman's machine nearly rolling over.

Flagman Duane Sweeney again stopped the race as the cars blocked the south turn and Hough's mount was atop part of Norman's. Neither of the drivers were injured and after the third start, Eddie Irving, Waukegan, took over the lead on lap seven and went on for the win, narrowly beating out Highland Park's driving ace, Erik Johnson.

RECEIVING trophy from former Davis Cup tennis immortal Frank Parker (center) is Bob Inman, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Inman, 513 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. Inman, who graduated from Arlington high school, won the trophy at Lincoln Park Tennis Club, where he participated in finals of Chicago area Jaycee Junior Tennis Tournament (U.S. L.T.A. sanctioned) with his doubles partner, Stuart Opdycke, (right) of 823 Forest, Evanston. Parker is one of a group of former champions and players who are sponsoring a summer-long program of finding, encouraging and coaching the best young talent they can find in the Chicago area, through the Lincoln Park Tennis Club in Chicago. The club cooperated with the Chicago Junior Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring the Chicago area finals of the tourney. National finals, for which Inman and Opdycke were eliminated in close play at Peoria recently, will be held in August.

Big Horn Mountains Teeming With Deer

by BILL AND BARBARA STRICKLER

WYOMING MULIE

One of my favorite ways to assist in combating the warm weather of summer is thinking of our annual deer hunt each fall, looking forward to and remembering the crisp cool days, the light snow usually on the ground and the brisk nights.

In October of 1959 four of us took off for the Big Horn mountains near Buffalo, Wyo. to hunt mule deer. We only had a week and had to travel about 1300 miles, so we changed off driving and drove straight through. Driving in a station wagon with air mattresses in the back we lost very little sleep so that it wasn't unsafe driving.

While driving the 70 miles from Casper, Wyo. to Buffalo between 3:30 and 5:00 in the morning we saw so many jack rabbits along the road that we couldn't count them. We also saw 27 deer that we did count. Just seeing all that game, right along the road sure raised an already exhilarated quartet.

WE SPENT that day obtaining licenses, getting situated, then napping and resting for a 4:30 a.m. start.

Hunters who are used to Eastern deer hunting would not believe the game we saw in just one day of hunting. We all filled our licenses that day and could have filled them one-half hour after sunrise.

At a conservative guess we saw over 200 deer and 12 elk that one day. Sitting on the side of a ridge we glanced across to a wooded section on the next ridge and could see 38 deer. As we were not used to mountain climbing and the lack of oxygen at 12,000 feet above sea level we sat and rested while watching for at least a half hour.

SHOOTING a deer was just a matter of taking a good rack of horns and lining the sights up, then squeezing off a shot. I brought home a 4-point, Western counting, or 11-point Eastern counting.

Out West they do not count brow points or small projections, only full tines and one side only. This one had just under a 30" spread. Although it wasn't a record deer, it was a wonderful trophy head. It weighed 260 pounds field dressed, in other words, the body cavity was cleaned out.

Anyone interested in deer hunting should try Wyoming. Traveling in a group and sharing expenses, we usually spend a little over a hundred dollars for everything, including $20 for the license and souvenirs.

THE REST of the week we spent trout fishing for rainbows and German browns. The scenery, the hunting and the fishing are just fabulous and impossible to describe.

For easy hunting, contact Dan Ahern, Buffalo, Wyo. He will arrange a cabin for you at about $5 a day, and a guide with a jeep for $20 a day. You can very easily get a deer in one day, in fact in an hour's time you will probably have your choice of at least 20 deer. This I know as a fact, having hunted the Big Horn mountains for two years.

If you like a harder hunt, take a tent, and some food and go out on your own. However, let me warn you it is a very rough section of the country. If I can help in any way please feel free to contact me.

Float Fishing

IN WAUPACA county, in Wisconsin, there is located one of the few remaining spots in the nearby areas where you can still do what is commonly called "float fishing."

We try to travel up route 45 to County road N over to Manawa, two or three times a year for Northern Pike. Starting about 10 miles north of Manawa we float down the Manawa river, trolling and casting at all likely spots for these fighting fish. We have caught and have seen Northerns as long as a man's leg caught in these waters. It is an all day float trip. There are also three and four pound rock bass and large pan fish in there.

There are small nearby lakes with cabins and good boats available. It is best to take your own boat for your float trip because of the lack of boats and very poor boats for rent on the river itself. The lakes offer good beaches and clear water for swimming as well as good fishing.

WE HAVE stayed up there for a week as well as leaving on a Friday for a five or six hour drive for the weekend. We highly recommend this area for productive fishing fun. Although not an overloaded vacation area it is a good one.

Packing Hints

After several years of hunting and fishing trips we have found that packing your things can be a little bit of a problem. If you're roughing it, good suitcases are scratched and bumped around. They are also sometimes unhandy.

Cardboard boxes are flimsy and very destructible. We have found that army barracks bags are a partial answer to this problem. They can be thrown around and getting them wet does not harm them.

ALSO FOR pack trips they are ideal and are no problem to take slung across the horse back and will make your guide happy and pleased not to have to figure out how to throw a diamond hitch on an assorted and odd sized pile of luggage.

The ideal packing for a boat or canoe trip can be made simply. If you purchase some fiberglas at a boat shop you can make your own pack baskets or boxes. It is simply done and can be made to the size and shape that fits your needs. Don't forget to use at least a couple of "D" rings on each box so that straps can be fastened for ease of handling and strapping down.

Anything that is the size and shape you want can be used. A large can if you like a round pack or a rectangular shape can be made with wood. Instructions are included with the fiberglas on the processing of it.

Softball Team Triumphs, 10-1

Pioneer Parks' midget softball team, composed of 8-10 year old boys, played and defeated Evergreen Park at their field Tuesday, July 19, 10-1.

Frank Heinz, Pioneer pitcher, hurled a 1-hitter and his teammates backed him up with excellent fielding to hold the opponents scoreless until the seventh inning when Evergreen scored its lone run.

This is the second win for the Pioneer team Heinz, Garrity, Zeller, Sauerland and Gongol all connected for extra base hits.

THE ACTION packed semi race saw three starts as on lap one, Ralph Patty, Zion, was driven into the concrete retainer wall on the backstretch by Glen Eichmann, Lake Zurich. Seconds later, Swede Johnson, Waukegan piled into the stalled cars, and all three were forced from the event. On the second start, all cars got one lap in, but on lap two, Frank Hough, Zion, ran into leader, Jack Norman, Waukegan, and climbed up onto Norman's machine nearly rolling over.

Flagman Duane Sweeney again stopped the race as the cars blocked the south turn and Hough's mount was atop part of Norman's. Neither of the drivers were injured and after the third start, Eddie Irving, Waukegan, took over the lead on lap seven and went on for the win, narrowly beating out Highland Park's driving ace, Erik Johnson.

RECEIVING trophy from former Davis Cup tennis immortal Frank Parker (center) is Bob Inman, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Inman, 513 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. Inman, who graduated from Arlington high school, won the trophy at Lincoln Park Tennis Club, where he participated in finals of Chicago area Jaycee Junior Tennis Tournament (U.S. L.T.A. sanctioned) with his doubles partner, Stuart Opdycke, (right) of 823 Forest, Evanston. Parker is one of a group of former champions and players who are sponsoring a summer-long program of finding, encouraging and coaching the best young talent they can find in the Chicago area, through the Lincoln Park Tennis Club in Chicago. The club cooperated with the Chicago Junior Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring the Chicago area finals of the tourney. National finals, for which Inman and Opdycke were eliminated in close play at Peoria recently, will be held in August.

Big Horn Mountains Teeming With Deer

by BILL AND BARBARA STRICKLER

WYOMING MULIE

One of my favorite ways to assist in combating the warm weather of summer is thinking of our annual deer hunt each fall, looking forward to and remembering the crisp cool days, the light snow usually on the ground and the brisk nights.

In October of 1959 four of us took off for the Big Horn mountains near Buffalo, Wyo. to hunt mule deer. We only had a week and had to travel about 1300 miles, so we changed off driving and drove straight through. Driving in a station wagon with air mattresses in the back we lost very little sleep so that it wasn't unsafe driving.

While driving the 70 miles from Casper, Wyo. to Buffalo between 3:30 and 5:00 in the morning we saw so many jack rabbits along the road that we couldn't count them. We also saw 27 deer that we did count. Just seeing all that game, right along the road sure raised an already exhilarated quartet.

WE SPENT that day obtaining licenses, getting situated, then napping and resting for a 4:30 a.m. start.

Hunters who are used to Eastern deer hunting would not believe the game we saw in just one day of hunting. We all filled our licenses that day and could have filled them one-half hour after sunrise.

At a conservative guess we saw over 200 deer and 12 elk that one day. Sitting on the side of a ridge we glanced across to a wooded section on the next ridge and could see 38 deer. As we were not used to mountain climbing and the lack of oxygen at 12,000 feet above sea level we sat and rested while watching for at least a half hour.

SHOOTING a deer was just a matter of taking a good rack of horns and lining the sights up, then squeezing off a shot. I brought home a 4-point, Western counting, or 11-point Eastern counting.

Out West they do not count brow points or small projections, only full tines and one side only. This one had just under a 30" spread. Although it wasn't a record deer, it was a wonderful trophy head. It weighed 260 pounds field dressed, in other words, the body cavity was cleaned out.

Anyone interested in deer hunting should try Wyoming. Traveling in a group and sharing expenses, we usually spend a little over a hundred dollars for everything, including $20 for the license and souvenirs.

THE REST of the week we spent trout fishing for rainbows and German browns. The scenery, the hunting and the fishing are just fabulous and impossible to describe.

For easy hunting, contact Dan Ahern, Buffalo, Wyo. He will arrange a cabin for you at about $5 a day, and a guide with a jeep for $20 a day. You can very easily get a deer in one day, in fact in an hour's time you will probably have your choice of at least 20 deer. This I know as a fact, having hunted the Big Horn mountains for two years.

If you like a harder hunt, take a tent, and some food and go out on your own. However, let me warn you it is a very rough section of the country. If I can help in any way please feel free to contact me.

Float Fishing

IN WAUPACA county, in Wisconsin, there is located one of the few remaining spots in the nearby areas where you can still do what is commonly called "float fishing."

We try to travel up route 45 to County road N over to Manawa, two or three times a year for Northern Pike. Starting about 10 miles north of Manawa we float down the Manawa river, trolling and casting at all likely spots for these fighting fish. We have caught and have seen Northerns as long as a man's leg caught in these waters. It is an all day float trip. There are also three and four pound rock bass and large pan fish in there.

There are small nearby lakes with cabins and good boats available. It is best to take your own boat for your float trip because of the lack of boats and very poor boats for rent on the river itself. The lakes offer good beaches and clear water for swimming as well as good fishing.

WE HAVE stayed up there for a week as well as leaving on a Friday for a five or six hour drive for the weekend. We highly recommend this area for productive fishing fun. Although not an overloaded vacation area it is a good one.

Packing Hints

After several years of hunting and fishing trips we have found that packing your things can be a little bit of a problem. If you're roughing it, good suitcases are scratched and bumped around. They are also sometimes unhandy.

Cardboard boxes are flimsy and very destructible. We have found that army barracks bags are a partial answer to this problem. They can be thrown around and getting them wet does not harm them.

ALSO FOR pack trips they are ideal and are no problem to take slung across the horse back and will make your guide happy and pleased not to have to figure out how to throw a diamond hitch on an assorted and odd sized pile of luggage.

The ideal packing for a boat or canoe trip can be made simply. If you purchase some fiberglas at a boat shop you can make your own pack baskets or boxes. It is simply done and can be made to the size and shape that fits your needs. Don't forget to use at least a couple of "D" rings on each box so that straps can be fastened for ease of handling and strapping down.

Anything that is the size and shape you want can be used. A large can if you like a round pack or a rectangular shape can be made with wood. Instructions are included with the fiberglas on the processing of it.

Softball Team Triumphs, 10-1

Pioneer Parks' midget softball team, composed of 8-10 year old boys, played and defeated Evergreen Park at their field Tuesday, July 19, 10-1.

Frank Heinz, Pioneer pitcher, hurled a 1-hitter and his teammates backed him up with excellent fielding to hold the opponents scoreless until the seventh inning when Evergreen scored its lone run.

This is the second win for the Pioneer team Heinz, Garrity, Zeller, Sauerland and Gongol all connected for extra base hits.

Sales Tax Totals Reported

Stockholders of Culligan, Inc., international manufacturer of water conditioning equipment, were told at their annual meeting recently that company sales last year have broken all records for the third consecutive year.

Harold F. Werhane, president, said that consolidated net sales for the fiscal year, ending April 30, increased 12.4 per cent over last year. He added that the company expected this picture of increased sales to continue during 1960 -'61.

This is the first annual report issued by the company since its public offering of 135,000 shares of common stock on March 1, 1960. Earnings per share on the average number of shares outstanding during the year were 96 cents.

The strength and success of Culligan and its dealer network is demonstrated by the company's dominant position in the water conditioning industry. It is estimated that Culligan produced 22 per cent of all the household water conditioning units sold in the United States in 1959.

Sales Tax Totals Reported

Stockholders of Culligan, Inc., international manufacturer of water conditioning equipment, were told at their annual meeting recently that company sales last year have broken all records for the third consecutive year.

Harold F. Werhane, president, said that consolidated net sales for the fiscal year, ending April 30, increased 12.4 per cent over last year. He added that the company expected this picture of increased sales to continue during 1960 -'61.

This is the first annual report issued by the company since its public offering of 135,000 shares of common stock on March 1, 1960. Earnings per share on the average number of shares outstanding during the year were 96 cents.

The strength and success of Culligan and its dealer network is demonstrated by the company's dominant position in the water conditioning industry. It is estimated that Culligan produced 22 per cent of all the household water conditioning units sold in the United States in 1959.

Caplis, Inc. Announces Appointment

Previously, McGrath had been employed by Continental Casualty Co. for 6 years.

McGrath, his wife Monica, and their two sons and two daughters have resided in their home in Rolling Meadows since 1956.

Home and Yard Are Cause of Injuries

The automobile is being blamed for a large share of the accidental injuries that bring people to the emergency departments of our hospitals, but home and yard injuries are still in first place. One of the more recent inventions that has made the home a dangerous place for both children is the power lawnmower.

During the lawn season hospitals report a steady stream of mower injuries, especially on the weekend when the lawn gets its weekly trimming and the whole family joins in the lark. While the reel-type mower must be treated with respect, especially when there are children around, it is the rotary with its whirling knives that is responsible for smashed or missing fingers and toes, and occasionally even more serious crippling. The rotor can throw a stone or a metal object with the speed of a bullet. Children playing on the lawn when dad is mowing have been killed by such flying objects.

DOCTORS join with manufacturers of mowers in laying down urgent safety rules for handling power mowers:

Don't let a child run a mower except under close and constant supervision of an adult. This is especially true of riding mowers that can tip over and expose whirling blades more dangerous than a rattlesnake. Under no circumstances should children be permitted to "hot-rod" a mowe'r around the lawn.

Don't permit children to play or adults to work nearby when a rotary mower is in operation. Even if you keep free of the lethal blades, they can pick up objects and throw them with tremendous force. Nearly half of all mower injuries are from thrown objects. This argues that one of the best safety precautions is to keep the lawn free of stones and bits of iron.

DON'T CLEAR a clogged mower with hands or feet. Avoid using it when the grass is wet and mushy, but if you must do so, double your precautions in keeping away from the blades.

Don't get burned by a hot motor and don't refuel a hot motor with gasoline. Here again it is the children who are most likely to grow careless and to sustain painful if not fatal burns.

Perhaps you still don't believe that a power mower is a dangerous machine. Then take a trip to your nearest hospital and watch the stream of suffering and disillusioned people streaming through the emergency department. And as usual, its the kids that get the worst of it.

Brasher Attends Program

William R. Brasher, 109 N. Lancaster, Mt. Prospect, assistant traffic manager of Continental Grain Co., was among the 49 transportation executives drawn from U. S. industry and military services that are attending the 1960 Transportation Management program of Stanford University Graduate School of Business.

The intensive four - week program, only one of its kind in the nation, is built around actual case problems taken from the various modes of transportation.

The course of study includes business policy, transportation economies, financial analysis, transportation management, and public speaking.

AN ADDITIONAL feature is the "management game," in which the student-executives set up their own companies and compete in the manufacture and sale of a fictitious product.

By feeding their managerial decisions into a computer, the teams can determine effects of their decisions upon their share of the market and upon the profit potential of their companies. The computer makes it possible to simulate several years of competition in a few weeks.

Karl M. Ruppenthal, lecturer in transportation and management at Stanford, is directing the program.

Standard Oil Reorganizes Executives

M. L. Hayes, 1425 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, has been named assistant corporate secretary of Standard Oil company of Indiana to Earl W. Russell, it was announced recently by John E. Swearingen, company president.

Hayes' appointment comes as part of the reorganization program of key executives of Standard Oil.

Hayes will also act as administrative assistant to Swearingen.

Social Security Booklet Offered

Do you know that you are required by law to pay Social Security taxes for employees who work in your private household?

"Household employers paying their maids, babysitters, cooks and other domestic help more than $50 in a calendar quarter of the year must make quarterly reports to Internal Revenue," according to Northwest District Manager, Julius Berman, of the Social Security Administration.

He also said, "The report must be accompanied by the payment of 6 per cent Social Security tax on wages paid. This tax is shared equally by the household employer and household employee."

THESE requirements and other helpful information are explained in a handy, four page booklet, "Social Security and Your Household Employee" (Booklet No. 21), available without charge.

The booklet contains a clip-out registration card for household employers to mail to Internal Revenue for tax reporting forms.

This booklet and other helpful information for household employers and employees may be obtained by visiting, telephoning or writing to your nearest Social Security office.

The Northwest District office is located at 4255 Milwaukee ave.

Du Page County readers are served by the district office located at 1124 Westgate ave., Oak Park.

Sales Break Record

City and county sales tax collections made in May on April liability were reported recently to Governor William G. Stratton by the Illinois Department of Revenue. City sales tax collections grossed $4,824,333 and county sales tax collections totaled $269,810.

The collections from 1,105 cities and villages (an increase of three over last month's report) and from 49 counties represent a tax of one-half per cent on April retail sales in the municipalities and parts of counties not in municipalities.

Gross collections of cities and villages were reduced by $192,819, the state's four per cent administration cost. Included in the net amount of $4,627,653 certified to cities and villages is $2,345.95 paid under protest but not involved in a suit. An additional amount, $638.74, is withheld because it under injunctional order.

Gross collections from counties were reduced by $16,189, the state's six per cent administration cost. No protest payments were received in the county tax and the net amount certified to counties is $253,622.

To date, 1,112 municipalities and 51 counties have passed ordinances allowing collection of the one-half per cent tax.

At Southern Illinois

Twenty-four students are receiving on-the-job training this summer, part of a cooperative effort between education and the market place to produce potential salespeople and executives. The students are part of the cooperative retail training curricula at Southern Illinois University's Vocational Technical institute.

Learning which results from experience gained through 20 weeks of on-the-job training during the second school year is one of the unique features of the program.

Those interning this summer from this area are Bill White, 502 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights and Ronald Thompson, Palatine.

Students Increase Employment Figure

A record number of youngsters entered the labor force as school ended in June, causing sharp increases in employment and unemployment, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell announced.

The increasing number of teenagers in the population and the fact that the June survey week this year fell at the latest possible time in the month (June 12-18), after most students were already out of school and available for work, combined to bring about a record 2.3 million increase in the civilian labor force. Of this increase, 2.2 million were boys and girls 14 to 19 years of age.

As the labor force increased more than seasonally, so did unemployment, which rose by almost one million over the month to 4.4 million. However, 800,000 of this increase occured among teenagers and another 100,000 among those aged 20 to 24, almost all entering the labor force from school. As a result, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose from 4.9 per cent to 5.5 per cent between May and June.

DURING THE same period, State insured unemployment, which does not include new jobseekers, fell seasonally by 130,000 to 1.6 million in mid-June.

Since the majority of young people entering the labor force found jobs, total employment rose sharply by 1.4 million to a new all time record of 68.6 million. This was a million more than a year ago (excluding Alaska and Hawaii, which were not included in last year's figures.

One million of the June increase was in agricultural employment — a substantially larger than usual increase. Agriculture, however, was still below its year-ago level. Nonagricultural employment —including the self-employed, domestics, and unpaid family workers — rose seasonally by nearly 400,000 to 61.7 million— also a new all-time record— with most of the increase occurring in outdoor and other seasonally expanding activities.

The factory work week increased by 0.1 hours to 40.0 hours; normally there is a somewhat larger rise in June. Weekly hours were 0.7 hours lower than in June 1959; every major industry group in the durable goods sector and most of those in nondurables reported a shorter work week than a year ago. Average overtime hours were unchanged over the month at 2.4 hours, one half hour below a year ago.

Weekl yearnings of factory production workers rose by 23 cents over the month to $91.60, and hourly earnings remained unchanged at $2.29.

Some of the most attractive and most easily grown garden perennials are the Hemerocallis or Daylily.

Their attractiveness and color make them very desirable, and in addition they require almost no care and have few insects or diseases.

The name Hemerocallis is a Greek derivative meaning "beautiful for a day." This name is somewhat misleading for although individual flowers last only a day, the flower stalks are beautiful for weeks as the flowers open.

Daylilies grow best in a medium-heavy loam. They have been raised with success, however, in soils ranging from the lightest sandy types to the heaviest clays, and under widely varying climatic conditions. To get the soil into good physical condition, spade it deep and work in generous amounts of well-rotted manure, compost, leafmold, or peat. This organic matter helps to maintain good tilth, aids in holding moisture, and acts as a storehouse for plant nutrients. Sandy soils are especially benefited by applications of organic matter.

THE DAYLILY does well under a wide range of moisture conditions. While certain varieties will grow satisfactorily in extremely dry and also in excessively wet areas, most daylilies prefer good drainage and moderate moisture. In gardens with poor drainage, mounding up the beds is a practical solution to the moisture problem.

Since the daylily is so undemanding in its needs, little attention has been given to its pH requirements. A slightly acid or near neutral reaction is considered best. However, the soil may apparently be somewhat acid (pH below 7.0) or alkaline (pH about 7.0) without much affecting growth. It is reported that daylilies become pale or yellow-green where the soil is highly alkaline.

For top performance the daylily should be planted where it receives full sunlight most of the day. Many varieties grow quite well, however, if they receive only morning sun and are partially shaded during the afternoon. The light shade from a distant tree or mottled sunlight, such as found in open woodland, is ideal.

Daylilies can be moved anytime during the season but do best if dug just after blooming and replanted so that a good root system can be established before winter. The plants should be spaced about two feet apart as they multiply rapidly. The roots should be planted with the crown about one inch below the surface of the soil. Deep planting causes loss of vigor and poor bloom.

Most people are familiar with the old fashioned daylily or lemon lilies which although attractive were a pest because of their spreading habit.

Most modern varieties lack this weedy character.

Any homeowner can receive a great deal of pleasure from daylilies with a minimum of time and effort.

Much of the above information was derived from a comprehensive booklet on daylilies available for 35 cents from the Assistant Farm Adviser's office, 201 North Dunton ave., Arlington Heights.

The young artists will be divided into two groups. About half will attend the first camp session July 24-30; the remainder, the second session July 31-Aug.6.

The art camps are conducted by the University department of art and Division of University Extension, in cooperation with the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs.

At Ft. Monmouth

Second Lt. Alan G. Atwood, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Atwood, 17 W. Fifty-eighth, White Pine rd., Bensenville, completed the 10-week officer basic course at the Army Signal school, Fort Monmouth, N.J., July 9.

Lieutenant Atwood, a newly commissioned Signal Corps officer, was trained in small unit tactics, staff and command procedures, communication methods and military leadership.

The lieutenant received a bachelor degree in 1957 from Northeastern university, Boston, Mass., and a master degree in 1960 from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

Graduate of NU Business School

Miss Ethel L. Bicknese, 116 Lake st., Addison, completed all the requirements and received a bachelor of business administration degree from the School of Business at Northwestern university June 13.

Miss Bicknese completed this work through evening classes, but the degree is equivalent to the full four years of professional business study offered in the day school. This is an outstanding achievement, especially for one who was also employed full time.

In addition she received her diploma with distinction, having completed the work with a scholastic average of at least A-, which entitled her to membership in Delta Mu Delta, national honorary scholastic fraternity for business students.

At Camp Pendleton

Marine Pfc. Fredrick M. Oleksiak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimer Oleksiak, 416 N. Pine lane, Wood Dale, completed four weeks of individual combat training June 28 at the Marine Corps base, Camp Pendleton, Cal.

The course included the latest infantry tactics, first aid, demolitions, field fortifications and advanced schooling on weapons. Trainees learn that all Marines are basically infantrymen, whether they serve as cooks, typists, truck drivers, or with aviation units.

High School Instructors 'In School'

Three local high school teachers are attending a summer session at the Illinois Institute of Technology. They are Donald Hruby, 3608 Kingfisher lane, Rolling Meadows, an instructor at Arlington high school; Donald G. Beane, 2500 Park st., Rolling Meadows, also at Arlington; and John F. Flanigan, 439 S. Mason, Bensenville, an instructor at West Leyden high school.

This select group of secondary school teachers are getting a special program of study aimed at revitalizing high school instruction in mathematics and science.

The program goal of their course of study is threefold: to generate higher levels of mathematics and science teaching in the secondary schools to develop increased teacher competence and to aid teachers in attaining additional levels of qualification.

Airlines

There are more than 550,000 miles of scheduled airline routes in the United States.

Modern Etiquette

Q. What is the proper manner for husband and wife to introduce each other?

A. A woman always introduces her husband by his first name, or as "my husband" — never as "Mr. Wilding." The husband, in turn, introduces her socially as "My wife, Mary" — but to his business acquaintances as "Mrs. Wilding." He'll never refer to her as "the missus" or "my better half."

Barnes New Marine Pvt.

CHARLES BARNES

Charles A. Barnes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barnes, 1155 N. Hickory ave., Arlington Heights completed recruit training July 6 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Relatives and friends of many of the new Marines were on hand to witness the graduation ceremonies.

The 12-week training schedule included drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremonies, and other military subjects.

This recruit training prepares young Leathernecks for further specialized infantry training at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Second Lt. Alan G. Atwood, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip F. Atwood, 17 W. Fifty-eighth, White Pine rd., Bensenville, completed the 10-week officer basic course at the Army Signal school, Fort Monmouth, N.J., July 9.

Lieutenant Atwood, a newly commissioned Signal Corps officer, was trained in small unit tactics, staff and command procedures, communication methods and military leadership.

The lieutenant received a bachelor degree in 1957 from Northeastern university, Boston, Mass., and a master degree in 1960 from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

Graduate of NU Business School

Miss Ethel L. Bicknese, 116 Lake st., Addison, completed all the requirements and received a bachelor of business administration degree from the School of Business at Northwestern university June 13.

Miss Bicknese completed this work through evening classes, but the degree is equivalent to the full four years of professional business study offered in the day school. This is an outstanding achievement, especially for one who was also employed full time.

In addition she received her diploma with distinction, having completed the work with a scholastic average of at least A-, which entitled her to membership in Delta Mu Delta, national honorary scholastic fraternity for business students.

At Camp Pendleton

Marine Pfc. Fredrick M. Oleksiak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimer Oleksiak, 416 N. Pine lane, Wood Dale, completed four weeks of individual combat training June 28 at the Marine Corps base, Camp Pendleton, Cal.

The course included the latest infantry tactics, first aid, demolitions, field fortifications and advanced schooling on weapons. Trainees learn that all Marines are basically infantrymen, whether they serve as cooks, typists, truck drivers, or with aviation units.

High School Instructors 'In School'

Three local high school teachers are attending a summer session at the Illinois Institute of Technology. They are Donald Hruby, 3608 Kingfisher lane, Rolling Meadows, an instructor at Arlington high school; Donald G. Beane, 2500 Park st., Rolling Meadows, also at Arlington; and John F. Flanigan, 439 S. Mason, Bensenville, an instructor at West Leyden high school.

This select group of secondary school teachers are getting a special program of study aimed at revitalizing high school instruction in mathematics and science.

The program goal of their course of study is threefold: to generate higher levels of mathematics and science teaching in the secondary schools to develop increased teacher competence and to aid teachers in attaining additional levels of qualification.

Airlines

There are more than 550,000 miles of scheduled airline routes in the United States.

Modern Etiquette

Q. What is the proper manner for husband and wife to introduce each other?

A. A woman always introduces her husband by his first name, or as "my husband" — never as "Mr. Wilding." The husband, in turn, introduces her socially as "My wife, Mary" — but to his business acquaintances as "Mrs. Wilding." He'll never refer to her as "the missus" or "my better half."

Barnes New Marine Pvt.

CHARLES BARNES

Charles A. Barnes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barnes, 1155 N. Hickory ave., Arlington Heights completed recruit training July 6 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

Relatives and friends of many of the new Marines were on hand to witness the graduation ceremonies.

The 12-week training schedule included drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremonies, and other military subjects.

Trend to Large Farms

The trend toward larger farms has reduced the number of farming opportunities for young people.

A study in the north central states indicates that, from 1945 to 1954, 31 per cent of the farmers retired, died or took nonfarm jobs. But young farmers obtained only 16 per cent of the available farms. The remaining 15 per cent were taken over by operating farmers to enlarge their existing units.

As a result, only one farm youth in three was able to start farming. The other two had to find employment elsewhere.

WHEN A young man does get started in farming today, he and his family face many difficult problems. To farm efficiently, he must possess adequate acreage as well as finance sizable and growing investments in machinery, equipment, livestock and other improvements. To handle a large-scale modern farm, he must also have high management ability. One-man farms may easily require a tenant investment of $15,000.

Agricultural research workers in the north central states have just completed a cooperative research study on opportunities for beginning farmers and how young families get started in farming. They have given special attention to those who get started without substantial assistance.

Their findings have just been published in two publications. North Central Regional Publication 102, "Opportunities for Beginning Farmers," presents the overall picture of trends in farm size, credit and available farms.

NORTH Central Regional Extension Publication 8, "Getting Started and Established in Farming—With and Without family help," reports the actual tenure and financing plans used by beginning farmers. It points out arrangements for families who have only limited savings and other capital. It also reports on land contracts, labor-share leases, part time farming and some newer methods for getting started and established in farming.

The publication stresses the need for building a volume of business adequate to permit efficient operation and at the same time provide sufficient income for family living.

Copies of these two publications are now available at the office of the farm adviser, Carl F. Mees, 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights, your representative of the Agricultural Extension service and the University of Illinois college of agriculture in Cook county.

Cook Out Lesson Given To Area Home Bureau

Cool and sunny weather, plus the yard of the Robert Wagners, made an ideal setting for the cook-out lesson given by local leaders Mrs. Marvin Busse and Mrs. Herbert Sietman for members of Elk Grove Home Bureau. More than 30 members and guests participated in preparing the various courses of the meal, which included barbecued chicken, escalloped potatoes in foil, cabbage salad and "banana boats" for dessert.

At the close of the meeting songs were sung from the homemakers' camp program book. A copy of this program book is in the unit scrap book for anyone interested in the schedule of the camp. Mrs. Claire Schauer, Mrs. Ernest Grimm, Mrs. Conrad Wille, and Mrs. E. A. Schoppe, Mrs. Sietman's mother, were the guests in attendance.

A MOTION was suggested and seconded that a film on baby-sitting should be rented from the University of Illinois to be shown to the three 4-H clubs, TNT, Up and Doing and Future Homemakers, which are sponsored by the unit.

Up and Doing 4-H group is losing its leader, Mrs. Alvin Moehling. Anyone interested in 4-H activity with a group of girls is asked to call Mrs. C. Heinkel at HE 7-3241. A period of training is a preliminary for becoming a leader.

August is an open month for all units to decide upon their own choice of program. It was suggested that those in the Elk Grove group interested in an outing meet August 10 at noon, meet at Mrs. Troy Parker's home and then proceed to a point mid-way between Mrs. Parker's home and Arlington Heights, for an afternoon of fast-pace trotting fun and scenic enjoyment.

UNIT MEMBERS were reminded of the National Home Demonstration council to be held on the University of Wisconsin campus August 28 to September 1. Reservations must be in the Home Bureau office in Des Palines no later than August 1.

Mrs. George Koelper, 8100 N. Washington, Niles, believes in "killing two birds with one stone." She will be resident hostess for the September 28 meeting besides a dessert hostess along with Mrs. W.W. Hall and Mrs. Don Kastning. The lesson for the month, "Accident, Hospitalization and Health Insurance," will be given by Mrs. Claradehl Upham.

Synthetic Lysine No Cattle Cure-All

A University of Illinois livestock specialist warns cattle feeders that adding synthetic lysine to rations does not improve the performance of all rations.

G. R. Carlisle noted that farm magazines recently reported that lysine boosted the performance of cattle fed certain rations. For example, lysine added to rations containing a high percentage of urea brings a favorable response.

Lysine does not, however, improve the performance of cattle fed rations containing natural sources of protein, sluch as linseed and soybean meal.

Lysine is one of several amino acids which are "building blocks" of protein.

Carlisle cited recent studies to back up his statements. Two groups of cattle received similar rations except for the source of protein supplement. One group received a natural source containing no urea. The second revealed a supplement with 3.7 to 18.5 per cent urea.

Cattle in the first group outgained the second group. And they utilized their feed much more efficiently.

Research workers next added lysine to the rations of both groups. Then each group gained about the same. Cattle in the first group, however, still used fewer pounds of feed for each pound of gain.

Carlisle also adds that at present prices synthetic lysine is too expensive to compete with natural protein sources in beef cattle rations.

Cattle Price Outlook Improves in Corn Belt

By L. H. SIMERL

The outlook for cattle prices seems to be improving, especially in the corn belt. This conclusion is drawn mainly from a study of the important quarterly report of cattle (including calves) on feed July 1, which was recently released in Washington.

As of July 1, farmers in 21 reporting states were feeding 5,376,000 head of cattle, only 4 per cent more than the year before. Most of this increase was in California and other western states. Farmers in 13 north-central (corn-belt) states were feeding 3,719,000 cattle, only 1 per cent more (this percentage is not exact). Cattlemen in 8 western states were feeding 1,657,000 head, or 11 per cent more.

THE INCREASE in cattle on feed was about equally divided between steers and heifers, but the proportion of heifers to steers has increased. Heifers made up 29 per cent of the total this year compared with 28 per cent the year before. Steers made up 70 per cent this year and 71 per cent a year ago. Cows and other "critters" accounted for 1 per cent in both years.

Most of the increase in steer numbers was in the 500-to 700-pound range. This year 15 per cent were in this weight group compared with 12 per cent last year. The 700-to 900-pound group included 39 per cent of all steers this year and 41 per cent last year. Proportions of steers in other weight groups were unchanged. About 3 per cent weighed under 500 pounds; 32 per cent, 900 to 1,100 pounds; and 11 per cent, over 1,100 pounds.

Most of the increase in heifers on feed was also in the 500- to 700-pound range. There were smaller increases in numbers of heifers weighing under 500 pounds and over 900 pounds. There was a moderate reduction in the group weighing 700 to 900 pounds. Proportions of heifers in the various weight ranges were: under 500 pounds, 5 per cent; 500 to 700 pounds, 35 per cent; 700 to 900 pounds, 51 per cent; and 900 to 1,100 pounds, 9 per cent.

THE GOVERNMENT report indicated that farmers in 21 states would sell about 3,118,000 head of cattle from July through September. This is 6 per cent more than last year. If sales come up to expectations, the number remaining for market after October 1 will be only 1 per cent larger than in 1959.

The foregoing report on marketing applies only to cattle on feed July 1. Some cattle put on feed after July 1 will be marketed before the year end.

Another point to remember is that fed cattle provide only 60 to 65 per cent of our beef. The other 35 to 40 per cent, which grades lower than Good, comes from cows and other cattle sold without a feeding-fattening period. Marketings of non-fed cattle always increase moderately in this stage of the cattle cycle.

To sum up the situation: marketings of fed cattle will be only a little larger during the remainder of this year than last year. The increased supply of cattle may be sold without much further price decline because the supply of pork will be very short and consumers will have a record amount of buying power.

Tell Key Differences In High, Low Hog Production

Illinois record-keeping hog farmers averaged only $114 earnings for every $100 of feed used in 1959. But the top one-fifth of these farms earned $38 more for every $100 of feed than the low one-fifth.

In a farm business analysis report issued this week at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, agricultural economists A. G. Mueller and D. F. Wilken point out several key differences in the high and low earning hog farms.

The high-earning farms farrowed about 55 litters compared with 46 on the low-earning farms. The top farms weaned about one more pig per litter. After weaning, the low farms lost seven more pigs than the top farms.

Feed costs played a major part in producing higher earnings. The top farms produced their hogs for $9.13 a hundred pounds, while feed costs on the low-return farms averaged $11.61. The lower feed costs were due to 60 pounds less gran and 20 pounds less commercial feed required for each 100 pounds of pork produced.

High-earning farms produced quality hogs and timed their sales to obtain an average price of $14.13 a hundred pounds compared with only $13.67 on the low-earning farms.

The above figures were computed from a sample of 649 hog farms farrowing at least 10 litters of pigs.

Achievement Day for TNT

July 19 the TNT 4-H club held its "local achievement" in the Higgins school gym. A welcome given by the president, Alice Bollmann, and demonstrations were given by Marcy Beigel on tuna fish cheeseburgers, and Alice Bollman on chicken casserole.

Clothes were modeled by the members, and the foods were judged. Cookies and punch were served after the meeting. (Fm

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

When many vegetables are near harvest, farmers should know how many days before harvest a dust or spray can be safely applied. This information is usually found on the package label.

Pesticides and fungicides often used in Cook county and the last time of their application before harvest are:

—Greenbeans. Captan can be used up to the day of harvest, but Zineb, DDT and Methoxychlor can be applied seven days before harvest; Malathion, one day and Parathion, 15 days.

—Cabbage. Do not apply DDT or Endrin after the heads have begun to form. Allow 21 days between last applications and harvest date for Aldrin, Dieldrin, and Parathion; three days for Perthane and one day for Phosdrin.

—CORN. DDT and Sevin have no limit; Parathion, 12 days; Phosdrin, one day.

—Tomatoes. Captan, Maneb, Zineb, and Siram have no limit. Aldrin Diazinon and Malathion, three days; Toxaphene, five days; Dieldrin, Trithion, and Thiodan, seven days, Parathion, 10 days; DDT, five days.

Face fly population has increased noticeably this year. Counts of the insect that clusters around the eyes and nose of cattle range from two to 25 per head. The average figure is eight.

Continued hot weather may bring a greater build-up of these flies. Farmers should make counts of the flies while cattle are in pasture between 10 a.m., and 4 p.m.

TO CONTROL flies, farmers should apply repellent sprays daily to the animal's head. The sprays should contain tabatrex or R-326 in combination with pyrethrins. Special face fly repellent sprays containing these materials are available. With use, between 60 and 70 per cent reduction can be expected.

For beef cattle, use a backrubber containing either 5 per cent DDT or toxaphene in oil. Success with backrubbers will depend on whether the animals can smear a liberal supply of the chemical on their heads. Backrubbers constructed with an outer layer of canvas, burlap or cloth, as opposed to metal, would be best for this purpose. Allow 30 days to elapse between this treatment and slaughter of the animals.

If this year's corn crop of 631 million bushels materializes, it will be 6 per cent below the record level of last year. But it is the second largest crop on record.

Soybean acreage is calculated to be up from last year. Illinois growers intend to harvest 4.9 million acres in 1960. This is 4 per cent more than were harvested last year.

THE ILLINOIS oat acreage is the smallest since 1878. The current forecast, at 91 million bushels, is about two-thirds as large as average and except for last year the smallest since 1934.

The 1960 spring pig crop is the smallest in relation to population since the drouth years of the 1930's.

For the past 11 years, long-fed steer calves and long-fed yearling steers have made the most return above feed costs and purchase price of the feeder.

Research workers at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment station have drilled corn in rows only seven inches apart. They plan to use this corn for making a heavy forage crop for silage.

If the air cleaner on your combine becomes plugged with chaff, reduce the trouble by using a dry-type cleaner above the oil-bath cleaner. Also try putting a frame covered with a sack around the air cleaner inlet.

Soil Signup August 1

A new sign-up period for farmers desiring to carry out approved soil conservation practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program begins August 1, according to the information from Carl M. Bormet, chairman of the local ASC committee.

This should be of particular interest to farmers who need limestone and rock phosphate. August 1 is the first date by which sign-up is permitted for such materials to be used during the last five months of the year. All materials must be applied according to soil test and must be used in connection with soil improving grasses and legumes.

AFTER AUGUST 15, request for practices can be accepted only if funds therefor are available at the time.

All requests for cost-sharing assistance under the program must be filed at the county office located at 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights. A request must be on file before a practice is started. Farmers interested in practices involving limestone or other materials should bring along their soil tests. (Fm

Toughen Soybean Against Disease

Commercial soybean varieties are due to get tougher against Phytophthora rot, one of the major soybean disease threats in Illinois.

Resistance is being built into several of the more important varieties for Illinois, according to R. L. Bernard, USDA plant breeder at the University of Illinois, who was one of the first in the state to work on the problem. He points out, however, that it will probably be several years before farmers can buy the new seed.

Bernard has worked closely with U. of I. plant pathologists to study the nature of resistance and its inheritant characteristics. The fungus disease attacks soybeans soils and is apt to be widespread in wet years, like this one, when many soils are water-logged.

Blackhawk is the soybean variety Bernard uses as the source of disease resistance. While Blackhawk itself is no longer recommended for Illinois, the anti-Phytophthora characteristics of its germ plasma are being incorporated into the newer varieties. Some of the new seed will be produced this summer and used in regional performance tests.

Elk Grove 4-H Holds Club Tour

The regular monthly meeting of the Elk Grove 4-H club was held July 12 in the home of Dennis and Sandy Zick, Des Plaines. Due to the meeting cards not beng sent out, the members were not all present.

A 4-H safety activity booklet, "Hazard Hunt," was given to each member by Sandy Zick. All members should fill in and complete the last section of the booklet and return it at the next meeting. Members are also urged to complete their project record books and have them up to date by the August meeting so that they may be checked over by the leaders and junior leaders.

A club tour of the members' projects was held Monday evening, July 25, starting at 6:30. The club met in the home of Connie and Nancy Carlson, Des Plaines.

It was voted that the club buy new flags, one being an American flag and the other a 4-H flag. Mr. Carlson will look into the purchase of them.

4-H Fair raffle books were handed out by president Tom Sullivan.

Talks were given by Sandy Zick on wounds and Debby Miller on flowers.

The two members who have not paid their dues are asked to pay at the next meeting which will be held Tuesday evening, August 9.

Trend to Large Farms

The trend toward larger farms has reduced the number of farming opportunities for young people.

A study in the north central states indicates that, from 1945 to 1954, 31 per cent of the farmers retired, died or took nonfarm jobs. But young farmers obtained only 16 per cent of the available farms. The remaining 15 per cent were taken over by operating farmers to enlarge their existing units.

As a result, only one farm youth in three was able to start farming. The other two had to find employment elsewhere.

WHEN A young man does get started in farming today, he and his family face many difficult problems. To farm efficiently, he must possess adequate acreage as well as finance sizable and growing investments in machinery, equipment, livestock and other improvements. To handle a large-scale modern farm, he must also have high management ability. One-man farms may easily require a tenant investment of $15,000.

Agricultural research workers in the north central states have just completed a cooperative research study on opportunities for beginning farmers and how young families get started in farming. They have given special attention to those who get started without substantial assistance.

Their findings have just been published in two publications. North Central Regional Publication 102, "Opportunities for Beginning Farmers," presents the overall picture of trends in farm size, credit and available farms.

NORTH Central Regional Extension Publication 8, "Getting Started and Established in Farming—With and Without family help," reports the actual tenure and financing plans used by beginning farmers. It points out arrangements for families who have only limited savings and other capital. It also reports on land contracts, labor-share leases, part time farming and some newer methods for getting started and established in farming.

The publication stresses the need for building a volume of business adequate to permit efficient operation and at the same time provide sufficient income for family living.

Copies of these two publications are now available at the office of the farm adviser, Carl F. Mees, 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights, your representative of the Agricultural Extension service and the University of Illinois college of agriculture in Cook county.

Cook Out Lesson Given To Area Home Bureau

Cool and sunny weather, plus the yard of the Robert Wagners, made an ideal setting for the cook-out lesson given by local leaders Mrs. Marvin Busse and Mrs. Herbert Sietman for members of Elk Grove Home Bureau. More than 30 members and guests participated in preparing the various courses of the meal, which included barbecued chicken, escalloped potatoes in foil, cabbage salad and "banana boats" for dessert.

At the close of the meeting songs were sung from the homemakers' camp program book. A copy of this program book is in the unit scrap book for anyone interested in the schedule of the camp. Mrs. Claire Schauer, Mrs. Ernest Grimm, Mrs. Conrad Wille, and Mrs. E. A. Schoppe, Mrs. Sietman's mother, were the guests in attendance.

A MOTION was suggested and seconded that a film on baby-sitting should be rented from the University of Illinois to be shown to the three 4-H clubs, TNT, Up and Doing and Future Homemakers, which are sponsored by the unit.

Up and Doing 4-H group is losing its leader, Mrs. Alvin Moehling. Anyone interested in 4-H activity with a group of girls is asked to call Mrs. C. Heinkel at HE 7-3241. A period of training is a preliminary for becoming a leader.

August is an open month for all units to decide upon their own choice of program. It was suggested that those in the Elk Grove group interested in an outing meet August 10 at noon, meet at Mrs. Troy Parker's home and then proceed to a point mid-way between Mrs. Parker's home and Arlington Heights, for an afternoon of fast-pace trotting fun and scenic enjoyment.

UNIT MEMBERS were reminded of the National Home Demonstration council to be held on the University of Wisconsin campus August 28 to September 1. Reservations must be in the Home Bureau office in Des Palines no later than August 1.

Mrs. George Koelper, 8100 N. Washington, Niles, believes in "killing two birds with one stone." She will be resident hostess for the September 28 meeting besides a dessert hostess along with Mrs. W.W. Hall and Mrs. Don Kastning. The lesson for the month, "Accident, Hospitalization and Health Insurance," will be given by Mrs. Claradehl Upham.

Synthetic Lysine No Cattle Cure-All

A University of Illinois livestock specialist warns cattle feeders that adding synthetic lysine to rations does not improve the performance of all rations.

G. R. Carlisle noted that farm magazines recently reported that lysine boosted the performance of cattle fed certain rations. For example, lysine added to rations containing a high percentage of urea brings a favorable response.

Lysine does not, however, improve the performance of cattle fed rations containing natural sources of protein, sluch as linseed and soybean meal.

Lysine is one of several amino acids which are "building blocks" of protein.

Carlisle cited recent studies to back up his statements. Two groups of cattle received similar rations except for the source of protein supplement. One group received a natural source containing no urea. The second revealed a supplement with 3.7 to 18.5 per cent urea.

Cattle in the first group outgained the second group. And they utilized their feed much more efficiently.

Research workers next added lysine to the rations of both groups. Then each group gained about the same. Cattle in the first group, however, still used fewer pounds of feed for each pound of gain.

Carlisle also adds that at present prices synthetic lysine is too expensive to compete with natural protein sources in beef cattle rations.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

When many vegetables are near harvest, farmers should know how many days before harvest a dust or spray can be safely applied. This information is usually found on the package label.

Pesticides and fungicides often used in Cook county and the last time of their application before harvest are:

—Greenbeans. Captan can be used up to the day of harvest, but Zineb, DDT and Methoxychlor can be applied seven days before harvest; Malathion, one day and Parathion, 15 days.

—Cabbage. Do not apply DDT or Endrin after the heads have begun to form. Allow 21 days between last applications and harvest date for Aldrin, Dieldrin, and Parathion; three days for Perthane and one day for Phosdrin.

—CORN. DDT and Sevin have no limit; Parathion, 12 days; Phosdrin, one day.

—Tomatoes. Captan, Maneb, Zineb, and Siram have no limit. Aldrin Diazinon and Malathion, three days; Toxaphene, five days; Dieldrin, Trithion, and Thiodan, seven days, Parathion, 10 days; DDT, five days.

Face fly population has increased noticeably this year. Counts of the insect that clusters around the eyes and nose of cattle range from two to 25 per head. The average figure is eight.

Continued hot weather may bring a greater build-up of these flies. Farmers should make counts of the flies while cattle are in pasture between 10 a.m., and 4 p.m.

TO CONTROL flies, farmers should apply repellent sprays daily to the animal's head. The sprays should contain tabatrex or R-326 in combination with pyrethrins. Special face fly repellent sprays containing these materials are available. With use, between 60 and 70 per cent reduction can be expected.

For beef cattle, use a backrubber containing either 5 per cent DDT or toxaphene in oil. Success with backrubbers will depend on whether the animals can smear a liberal supply of the chemical on their heads. Backrubbers constructed with an outer layer of canvas, burlap or cloth, as opposed to metal, would be best for this purpose. Allow 30 days to elapse between this treatment and slaughter of the animals.

If this year's corn crop of 631 million bushels materializes, it will be 6 per cent below the record level of last year. But it is the second largest crop on record.

Soybean acreage is calculated to be up from last year. Illinois growers intend to harvest 4.9 million acres in 1960. This is 4 per cent more than were harvested last year.

THE ILLINOIS oat acreage is the smallest since 1878. The current forecast, at 91 million bushels, is about two-thirds as large as average and except for last year the smallest since 1934.

The 1960 spring pig crop is the smallest in relation to population since the drouth years of the 1930's.

For the past 11 years, long-fed steer calves and long-fed yearling steers have made the most return above feed costs and purchase price of the feeder.

Research workers at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment station have drilled corn in rows only seven inches apart. They plan to use this corn for making a heavy forage crop for silage.

If the air cleaner on your combine becomes plugged with chaff, reduce the trouble by using a dry-type cleaner above the oil-bath cleaner. Also try putting a frame covered with a sack around the air cleaner inlet.

Cattle Price Outlook Improves in Corn Belt

By L. H. SIMERL

The outlook for cattle prices seems to be improving, especially in the corn belt. This conclusion is drawn mainly from a study of the important quarterly report of cattle (including calves) on feed July 1, which was recently released in Washington.

As of July 1, farmers in 21 reporting states were feeding 5,376,000 head of cattle, only 4 per cent more than the year before. Most of this increase was in California and other western states. Farmers in 13 north-central (corn-belt) states were feeding 3,719,000 cattle, only 1 per cent more (this percentage is not exact). Cattlemen in 8 western states were feeding 1,657,000 head, or 11 per cent more.

THE INCREASE in cattle on feed was about equally divided between steers and heifers, but the proportion of heifers to steers has increased. Heifers made up 29 per cent of the total this year compared with 28 per cent the year before. Steers made up 70 per cent this year and 71 per cent a year ago. Cows and other "critters" accounted for 1 per cent in both years.

Most of the increase in steer numbers was in the 500-to 700-pound range. This year 15 per cent were in this weight group compared with 12 per cent last year. The 700-to 900-pound group included 39 per cent of all steers this year and 41 per cent last year. Proportions of steers in other weight groups were unchanged. About 3 per cent weighed under 500 pounds; 32 per cent, 900 to 1,100 pounds; and 11 per cent, over 1,100 pounds.

Most of the increase in heifers on feed was also in the 500- to 700-pound range. There were smaller increases in numbers of heifers weighing under 500 pounds and over 900 pounds. There was a moderate reduction in the group weighing 700 to 900 pounds. Proportions of heifers in the various weight ranges were: under 500 pounds, 5 per cent; 500 to 700 pounds, 35 per cent; 700 to 900 pounds, 51 per cent; and 900 to 1,100 pounds, 9 per cent.

THE GOVERNMENT report indicated that farmers in 21 states would sell about 3,118,000 head of cattle from July through September. This is 6 per cent more than last year. If sales come up to expectations, the number remaining for market after October 1 will be only 1 per cent larger than in 1959.

The foregoing report on marketing applies only to cattle on feed July 1. Some cattle put on feed after July 1 will be marketed before the year end.

Another point to remember is that fed cattle provide only 60 to 65 per cent of our beef. The other 35 to 40 per cent, which grades lower than Good, comes from cows and other cattle sold without a feeding-fattening period. Marketings of non-fed cattle always increase moderately in this stage of the cattle cycle.

To sum up the situation: marketings of fed cattle will be only a little larger during the remainder of this year than last year. The increased supply of cattle may be sold without much further price decline because the supply of pork will be very short and consumers will have a record amount of buying power.

Soil Signup August 1

A new sign-up period for farmers desiring to carry out approved soil conservation practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program begins August 1, according to the information from Carl M. Bormet, chairman of the local ASC committee.

This should be of particular interest to farmers who need limestone and rock phosphate. August 1 is the first date by which sign-up is permitted for such materials to be used during the last five months of the year. All materials must be applied according to soil test and must be used in connection with soil improving grasses and legumes.

AFTER AUGUST 15, request for practices can be accepted only if funds therefor are available at the time.

All requests for cost-sharing assistance under the program must be filed at the county office located at 201 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights. A request must be on file before a practice is started. Farmers interested in practices involving limestone or other materials should bring along their soil tests. (Fm

Tell Key Differences In High, Low Hog Production

Illinois record-keeping hog farmers averaged only $114 earnings for every $100 of feed used in 1959. But the top one-fifth of these farms earned $38 more for every $100 of feed than the low one-fifth.

In a farm business analysis report issued this week at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, agricultural economists A. G. Mueller and D. F. Wilken point out several key differences in the high and low earning hog farms.

The high-earning farms farrowed about 55 litters compared with 46 on the low-earning farms. The top farms weaned about one more pig per litter. After weaning, the low farms lost seven more pigs than the top farms.

Feed costs played a major part in producing higher earnings. The top farms produced their hogs for $9.13 a hundred pounds, while feed costs on the low-return farms averaged $11.61. The lower feed costs were due to 60 pounds less gran and 20 pounds less commercial feed required for each 100 pounds of pork produced.

High-earning farms produced quality hogs and timed their sales to obtain an average price of $14.13 a hundred pounds compared with only $13.67 on the low-earning farms.

The above figures were computed from a sample of 649 hog farms farrowing at least 10 litters of pigs.

Achievement Day for TNT

July 19 the TNT 4-H club held its "local achievement" in the Higgins school gym. A welcome given by the president, Alice Bollmann, and demonstrations were given by Marcy Beigel on tuna fish cheeseburgers, and Alice Bollman on chicken casserole.

Clothes were modeled by the members, and the foods were judged. Cookies and punch were served after the meeting. (Fm

Toughen Soybean Against Disease

Commercial soybean varieties are due to get tougher against Phytophthora rot, one of the major soybean disease threats in Illinois.

Resistance is being built into several of the more important varieties for Illinois, according to R. L. Bernard, USDA plant breeder at the University of Illinois, who was one of the first in the state to work on the problem. He points out, however, that it will probably be several years before farmers can buy the new seed.

Bernard has worked closely with U. of I. plant pathologists to study the nature of resistance and its inheritant characteristics. The fungus disease attacks soybeans soils and is apt to be widespread in wet years, like this one, when many soils are water-logged.

Blackhawk is the soybean variety Bernard uses as the source of disease resistance. While Blackhawk itself is no longer recommended for Illinois, the anti-Phytophthora characteristics of its germ plasma are being incorporated into the newer varieties. Some of the new seed will be produced this summer and used in regional performance tests.

Elk Grove 4-H Holds Club Tour

The regular monthly meeting of the Elk Grove 4-H club was held July 12 in the home of Dennis and Sandy Zick, Des Plaines. Due to the meeting cards not beng sent out, the members were not all present.

A 4-H safety activity booklet, "Hazard Hunt," was given to each member by Sandy Zick. All members should fill in and complete the last section of the booklet and return it at the next meeting. Members are also urged to complete their project record books and have them up to date by the August meeting so that they may be checked over by the leaders and junior leaders.

A club tour of the members' projects was held Monday evening, July 25, starting at 6:30. The club met in the home of Connie and Nancy Carlson, Des Plaines.

It was voted that the club buy new flags, one being an American flag and the other a 4-H flag. Mr. Carlson will look into the purchase of them.

4-H Fair raffle books were handed out by president Tom Sullivan.

Talks were given by Sandy Zick on wounds and Debby Miller on flowers.

The two members who have not paid their dues are asked to pay at the next meeting which will be held Tuesday evening, August 9.

PALATINE

Three hours is a record for walking between Lake Zurich and Palatine, and is held by a Palatine young man who made the trip without a pacemaker between one and four o'clock Saturday morning.

Palatine seems to be taken with an attack of progressitis. The first symptom was discovered when so much money was raised for the electric road. A movement to form an improvement association has gained ground and several of our prominent citizens made up their minds to start such an organization. The club will be known as the Palatine Commercial association, and unless plans miscarry, incorporation papers will be received from Springfield shortly. Mayor J. H. Schirding, C. H. Patten, Peter Knowe, Ralph H. Peck, Harry H. Schoppe, P. H. Matthei, C. D. Taylor, C. E. Julian, Stuart R. Paddock and others have pledged themselves to assist in every way to secure members and complete the organization of the club.

ITASCA ITEMS

The Franzens are still looking for their fox terrier. -- H. C. Hoffman has delivered the winter coal for the public school. -- Henry Rosenwinkel has his ice plant completed. It works fine. -- The fire department again showed its speed when the Ginseng garden caught fire, but again there was a shortage of hose. -- Village Board have voted to furnish Itasca Fire Department 1000 ft. more hose. -- H. H. Geils has built two hot houses and will soon be ready to sell flowers wholesale and retail.

MT. PROSPECT NOTES

Our creamery receives over 7000 lbs. of milk daily. That is extra good for this dry season. -- Wm. Busse has bought a new Buick 40-hp. auto. Albert is now an expert chauffeur and can take out large parties in the big new machine. -- Mt. Prospect Citizen's Band will give their third annual Picnic in Schnell's Maple Grove, Sunday, Aug. 7. Dance music by Elgin Orchestra.

Elk Grove

The Truck Gardeners and Farmers had a big crowd at their Picnic Sunday in Schnell's Maple Grove. Money poured in so fast they couldn't count it, but measured it by the bushel. Another proof that it pays big to advertise in our three papers: Cook County Herald, Palatine Enterprise and DuPage County Register.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP

The population of Wheeling Township according to the school census reports is 3221; under 21 years of age, 1296; total number children enrolled in the public schools is 399. In district 25 there are 807 under 21 and 1275 over 21, showing the population of Arlington Heights to be 2082. The population of the other districts is as follows: Districts 21-251; 20, 327; 22-113; 23-143; 24, 141; 26, 107; 27-57; total 3221.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Arlington Gun Club, 14 members strong, went to Jefferson Sunday and won the first prizes in all four events in which they entered. Ed Martens, Roy Harris, Henry Hinz and Ed. Meyer brought home trophies. The Arlingtons beat the Chicago and Avondale clubs in every score. They shoot like soldiers.

MOUNT PROSPECT

The village board has authorized and directed its president to purchase five or six signs to be erected at various locations, calling attention of automobile drivers to observe the speed laws and to keep their cut outs closed.

Early last spring, the writer referred to the then existing coal shortage, stating that he wondered what the condition of the coal supply would be this fall when the cold weather would set in. We have gone through three months of summer, the months in which it was hoped that the shortage would be overcome, but it appears that instead of catching up the supply is decreasing. If conditions continue as they have, many a stove and furnace will be cold next winter. The occupying of one home by two families, who formerly occupied two, may become a necessity. We hope and trust that it will not.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Wheat in this vicinity being harvested now, is said to be a fine crop. -- The fields grow white for the harvest, but the laborers are sadly wanting. -- For sale: About 3 tons alfalfa and timothy hay, by Herman Lotz, 939 Dunton St. -- For sale, early Duchess apples and new cabbage at Burkitt's Place. -- Palatine has electric lights, so has Mt. Prospect. Wonder why Arlington Heights doesn't "light up" too? -- The Fred Wilke family sent 1200 baskets of cherries to market by auto truck; most of the crop from the old Bolsinger place, which Mr. Wilke now owns. -- St. Peter's Lutheran church are soon to install a grand new pipe organ with chimes - a first class instrument well suited to the size of their congregation. -- The village officials are sadly put to it to get the work needing to be attended to each day, done. Engineer Kolling is doing his level best. -- A ride through the country over east and north from the village of Arlington Heights, gives one the impression that after all this is not to become one of the "lean years." -- It is too bad to see the destruction of any of the village land marks. -- Mr. Howard D. Robberts has been engaged by the Board of Education as assistant principal and teacher of Science, History and Athletics of the Arlington Heights public and high schools. He is a young married man. He is an experienced teacher and a graduate from University of Chicago. -- The Firnbach and Lauterburg families attended the dedication of the Catholic chapel in the Deer Grove Forest Preserve, Sunday.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Charley Sigwalt, Veteran Soldier and Public Official, is dead. He passed away quietly Monday morning, bringing to an end an eventful life of a self made man, self educated and who won unaided, recognition in many walks of life. His funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, and was attended by officials of the village, officers of societies, representatives of the Chicago Board of Trade, and hundreds of others who were more or less intimately acquainted with the deceased. Through arrangements with the local Veterans of Foreign Wars, a firing squad came from Fort Sheridan. Robert Reed and Christ Niemeyer, lone survivors of his post in Arlington Heights were able to be present. The Masonic services, in which Mr. Sigwalt had so frequently taken part, were the last rites performed over the remains. Mr. Sigwalt was first of all a soldier, and while he never talked much about the part he played in that historic conflict between the north and south, his friends knew that of all the honors that were accorded to his memory, Wednesday afternoon, none were greater than the presence of that old regimental flag of the Chicago Board of Trade, the Eighty-eight, Illinois Volunteers. Accompanying the flag were three drummers, three buglers, and two color bearers from the Board of Trade American Legion post.

On July 1, 1864, he was commissioned as Sergeant of Co. "I", 88th Regiment Illinois Volunteers, and March 1, 1865, was promoted to 1st Sergeant, while on June 8, 1865 he was made 2d Lieutenant, and on the following day June 9, 1865 he was mustered out at Nashville, Tenn. He served at Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Dolton, Resaca, Adairsville, Dalls, Kenesaw Mountain, Lost Mountain, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Lovejoy, Spring Hill, Franklin, Nashville, Peach Tree Creek.

He was elected the first clerk of the village and elected as president of the village for eleven terms in succession, having never been defeated of election. He was town clerk for five years and was postmaster four years during Cleveland's first administration.

Aside from his public and private duties, there was nothing in which Mr. Sigwalt took greater interest than his Masonic lodge, of which he was a member nearly 68 years. The evening before his departure for the war, Mr. Sigwalt was raised to the Third degree in Palatine Lodge No. 314, A.F. & A.M. Returning from the War he became more interested in that body and served as its Master, being the first one from Arlington Heights to have that honor.

1940 census gives Arlington Heights, 5,657, an increase since 1930 of 665. Mt. Prospect has also made a good growth, and has a population of 1720, an increase of 495 in the ten years.

C. M. Behrens and Wm. Gronert, general chairman and financial chairman, respectively, of the 4th of July committee, reported to the full committee in charge of that event, Monday evening, that the net receipts amount to $887.59, which is more than enough to cancel remaining indebtedness on the freight depot built by the Association for the North Western railroad last year. "It was like burning the mortgage on the homestead," stated Chairman Behrens of the Trade and Civic Association.

PALATINE

Palatine lost another of its best known and well liked citizens this week when John H. Wente, a life-long resident of Palatine township passed away early Saturday morning. He was well known to all the people of Palatine as a farmer, business man, and political leader. John's early life was spent on the Wente farm near Palatine, and in later years he became a resident of Palatine, and operated a cartage and teaming company, for many years making deliveries of freight to the stores, back in the days of the daily local freight. As substitute mail carrier on route two of the Palatine post office, the deceased at certain periods of the year delivered mail to over 1100 patrons thru the 347 boxes on the route. John was also active in political circles. Back in the old days when one counted democrats in Palatine on the fingers of his two hands, John Wente was one of them and remained a loyal and active worker for his party.

George Schaefer and Ed Wahl both received engraved watches for their twenty years' service with the Arlington Redwings baseball club Sunday, with an additional trophy given to George Schaefer, ageless pitcher of the local nine, as their most valuable player. Tommy Kouzmanoff made the presentations.

Nat T. Burfiend, General Campaign Manager for the 1950 fund raising effort of the Northwest Suburban Chapter of the American Cancer Society, announced that the total funds raised by this chapter amounted to $5,377, which was 108 per cent of the set goal. The A. H. Woman's Club sponsored the campaign in Arlington Heights, and Mrs. John Shanklin, chairman, announced that a total of $1063.43 was collected in the drive and that the Arlington Heights division reached 151 per cent of their quota.

WHEELING

Edward John Welflin, 67, prominent Wheeling business man died last week Thursday. He was born and raised in Wheeling, attending Wheeling public school, and received his business training in a Chicago business school. His first business experience was obtained in his uncle's store in Long Grove, where he was employed for eight years. In 1909 he was united in marriage to Miss Nelda Meyer of Aptakisic. They made their home in Wheeling, going into business for themselves, when they purchased the J. A. Schminke General Store, then located in the Masonic Building. In 1919 he purchased the brick building next door, which still houses his store, now managed by his son, Don E. Welflin. During the years he was in business he also served as Wheeling postmaster for fifteen years. Active in civic affairs, Mr. Welflin at one time served as a village trustee, was one of the founders of the Wheeling State Bank, serving as director, and was vice-president of the board of directors at the time of his death. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge, and the Presbyterian church.

BENSENVILLE

The Board of Education, district 2, has adopted a new budget and made appropriations for total expenditures of $185,400 for the fiscal year 1950-1951. District 2 board members are J. W. Brown, president; Robert E. Koehler, secy.; Arthur Petersen, Ellsworth Whitney, Peter M. Currie, George Adis, and E. H. Sprandel.

WOOD DALE

There was a time when Wood Dale could and did put a pretty fair baseball team in the field to challenge all comers. That spirit is being revived by the Wood Dale Lions club who have come forth with some direct support. The Lions club is backing the newly formed baseball team with a dozen balls, bats and other equipment, and have offered to pay umpire fees for the rest of the season.

PALATINE

Three hours is a record for walking between Lake Zurich and Palatine, and is held by a Palatine young man who made the trip without a pacemaker between one and four o'clock Saturday morning.

Palatine seems to be taken with an attack of progressitis. The first symptom was discovered when so much money was raised for the electric road. A movement to form an improvement association has gained ground and several of our prominent citizens made up their minds to start such an organization. The club will be known as the Palatine Commercial association, and unless plans miscarry, incorporation papers will be received from Springfield shortly. Mayor J. H. Schirding, C. H. Patten, Peter Knowe, Ralph H. Peck, Harry H. Schoppe, P. H. Matthei, C. D. Taylor, C. E. Julian, Stuart R. Paddock and others have pledged themselves to assist in every way to secure members and complete the organization of the club.

ITASCA ITEMS

The Franzens are still looking for their fox terrier. -- H. C. Hoffman has delivered the winter coal for the public school. -- Henry Rosenwinkel has his ice plant completed. It works fine. -- The fire department again showed its speed when the Ginseng garden caught fire, but again there was a shortage of hose. -- Village Board have voted to furnish Itasca Fire Department 1000 ft. more hose. -- H. H. Geils has built two hot houses and will soon be ready to sell flowers wholesale and retail.

MT. PROSPECT NOTES

Our creamery receives over 7000 lbs. of milk daily. That is extra good for this dry season. -- Wm. Busse has bought a new Buick 40-hp. auto. Albert is now an expert chauffeur and can take out large parties in the big new machine. -- Mt. Prospect Citizen's Band will give their third annual Picnic in Schnell's Maple Grove, Sunday, Aug. 7. Dance music by Elgin Orchestra.

Elk Grove

The Truck Gardeners and Farmers had a big crowd at their Picnic Sunday in Schnell's Maple Grove. Money poured in so fast they couldn't count it, but measured it by the bushel. Another proof that it pays big to advertise in our three papers: Cook County Herald, Palatine Enterprise and Du-Page County Register.

WHEELING TOWNSHIP

The population of Wheeling Township according to the school census reports is 3221; under 21 years of age, 1296; total number children enrolled in the public schools is 399. In district 25 there are 807 under 21 and 1275 over 21, showing the population of Arlington Heights to be 2082. The population of the other districts is as follows: Districts 21-251; 20, 327; 22-113; 23-143; 24, 141; 26, 107; 27-57; total 3221.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Arlington Gun Club, 14 members strong, went to Jefferson Sunday and won the first prizes in all four events in which they entered. Ed Martens, Roy Harris, Henry Hinz and Ed. Meyer brought home trophies. The Arlingtons beat the Chicago and Avondale clubs in every score. They shoot like soldiers.

MOUNT PROSPECT

The village board has authorized and directed its president to purchase five or six signs to be erected at various locations, calling attention of automobile drivers to observe the speed laws and to keep their cut outs closed.

Early last spring, the writer referred to the then existing coal shortage, stating that he wondered what the condition of the coal supply would be this fall when the cold weather would set in. We have gone through three months of summer, the months in which it was hoped that the shortage would be overcome, but it appears that instead of catching up the supply is decreasing. If conditions continue as they have, many a stove and furnace will be cold next winter. The occupying of one home by two families, who formerly occupied two, may become a necessity. We hope and trust that it will not.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Wheat in this vicinity being harvested now, is said to be a fine crop. -- The fields grow white for the harvest, but the laborers are sadly wanting. -- For sale: About 3 tons alfalfa and timothy hay, by Herman Lotz, 939 Dunton St. -- For sale, early Duchess apples and new cabbage at Burkitt's Place. -- Palatine has electric lights, so has Mt. Prospect. Wonder why Arlington Heights doesn't "light up" too? -- The Fred Wilke family sent 1200 baskets of cherries to market by auto truck; most of the crop from the old Bolsinger place, which Mr. Wilke now owns. -- St. Peter's Lutheran church are soon to install a grand new pipe organ with chimes - a first class instrument well suited to the size of their congregation. -- The village officials are sadly put to it to get the work needing to be attended to each day, done. Engineer Kolling is doing his level best. -- A ride through the country over east and north from the village of Arlington Heights, gives one the impression that after all this is not to become one of the "lean years." -- It is too bad to see the destruction of any of the village land marks. -- Mr. Howard D. Robberts has been engaged by the Board of Education as assistant principal and teacher of Science, History and Athletics of the Arlington Heights public and high schools. He is a young married man. He is an experienced teacher and a graduate from University of Chicago. -- The Firnbach and Lauterburg families attended the dedication of the Catholic chapel in the Deer Grove Forest Preserve, Sunday.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Charley Sigwalt, Veteran Soldier and Public Official, is dead. He passed away quietly Monday morning, bringing to an end an eventful life of a self made man, self educated and who won unaided, recognition in many walks of life. His funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, and was attended by officials of the village, officers of societies, representatives of the Chicago Board of Trade, and hundreds of others who were more or less intimately acquainted with the deceased. Through arrangements with the local Veterans of Foreign Wars, a firing squad came from Fort Sheridan. Robert Reed and Christ Niemeyer, lone survivors of his post in Arlington Heights were able to be present. The Masonic services, in which Mr. Sigwalt had so frequently taken part, were the last rites performed over the remains. Mr. Sigwalt was first of all a soldier, and while he never talked much about the part he played in that historic conflict between the north and south, his friends knew that of all the honors that were accorded to his memory, Wednesday afternoon, none were greater than the presence of that old regimental flag of the Chicago Board of Trade, the Eighty-eight, Illinois Volunteers. Accompanying the flag were three drummers, three buglers, and two color bearers from the Board of Trade American Legion post.

On July 1, 1864, he was commissioned as Sergeant of Co. "I", 88th Regiment Illinois Volunteers, and March 1, 1865, was promoted to 1st Sergeant, while on June 8, 1865 he was made 2d Lieutenant, and on the following day June 9, 1865 he was mustered out at Nashville, Tenn. He served at Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Dolton, Resaca, Adairsville, Dalls, Kenesaw Mountain, Lost Mountain, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Lovejoy, Spring Hill, Franklin, Nashville, Peach Tree Creek.

He was elected the first clerk of the village and elected as president of the village for eleven terms in succession, having never been defeated of election. He was town clerk for five years and was postmaster four years during Cleveland's first administration.

'Villa Rotonda' Is No Place for Squares

Introducing Bloomingdale's Round House

Bloomingdale's "Villa Rotonda" is no place for squares.

By definition and design, the Villa is a perfectly round house. It was planned and constructed by imaginative Gian L. Campanile, suburban architect with a desire to do the unusual.

The house is not an experiment. Campanile knew it could be done. He devoted three years to bringing blueprints to perfection, eight months to building.

"In Europe, more than 2,000 years ago," Campanile explained, "the Romans built in the round. Mine is just 'another' round house."

But he minimizes the impact the house will have on modern home building. Not one inch of waste space can be found in the roomy 1,600 square foot structure. All rooms are easily accessible from the centrally located living room. Gay colors "explode" in their exuberance.

CAMPANILE, a native of Italy, and his lovely wife, Betty, have shown the house to hundreds of visitors since completion July 1. Located at 110 N. Maple in Bloomingdale's Lake Woods Terrace subdivision, the house is open for inspection from 4 to 10 p.m. weekdays, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Four years after his graduation from Rome's school of architecture in 1949, Campanile came to the United States. His eagerness to "do something new" soon won him the respect of his colleagues. His Chicago office is never empty.

The 35-year-old architect built the house for himself. Its functional design eliminates corridors, precludes waste, lends a cheery atmosphere, captures breeze in the summer, retains heat in the winter.

"I say I built the house for myself because it has some features others might not want in their round home," Campanile pointed out.

HE CITED the living room's expensive Georgian marble fireplace, bedroom walls of open solar screen tile, sunken bathtubs, round bed, and simplicity of interior decoration.

'Villa Rotonda' Is No Place for Squares

Introducing Bloomingdale's Round House

Bloomingdale's "Villa Rotonda" is no place for squares.

By definition and design, the Villa is a perfectly round house. It was planned and constructed by imaginative Gian L. Campanile, suburban architect with a desire to do the unusual.

The house is not an experiment. Campanile knew it could be done. He devoted three years to bringing blueprints to perfection, eight months to building.

"In Europe, more than 2,000 years ago," Campanile explained, "the Romans built in the round. Mine is just 'another' round house."

But he minimizes the impact the house will have on modern home building. Not one inch of waste space can be found in the roomy 1,600 square foot structure. All rooms are easily accessible from the centrally located living room. Gay colors "explode" in their exuberance.

CAMPANILE, a native of Italy, and his lovely wife, Betty, have shown the house to hundreds of visitors since completion July 1. Located at 110 N. Maple in Bloomingdale's Lake Woods Terrace subdivision, the house is open for inspection from 4 to 10 p.m. weekdays, noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Four years after his graduation from Rome's school of architecture in 1949, Campanile came to the United States. His eagerness to "do something new" soon won him the respect of his colleagues. His Chicago office is never empty.

The 35-year-old architect built the house for himself. Its functional design eliminates corridors, precludes waste, lends a cheery atmosphere, captures breeze in the summer, retains heat in the winter.

"I say I built the house for myself because it has some features others might not want in their round home," Campanile pointed out.

Carrying a silk handkerchief that belonged to her great-grandmother, Miss Phyllis Ann Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Mueller, Prairie View, came down the aisle of Faith Lutheran church in Arlington Heights May 21 to become the bride of Clifford L. Moellenkamp of Des Plaines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moellenkamp.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace peplum edged with a lace ruffle which fell over the tiered skirt of pleated tulle covering the front and chapel length train. The neckline and bodice were embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and a matching tiara adorned the fingertip veil. Crescent shaped phalaenopsis and stephanotis formed the bridal bouquet.

AS DONALD Hermann played the organ, Mary Ann Laseke sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." On either side of the altar, where Rev. R. O. Bartz officiated at the double ring ceremony, there were baskets of snapdragons and mums. The ushers, Wilfred Nise, brother-in-law of the groom, Ernest Grimm Jr., and Richard Moellenkamp all of Des Plaines, and David Mueller of Prairie View, seated the guests in pews decorated with white flowers, greens and white bows. Leroy Moellenkamp, brother of the groom, was best man.

Marilynn Mueller, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a dress of white lace over pastel pink lining touched off with taffeta bands on the bodice and skirt. She wore a matching pink pixie hat and carried a crescent bouquet of pink spiral eucalyptus.

The bridesmaids, Joyce Stade and Arlene Mueller of Arlington Heights, Diana Muller of Des Plains and Carol Salmen of Long Grove, wore aqua dresses and pixie hats identical to that of the maid of honor, and carried crescent bouquets of pink spiral eucalyptus.

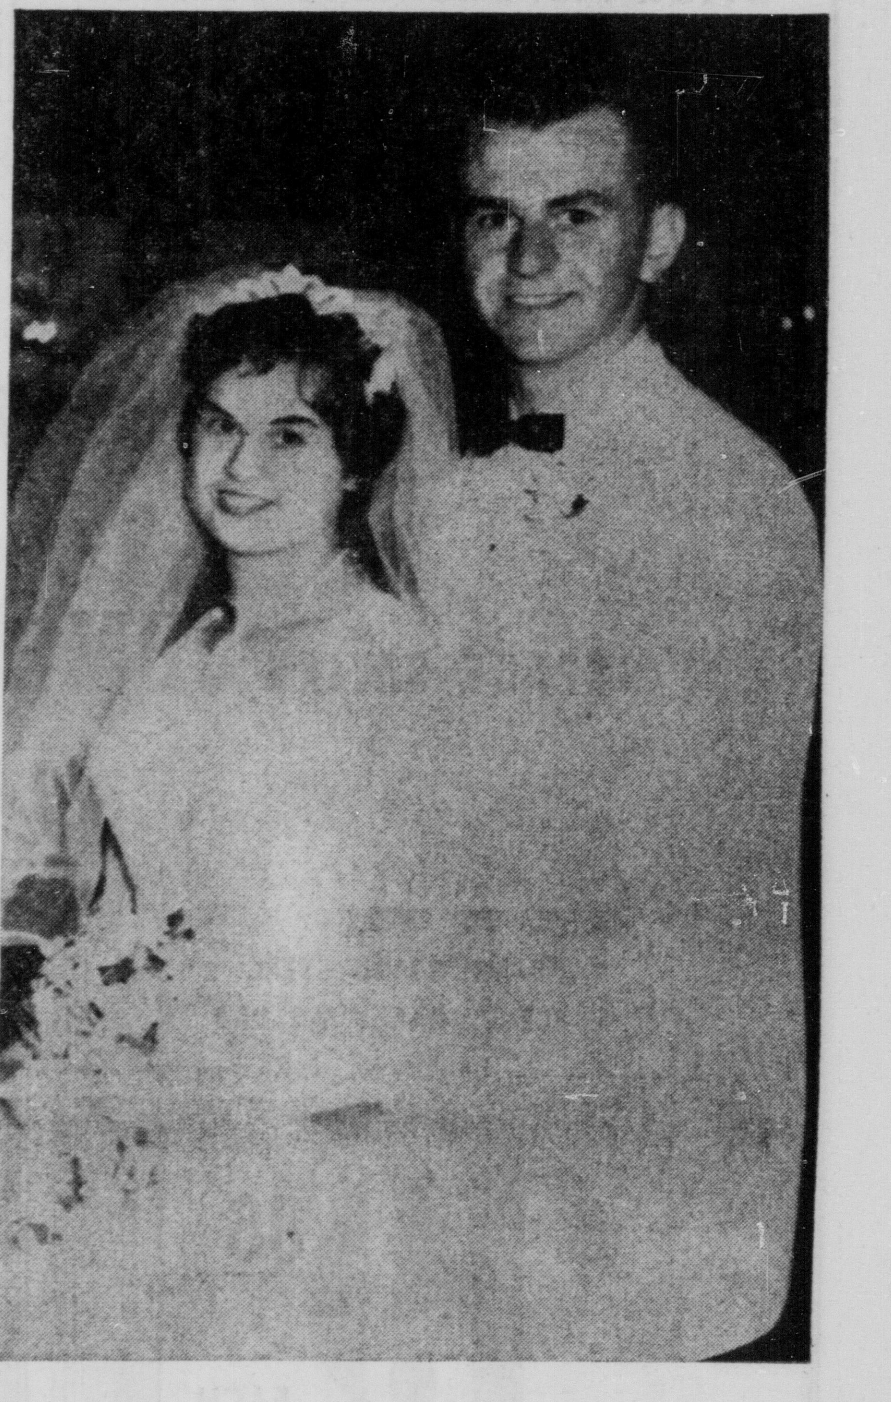
MELODEE Milas, 3-year-old cousin of the bride, was flower girl wearing a dress similar to those of the bridesmaids. Steven Moeller, 3-year-old cousin of the groom, was ringbearer. Both are from Des Plaines.

Mrs. Mueller received in a dress of blue lace and organza with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a blue embroidered silk dress with matching accessories and a cymbidium corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 400 guests was held in the fireman's hall in Bensenville.

A 2-week honeymoon in the Smoky mountains and Washington D.C., was enjoyed by the newlyweds, and they are now residing at 720 S. Marshall dr., Des Plaines.

The new Mrs. Moellenkamp is a '59 graduate of Ela Vernon high school and is employed at the Doall company in Des Plaines. The bridegroom was graduated in 1956 from Arlington high school and is employed by the Des Plaines post office.



Seek Old Gowns For Style Show

Ladies of guild 6 of St. Mary's Altar and Rosary society, Buffalo Grove, are in the midst of preparing for "Promenade d' Fashion Century of Style," a fashion show featuring old time gowns and wedding dresses. The affair will be held at 8:30 p.m. August 17 in St. Mary's hall, Buffalo Grove.

Anyone in the area with access to a gown dating between 1860 and 1929 is asked to contact Mrs. Donald Pracht at Lehigh 7-0643. Guild members would appreciate the loan of these old gowns and invite the owners to model them in the show.

Tickets for the show will be available at the door and will be sold for $1.50. The general public is being invited.

Quotoons

Most persons who are self-centered act as though they're off-balance.

The man who seems to be in the least hurry is the man who does things when they should be done.

Frequently a woman doesn't realize her full strength until she becomes a widow.

The average middle-aged man can comb his hair with the palm of his hand.

Horses might be as popular as automobiles if you could also ride them without owning them.

All a woman has to do to make a man interested in her new hat is model it in a bathing suit.

When a girl thinks a man is trying to make a get-away, she tightens her grip on his pocketbook.

Area Girls March In GOP Parade

Local beauties adding the All-American look of the parade put on by the Young Republicans Sunday as part of the GOP convention festivities were "Miss Jennie's" Debonaires, precision twirling corps from Arlington Heights. One of three twirling corps in the parade, the Debonaires were sponsored by the Wheeling Township Women's Republican club.

Heights Families United In June 28 Ceremony

Two Arlington Heights families were united June 28 when Miss Judith Eileen Michelson, daughter of the Howard Michelsons, 717 N. Fernandez, and John Patrick Olson, son of the John L. Olsons, 506 N. Derbyshire, were married in St. John United Church of Christ.

Rev. Donald Hinze officiated at the 7:30 p.m. service amid a setting of white chrysanthemums. August Stelling was organist for the service.

The bride chose an olive green shantung suit with white accessories and a corsage of whitesage of white cymbidium orchids. Her only attendant was Miss Sara M. Smith ofEvanston, who wore a beige shantung suit with black accessories and a corhage of tangerine carnations.

BOTH MRS. Michelson and Mrs. Olson were in light blue ensembles with corsages of pink carnations.

Dennis Olson was his brother's best man. The bride's father also took part in the service by giving his daughter in marriage.

Members of the immediate families and Miss Smith, the maid of honor, dined at Grier's Supper club following the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Olson was graduated from Arlington high school and is employed in the bookkeeping department of Arlington Heights National bank. Mr. Olson was graduated from a Minneapolis high school and also attended the University of Minnesota. He is now in the army, stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Collegetown U.S.A. Opens At Carson's Edens Plaza

"All aboard for Collegetown USA" comes the call from Carson Pirie Scott and Co., Edens Plaza, announcing the official opening of the store's famed College shop on Monday, July 18.

Located this year in the sportswear area on the first floor, collegetown USA has a colorful transportation theme keynoted by the slogan "College via Carsons." The theme will be carried out in the shop decor, in windows and interior displays in fashion shows and in special luggage stickers that will go on all Collegetown USA packages. Edens Plaza will have one evening fashion show, Thursday, Aug. 18, at 7:30 p.m., second floor. Collegetown USA fashions will be modelled informally, in the Edinburgh Clock restaurant every Thursday at 12:30 p.m.

A COMPLETELY new concept in college board uniforms will be introduced. It includes four important versions of the 1960-61 look of college fashion, the tunic jumper, the chanel suit, the knee-high skirt and the pants sweater/knee knocker.

College board members are trained to give authoritative wardrobe advice, so that no matter where her school is located, a girl who takes the Carson route to college can be sure of arriving there with exactly the right clothes for the right occasions.

For additional help in making selections, six complete up-to-date regional wardrobe lists for 1960-61, covering over 300 colleges and universities, are available for the asking. This factual information was gleaned from surveys of top college representatives at each school.

IN THE sportswear area, first floor, directional signs leading to collegetown headquarters will be antique posters in black and white, picturing old-fashioned modes of travel and reading "College via Carsons." The shop decor will be basically black and white, with bright pennants and the fashions themselves providing color accent.

COORDINATED QUARTETTE in stone green, combining herringbone tweed with tweed in solid color is modeled by four of the college fashion board at Carson's shop at Edens Plaza. The shop opened last week and has eight college girls, all wearing the above ensembles, have been trained to suggest the right clothes for any college in the country. (S

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

You at the Zoo Party

by DOLORES HAUGH

July is such a warm month but birthdays come as usual. So if you have a July birthday tot in your family how about a You at the Zoo party. Pre-party planning is essential and of course, it will be done with the aid of mothers, plus simple refreshments and a wise choice as far as location of the zoo in question.

Preparation

First decide if you want to take the small fry to the zoo or just show back yard or rumpus room movies - or if you just want to play games pertaining to zoos.

If you choose to go to a zoo, pick a small, close-to-home zoo so that when you get there all the children running in 42 directions will not have to be herded while party time is wasted.

HAWTHORN Mellody Farms has a tiny, fenced in, well-protected zoo for small children. The ride there is fairly short and the route simple to follow. The little ones may wander freely without too many restrictions and yet are safe.

The second thing to do is limit the number of guests to a few you can handle easily, or to the number who will have supervision from several willing mothers. Be sure they are willing, as a mother that is doing this for a "duty" will put a damper on the whole affair. Get mothers who enjoy being with their little ones and will carry on the party mood.

Next, limit your time away from home. State it on the invitation and stick to your schedule.

Invitations

Either a light luncheon prior to the trip to the zoo or a snack after the trip may work out for you. The invitation will be in the shape of a square, cut from a red construction, double fold paper. When folded resembling a window. Scotch tape heavy string on the inside as bars and on the opposite side a picture of a tiger, lion or other animal. Have the animal hinged with tape underneath so that the verse can be typed and hidden when the animal is in place. Type the following verse:

Look and see who's at the zoo -

It's Nancy's party, her birthday, too.

So come for lunch and join the fun!

Lions and tigers asleep in the sun!

Elephants, monkies and kangaroos -

There's nothing better than trips to zoos.

State time, place and for the children to wear play clothes and sturdy walking shoes.

Decorations

Since you will be away for the entertainment part of the party, plan a simple table decoration. Use the birthday cake as the centerpiece. Frost a regular cake; let the hostess choose her favorite frosting and cake and decorate with animal crackers on top also.

Edge with bars made from straws or stick candy and make a circle of red construction paper cutting a wedge from it so that it forms a canopy for the top of the zoo cake.

Menu

Serve tiger salads of peach halves with carrot triangle ears, toothpick whiskers, green grape eyes, cherry nose and accompanied by sandwiches cut with a lion-shaped cookie cutter. Tall glasses of Kool Aid with three or four flavors to choose from makes it a real zoo and circusy treat.

Have cellophane bags filled with snowy popcorn and tied with a string fastened to a bright balloon bearing the child's name. These are good "markers" at the zoo as you can locate a high-flying yellow balloon quicker than a short toddler in a group. And, carry a few spare balloons in case of blow outs.

KEEP THE party simple and return to the hostess' home to open gifts after the trip to the zoo. If you prefer to play animal games, in place of the zoo trip, scale them to the child's age level. Pantomimes and noises of animals are always fund for the kiddies.

Give out small party favors. Perhaps books about a zoo story or a color book or it might be fun to buy them at the zoo if you check ahead of time so that there will be enough of one thing for your little birthday group.

So, plan a July birthday off-to-the-zoo party and it will be one to remember on a cold January day. And no "monkeying" around, we're not "lion" when we say your fun-filled day will be as big as an elephant. (S

Show Features Custom-Designed Imports

Villa d'Este fashion showings during luncheon are attracting many style-conscious women from the north shore and the northwest suburbs Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, Volle's Boutique, Lake Zurich, showed its import fall collection of custom designed and made-to-measure apparel.

Six professional models displayed 45 creations, ranging from hostess gowns, street wear and afternoon to dinner dresses. Hats were especially designed for each costume by Rogna's Fashion salon, Elgin.

ALL MATERIALS are imported and comprise woolens and silks from Europe and the Orient, as well as exquisite silks from Italy. The texture, design and color of the silks and satins are vibrant and unusual.

One Spanish hand-woven wool with a pleated skirt has a "Don Quixote" design covering the skirt in a black and cream motif. The blouse is a knit and the 2-piece garment makes for traveling perfection.

The salt and pepper English tweed sheath illustrated on this page uses silk braid in interesting detailing. The black silk beaver bucket hat, similarly bound in silk braid, was especially made for the dress. The garments were most colorful and have detailed tailoring. They can be ordered from Volle in any color, texture and design and according to the courturier's plan, are made to measure with fit guaranteed.

VOLLE HERSELF was a commercial artist, majoring in the arts, and after moving to the country turned to custom clothing for discriminating women. Last year she made a trip around the world making connections with export firms and establishing a tailoring shop in Hong Kong.

Merle Reid, of Barrington gave the commentary as fashion coordinator, and has a complete fashion show service. She is presenting Volle's next showing of custom-designed apparel at a luncheon at the Villa d'Este Tuesday and Wednesday, August 2 and 3, entitled "Fall into Winter."

Attendance is by reservation only. (S

MORE THAN 350 WOMEN attended the Volle's Boutique showing at the Villa d'Este, Cary, on two days of last week. Bobby Ledger is wearing a salt and pepper English tweed sheath, with silk braid detailing. Studying the import are Mrs. Stephen Jurco, Arlington Heights and Mrs. Stuart R. Paddock of Palatine.

VILLA D'ESTE, Cary, was again the scene last Wednesday of another showing by the importer, Volle's Boutique. These "style shows," arranged by Merle Reid, fashion coordinator of Barrington, are attracting an increasing number from the north shore and the northwest area. Shown above is Pat Meyer, displaying a Spanish import, a hand woven "hostess at home" costume.

Marvin H. Flentge Takes Elgin Girl as His Bride

Wearing an imported bombazine gown with a full skirt and sweeping chapel train, Miss Frances Konitzki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Konitzki, Elgin, came down the aisle to meet her prospective husband, Marvin H. Flentge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flentge, 115 W. Johnson st., Palatine, at the altar of Elgin's St. Joseph Catholic church on June 25.

A fingertip veil appliqued with re-embroidered alencon lace fell from a chantilly lace shell adorned with pearls and sequins as the bride was given in marriage by her father. White roses and carnations made up her bridal bouquet.

MISS BARBARA Konitzki of Elgin was the maid of honor attired in a sheer dress of pink nylon with a scoop neck, puffed sleeves, full skirt, velvet sashes and streamers, matching greens, and a crown with full circle veil.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Joseph Konitzki of Evanston, Mrs. Joseph Motto and Mrs. George Ivaska of Chicago had dresses similar to that of the maid of honor. All carried pink and white carnations.

Melissa Cuchton, 8, of Elgin was the flower girl wearing a white nylon dress and carrying carnations. A nephew of the groom, Donald Moehling, 8, of Union, Ill., was the ring bearer.

FOR HER daughter's noon wedding, Mrs. Konitzki chose a green dress and feather hat with a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Flentge wore a beige dress and white hat also accented by a white carnation corsage.

Carl Sebastian of Des Plaines was best man and Melvin Berlin, Ralph Berlin and Richard Brunn, all of Palatine, were ushers. Joseph Konitzki, a brother of the bride, was soloist.

Two hundred and fifty guests were present at a reception in Tuner hall, Elgin, following the double ring ceremony. There was also a breakfast held in the Dundee Country house for the immediate family.

A 2-week honeymoon in the Smoky mountains was planned by the newlyweds after which they took up residence in Cary. The new Mrs. Flentge is a graduate of Elgin high school and is presently employed as a secretary for Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning Contractors National association. The groom, a graduate of Palatine high school, is a claims agent for the North Western railroad, Chicago. (S

Our Failures Can Prove Beneficial

By
LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

It is true that we learn by our failures; yet it is a dangerous thing to dwell too much on them. Self criticism is good for us, but it must not be indulged in too much. We learn just as much from our successes as we do from our failures, and should strive to remember how we achieved them.

Before you learned how to play golf, you spent many days and weeks and months on the course before your score was very good. Or perhaps, you never did become a good golfer.

OF COURSE you made many mistakes. Your stroke was too fast, or too slow. You did not keep your eye on the ball. You did not use the right club. One by one you learned to do these things, and the memory of your mistakes became dimmer and dimmer as you recalled the things that made your golfing successful, and forgot the early mistakes you made. Your score went down, down, down, until the day that you made the course in par. The memory of failure is gone, and that of success has become habitual, you have self confidence, poise, skill.

But you would never have been a good golfer, had you been unable to forget the mistakes you made; because then, each time you prepared to hit the ball, you would be thinking of how poorly you did, and you would still be a poor golfer. Thinking of our mistakes all of the time tightens the muscles of the body, makes us unable to control our stroke. Or it can keep our minds from concentrating, and our ability to coordinate our muscles is destroyed.

AS IT IS in golf, so is it in anything we do in life. Sure we make mistakes as beginners, lots of them. But when we can remember each new thing we have learned, and apply it successfully to what we do, we must forget our mistakes. Otherwise, we can tie ourselves up in knots so badly that we can't hold a job, are embarrassed and helpless before other people, and afraid to attempt anything new, or different. We become habitual failures.

So, too, with life. If we travel a road that leads us to shame and sinful habits, we shall end up with a sense of failure. But if we accept Christ and His new life, and forget the past, we can live successful undefeated lives no matter what may come.

Infant Welfare Group Plans Anvil Club Benefit Brunch

NEARLY DWARFED by huge anvil, vise and blacksmith tools by the open forge at the Anvil club, Mrs. William Brinkworth and Mrs. Stanley Billick, members of Arlington Heights center of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago, agree that the private club will be a perfect setting for the center's first benefit, a Sunday brunch to be held August 28. The affair will be by invitation.

PLANNING SESSION for benefit to be given August 28 by Arlington Heights center of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago was held last week by members of the group at the Anvil club, where the affair will take place. Obviously pleased with the location chosen for the Sunday brunch benefit are Mrs. Paul Colianni and Mrs. Curtis Kimball.

Yesterday I discovered The Farm Studio in Long Grove, a diminutive gallery near the junction of highways 53 and 83: completely enveloped in antique shops, tea rooms and rustic gift shoppes.

Betty Douglas Howey, the studio's director, has chosen talented painters, sculptors and craftsmen and showcased their work with simplicity and ingenuity The shows change monthly, but a variety of imports, antiques and pottery are always on display.

The July show spotlights the works of Lucy Bland and Steve Karall, both of Chicago.

Miss Bland has displayed several pleasing floral paintings, but her work, on the whole, lacks force and individualistic style.

Steve Karall is showing a variety of oil and casein-tenement scenes with slightly abstract overtones, moody figures drawn from a dark palette and portrait work with a contemporary feeling. His portrait of Lucy Bland does not ape the more usual portrait style, but captures all the freshness of the Twentieth Century.

COLLECTORS should place Karall's "Drug Store Cowboy" at the top of their lists. Here is a single figure in understated somber tones that depicts adolescent defiance and bravado. The boy stands, back to us, looking over his shoulder, as if the prospect of looking ahead might be too much.

The sculpture of Bill O'Donell may also be seen at the studio this week. Mr. O' Donell attended Chicago Art institute, University of Chicago and spent several years doing ceramic sculpture at Hull House.

In 1957, he left his clay behind him and turned to wood and metal sculpture. The pieces vary from pure abstract to primitive incorporating sand casting, carved wood, copper enameling and welded metals. Because of the popularity of Mr. O'Donell's work, his exhibit has been held over from the June showing. Don't miss it.

TB Is Claiming Fewer New Cases and Deaths

A smaller number of new, active cases of tuberculosis and 43 fewer deaths from the disease in Chicago during 1959, is announced in the annual report released this week of The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, the Christmas Seal agency.

The 1959 figures in the report, based on statistics released by the Chicago board of health, are provisional at this time and subject to revision as more information on 1959 cases is gathered. They show 2,790 new, active cases in 1959 compared to 3,094 in 1958; and 334 deaths, a decrease from the 377 reported for 1958.

TWENTY YEARS ago and before, the chief victims of tuberculosis were the young. The majority of today's patients are over 35 and more than 30 per cent have problems which make it virtually impossible for them to become self supporting.

While the greatest emphasis in the Institute program remains the finding of new cases and public health education, extensive rehabilitation work goes on with these patients who have such problems as alcoholism, old age, chronic illness, lack of skills, mental illness and illiteracy.

There are approximately 600 such problem patients now receiving treatment in Chicagoland sanitariums. In addition, there is a backlog of between 1,000 and 1,500 former patients needing employment but unable to find it. The futures of many point hopelessly toward dependence on family or upon public welfare.

THE YEAR round mass survey to find new cases of TB, largest in the country, involved 1,013,376 free chest X-rays; 803,174 n Chicago and 210,202 in suburban Cook county. Of the total X-rays taken 252,870 were in industrial surveys.

The survey is conducted by the Institute in cooperation with the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium in Chicago and the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District in Cook County, and official community health departments.

Suspect TB cases found in the survey totaled 9,291.

A SECOND instrument used to ferret out the hidden TB germ is the tuberculin test. Used primarily among school children, the test not only serves as an index to the degree of infection in the community, but where the student is a positive reactor, it acts as a tracer to his contacts who may be unknowingly spreading the germs. It also has an educational value for it creates awareness among the public, the parents and the professions of the extent of TB in the area.

The 22,924 students tuberculin tested in 38 Chicago schools during 1959 showed 3,690 had positive reactions, or 16.1 per cent, in contrast to 883 reactors or 5.1 per cent among 17,199 pupils tested in 108 suburban schools.

According to the Institute report, the eradication of TB depends on an informed public. Those who know that the disease is a menace and can attack anyone will have a chest X-ray. Without this wide-spread understanding the miracles of medical science and the free detection programs cannot be utilized to their greatest value.

The Institute health education program to achieve understanding on the part of the public uses both personal contact and mass communicaton methods.

THROUGH personal contact of the health education staff with community groups throughout the area, 783 organizations assisted with the summer X-ray survey. Volunteers numbering 8,691 gave 23,569 man hours at X-ray unit locations. Over 184,000 posters and other printed materials were used in the 1959 educational project. This is in addition to the thousands of posters and phamplets, and 16 exhibits, used in the X-ray survey in industry.

Training courses in community leadership were given to local groups, and health education classes were arranged for members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Grants for medical research, and informing the medical profession of up to date knowledge of diagnosis, treatment and care of TB patients totaled $17,149.41.

Arlington Housewife Offers Chinese-Style Steak Recipe

Week's Best food buys

The cycle of short supply-higher costs was stopped short by consumer price resistance that resulted in sharply lower retail fresh pork quotes this week, with marked shading also resulting at wholesale.

Measured relatively to steadily lowering beef and lamb retails, pork continues its many weeks absence from the weekly University of Illinois Consumer Service market buy list for the week ending July 30. The prospects for further seasonal improvement in concensus values are good, however.

As noted two weeks ago, when consumers began to divert meat purchases, upward pork price movement at live, wholesale and retail slowed. This week, retail and wholesale were in sharp retreat — retails off as much as 4c per pound. Wholesale registered a 2-week cumulative 5c per pound drop covering ribs, butts and loins.

The live market still trended higher on lighter supplies, arrivals off one-third from year ago. (Processed pork firmed at wholesale, but retails held steady or were shaved to prevent further loss of trade.)

Against the sharp turnabout in pork, beef roasts quoted lower and steaks priced more widely at retail as 1.) live market quotes reached the low point of the year, and 2.) warm weather produced the usual consumer switch from heavy cuts to more easily prepared steaks. In between, wholesale markets moved on lower quotes to reflect these situations.

Lamb also is under the gun of price weakening, although current general retails hold for the most part. Stores are showing a tendency for wider featuring of selected lamb cuts, however, that could preview more significant general retail declines in the near future.

IN POULTRY meats, turkey markets are fully stabilized with major buying activity now justifying the present cost base. But fryers are on the brink of downward pricing, expected late this week at wholesale.

This probably will be reflected the first week in August at retail. Current retail quotes are unchanged from week ago.

Continuing light egg receipts, against a pattern of higher futures trading, solidifies the current base price for grade A large whites, but forces outlets to widen the price range upward a few cents.

Most fresh fruits and vegetables are back on normal seasonal schedule with quality, availability and pricing following accordingly. Potato prices are off sharply, and they take their place on a broader list of produce values. In the middle are carrots holding at current relatively high prices. Only a few items show higher prices, especially season-end strawberries, some melons (cantaloupe ranging widely in quality), and stem, pink tomatoes. Local field grown tomatoes range tremendously in price.

THE GROCERY index rides below a year ago as the new-pack season progresses very satisfactorily. Tuna meat, for the salad fancier, is a particular bargain as the market adjusts to such volume and lower prices that tuna fleets tie-up on the west coast.

The U. of I. rates the following as concensus values for the week:

Meats — blade cut chuck and rump roasts, steaks, and ground beef, lamb leg roasts, turkeys; Groceries — tomato products, citrus juices, tuna fish; Produce—potatoes, lettuce, sweetcorn, green beans, peaches, apricots, grapes, watermelon.

Pricing situations:

Pork—Returning to prevailing ranges of a few weeks ago, rib cut roasts 45c, loin end roasts 55c, center chops 89-98c, end chops 49c, spare ribs (relatively steady) 59c, fresh Boston butts 49c. In processed line, against some firming at wholesale, retails are holding the line, to prevent further fall-off of trade as noted in fresh lines. Top brand bacon quotes a 69c base, second lines 55c, picnics from 29c, whole, smoked hams range 59-65c as replacement costs promise to be higher.

"Just a little different," is the way Mrs. Robert B. Ayres describes the recipe she has shared with us today.

But it is more than just that. This recipe for Beef with Tomatoes and Green Pepper turns ordinary round steak into tempting company fare.

"This is a Chinese-style dish," said Mrs. Ayres, "and it is served over rice. No vegetables are needed because of the tomatoes and green pepper, so I just serve a tossed salad and hot rolls as accompaniments."

The dish is prepared by cutting the round steak into julienne strips and browning them with onions and garlic. The steak is simmered in bouillon and before serving green pepper and tomatoes are added and soy sauce is blended in. The gravy is thickened with cornstarch.

THE FLAVORFUL combination of ingredients makes this an exceptionally tasty dish, and it is so easy to prepare that you'll want to serve it often for family meals.

For dessert Mrs. Ayres suggests Frosted Brownies, and she has an excellent recipe for these popular little cakes.

The Brownies themselves are soft and chewy. Mrs. Ayres frosts them with a butter cream icing and dribbles melted chocolate over the top.

This is a unique and unusual topping for the brownies, and they are as pretty to look at as they are delightful to taste.

THIS GOOD cook is the busy mother of four children: Pat, 11, Bobby, 8, Debbie 5, and Douglas, 1½. She is a member of the Mothers' club of Forest View school, and will take on the responsibilities of a den mother for the Cub Scouts this fall.

The Ayres family lives at 1525 S. State rd. in Arlington Heights.

Beef with Tomatoes and Green Pepper

1 pound round steak, sliced thin
2 tablespoons drippings
Salt and pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup beef bouillon
2 green peppers cut in julienne strips
4 small tomatoes, peeled and quartered
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
¼ cup water

Cut meat in strips 2 inches long and ½ inch wide. Brown meat, garlic and onion in drippings; season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring frequently, for five minutes or until meat is brown and onions are transparent.

Add bouillon, cover pan and cook slowly about 30 minutes or until meat is tender. Add green pepper and tomatoes.

Blend cornstarch with soy sauce and water and stir into gravy. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and clear. Serve over cooked rice. Serves 4 to 5.

Frosted Brownies

2 squares chocolate
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
½ cup chopped pecans
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Melt the chocolate and butter together. Beat the eggs well. Gradually beat in the sugar. Stir in the melted chocolate and butter mixture.

Add the flour, chopped pecans and vanilla. Spread in a greased pan, 9 to 13 inches, and bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Icing

½ cup butter
2 cups confectioners sugar

Whip ingredients together until creamy. Spread on cooled brownies. Melt one or two squares of unsweetened baking chocolate and dribble over the top. Makes two dozen brownies.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Pancakes in the last few years have really come into their own. They are no longer considered just a breakfast dish. It is just recently that we have realized the endless possibilities of this easy and quick to prepare dish.

Try using a variety of cake mixes for easy-to-prepare, quick desserts for impromptu afternoon or evening callers. Add one egg and one-half cup of water to 2 cups of cake mix, beat until smooth and add one-third cup of flour. Stir and cook on griddle.

A few variations can be made with fudge pancakes topped with vanilla ice cream, yellow cakes with peaches and cream, spice cakes topped with apple-sauce and whipped cream, sweetened with a little brown sugar.

Totem Burger Treat

Tan them and top them and tote them away, that's how to make burgers the totem pole way. Spurting with juiciness and rich, lean beef flavor, this popular dish is made extra good when cooked over a charcoal grill.

Top a slice of cheese on top, a buttered burger bun underneath, and build a lofty skyscraper of tomato, onion, relish and olive. Add corn on the cob, hot and buttery, thanks to its jacket of heavy-duty aluminum foil. For the finale, serve iced tea sparked with lemon slices.

Totem Burgers

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons Ac'cent
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 slices (8 ounces) process American cheese
8 Hamburger buns

Break up meat with fork in mixing bowl. Sprinkle Ac'cent, salt and pepper over entire surface of meat. Toss gently with fork to distribute seasonings. Shape into 8 patties. Pan boil, broil or grill to desired doneness. Just before hamburgers are done, top with cheese. Butter each hamburger bun and cover bottom half with lettuce. Top with hamburger patty, spread with mustard. Top with onion and tomato slices, pickle relish and olive. Repeat for each serving. Yield: 8 servings.

¼ cup water

Cut meat in strips 2 inches long and ½ inch wide. Brown meat, garlic and onion in drippings; season with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring frequently, for five minutes or until meat is brown and onions are transparent.

Add bouillon, cover pan and cook slowly about 30 minutes or until meat is tender. Add green pepper and tomatoes.

Blend cornstarch with soy sauce and water and stir into gravy. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and clear. Serve over cooked rice. Serves 4 to 5.

Frosted Brownies

2 squares chocolate
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup flour
½ cup chopped pecans
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Melt the chocolate and butter together. Beat the eggs well. Gradually beat in the sugar. Stir in the melted chocolate and butter mixture.

Add the flour, chopped pecans and vanilla. Spread in a greased pan, 9 to 13 inches, and bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Icing

½ cup butter
2 cups confectioners sugar

Whip ingredients together until creamy. Spread on cooled brownies. Melt one or two squares of unsweetened baking chocolate and dribble over the top. Makes two dozen brownies.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Pancakes in the last few years have really come into their own. They are no longer considered just a breakfast dish. It is just recently that we have realized the endless possibilities of this easy and quick to prepare dish.

Try using a variety of cake mixes for easy-to-prepare, quick desserts for impromptu afternoon or evening callers. Add one egg and one-half cup of water to 2 cups of cake mix, beat until smooth and add one-third cup of flour. Stir and cook on griddle.

A few variations can be made with fudge pancakes topped with vanilla ice cream, yellow cakes with peaches and cream, spice cakes topped with applesauce and whipped cream, sweetened with a little brown sugar.

Week's Best food buys

The cycle of short supply-higher costs was stopped short by consumer price resistance that resulted in sharply lower retail fresh pork quotes this week, with marked shading also resulting at wholesale.

Measured relatively to steadily lowering beef and lamb retails, pork continues its many weeks absence from the weekly University of Illinois Consumer Service market buy list for the week ending July 30. The prospects for further seasonal improvement in concensus values are good, however.

As noted two weeks ago, when consumers began to divert meat purchases, upward pork price movement at live, wholesale and retail slowed. This week, retail and wholesale were in sharp retreat — retails off as much as 4c per pound. Wholesale registered a 2-week cumulative 5c per pound drop covering ribs, butts and loins.

The live market still trended higher on lighter supplies, arrivals off one-third from year ago. (Processed pork firmed at wholesale, but retails held steady or were shaved to prevent further loss of trade.)

Against the sharp turnabout in pork, beef roasts quoted lower and steaks priced more widely at retail as 1.) live market quotes reached the low point of the year, and 2.) warm weather produced the usual consumer switch from heavy cuts to more easily prepared steaks. In between, wholesale markets moved on lower quotes to reflect these situations.

Lamb also is under the gun of price weakening, although current general retails hold for the most part. Stores are showing a tendency for wider featuring of selected lamb cuts, however, that could preview more significant general retail declines in the near future.

IN POULTRY meats, turkey markets are fully stabilized with major buying activity now justifying the present cost base. But fryers are on the brink of downward pricing, expected late this week at wholesale.

This probably will be reflected the first week in August at retail. Current retail quotes are unchanged from week ago.

Continuing light egg receipts, against a pattern of higher futures trading, solidifies the current base price for grade A large whites, but forces outlets to widen the price range upward a few cents.

Most fresh fruits and vegetables are back on normal seasonal schedule with quality, availability and pricing following accordingly. Potato prices are off sharply, and they take their place on a broader list of produce values. In the middle are carrots holding at current relatively high prices. Only a few items show higher prices, especially season-end strawberries, some melons (cantaloupe ranging widely in quality), and stem, pink tomatoes. Local field grown tomatoes range tremendously in price.

THE GROCERY index rides below a year ago as the new-pack season progresses very satisfactorily. Tuna meat, for the salad fancier, is a particular bargain as the market adjusts to such volume and lower prices that tuna fleets tie-up on the west coast.

The U. of I. rates the following as concensus values for the week:

Meats — blade cut chuck and rump roasts, steaks, and ground beef, lamb leg roasts, turkeys; Groceries — tomato products, citrus juices, tuna fish; Produce—potatoes, lettuce, sweetcorn, green beans, peaches, apricots, grapes, watermelon.

Pricing situations:

Pork—Returning to prevailing ranges of a few weeks ago, rib cut roasts 45c, loin end roasts 55c, center chops 89-98c, end chops 49c, spare ribs (relatively steady) 59c, fresh Boston butts 49c. In processed line, against some firming at wholesale, retails are holding the line, to prevent further fall-off of trade as noted in fresh lines. Top brand bacon quotes a 69c base, second lines 55c, picnics from 29c, whole, smoked hams range 59-65c as replacement costs promise to be higher.

Totem Burger Treat

Tan them and top them and tote them away, that's how to make burgers the totem pole way. Spurting with juiciness and rich, lean beef flavor, this popular dish is made extra good when cooked over a charcoal grill.

Top a slice of cheese on top, a buttered burger bun underneath, and build a lofty skyscraper of tomato, onion, relish and olive. Add corn on the cob, hot and buttery, thanks to its jacket of heavy-duty aluminum foil. For the finale, serve iced tea sparked with lemon slices.

Totem Burgers

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons Ac'cent
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 slices (8 ounces) process American cheese
8 Hamburger buns

Break up meat with fork in mixing bowl. Sprinkle Ac'cent, salt and pepper over entire surface of meat. Toss gently with fork to distribute seasonings. Shape into 8 patties. Pan boil, broil or grill to desired doneness. Just before hamburgers are done, top with cheese. Butter each hamburger bun and cover bottom half with lettuce. Top with hamburger patty, spread with mustard. Top with onion and tomato slices, pickle relish and olive. Repeat for each serving. Yield: 8 servings.

Natural Lighting With Glass Block

You can keep the lighting bills down and the illumination up by utilizing natural daylight in the basement area of your home. Complete the unguarded basement stairway with a glass block wall which will transmit light from the ground level windows. The result is a lighter, brighter basement or recreation room and a safer stairway.

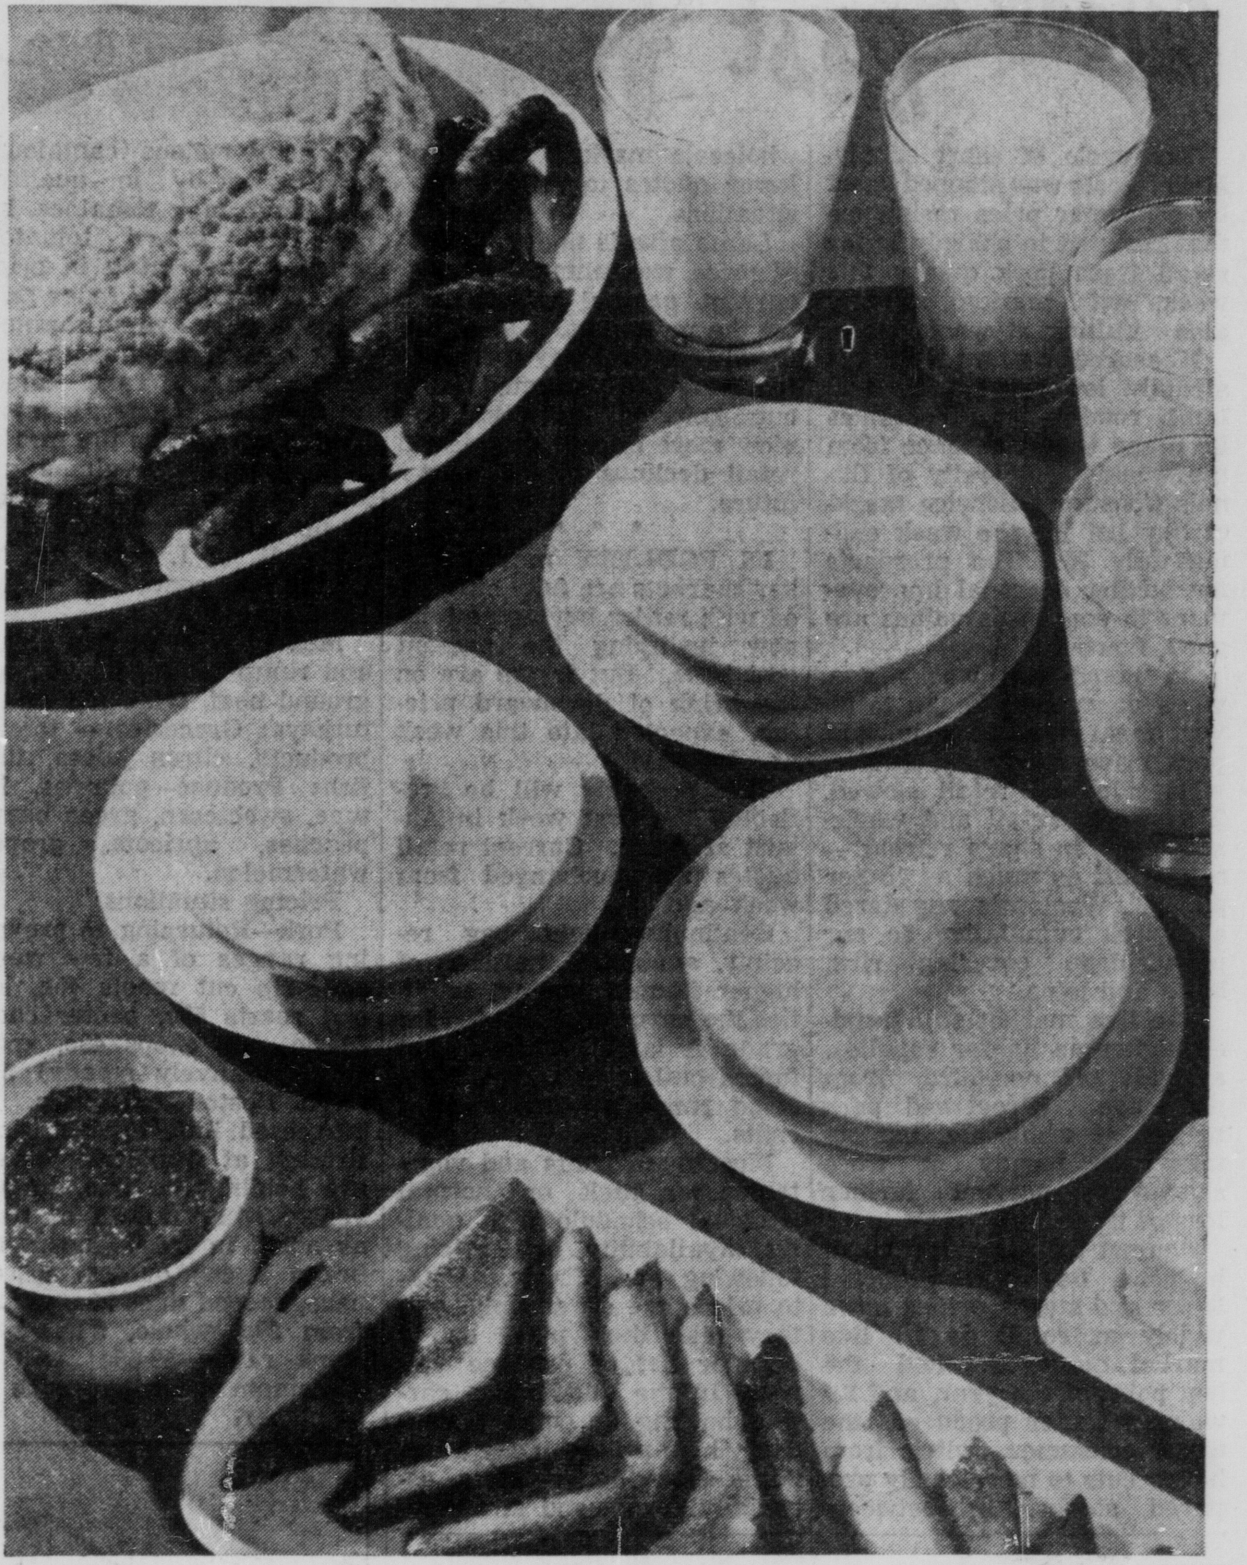
'Stick to Ribs' Breakfast Furnishes Lasting Energy



With breakfast being the most important meal, the summer months' menus should not be substituted with scanty fruit juice diets, lacking in all the required vitamin and protein qualities. For a 'stick to the ribs' meal, try this menu starting with an opener of grapefruit, which may be broiled or baked with breakfast sausages. The addition of your favorite omelet will provide a boost of energy resulting in a nutritious, mouth-watering high protein meal.

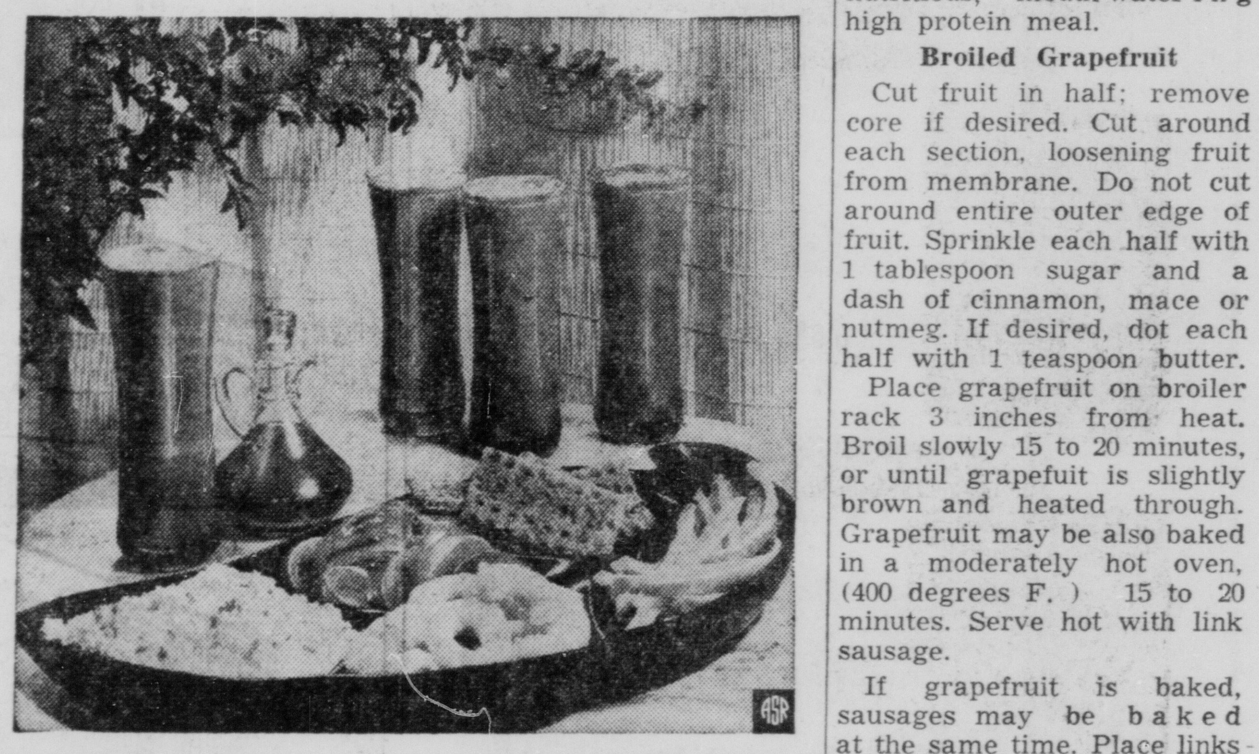
Broiled Grapefruit

Cut fruit in half; remove core if desired. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Do not cut around entire outer edge of fruit. Sprinkle each half with 1 tablespoon sugar and a dash of cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. If desired, dot each half with 1 teaspoon butter.

Place grapefruit on broiler rack 3 inches from heat. Broil slowly 15 to 20 minutes, or until grapefuit is slightly brown and heated through. Grapefruit may be also baked in a moderately hot oven, (400 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot with link sausage.

If grapefruit is baked, sausages may be baked at the same time. Place links on rack in shallow pan; place on top shelf of oven 15-20 minutes.

Fizzer Low In Calories High In Vitamins, Iron



Technically, a beanpole is a long thin stick, designed to accommodate growing beans. By extension, it is also a long thin person. A Beanpole Fizzer is a long thin drink, designed to accommodate growing boys and girls. Or, if you make it with nonfat dry milk, it will accommodate those who want a tall chocolate drink without too many calories.

Beanpole Fizzer somewhat resembles that old New York favorite, the egg cream, a beverage which won distinction by containing neither eggs nor cream. The chocolate flavor can be introduced instantly with powdered chocolate mix, which dissolves immediately in liquid. It also offers good nourishment, as it is fortified with Vitamins C and D/3 and iron.

WHOLE MILK or non-fat dry milk gives the Beanpole Fizzer its substance, sparkling water gives it the right to be called a fizzer, and a little honey adds originality to the flavor.

Assuming you want a beanpole, or limited calorie lunch, serve your Beanpole Fizzer with a "separates" salad. Arrange mounds of shrimps, cottage cheese, and raw vegetables in a bowl or on a platter and let everyone do his own assembly job.

You can buy a number of low-calorie dressings, should you desire one, and some people will prefer their separates salad plain, or with a squeeze of lemon juice.

AT ANY TIME of day, a Beanpole Fizzer will go over well with the beanpole crowd — the teenagers who look as if they could consume a skyscraper without gaining a pound. In that case, bring on the whole milk, and give them as many calories as possible. You may be sure the next round of tennis will burn up the calories at once.

Beanpole Fizzer

Pour ½ cup water into tall glass. Stir in ½ cup nonfat dry milk. Add 1 tablespoon honey* and 2 heaping teaspoons chocolate-flavored mix; mix well. Fill with sparkling water. Stir till foamy. Serve at once. Yield: 1 serving.

*Or substitute 2 tablespoons maple-blended syrup or 1 tablespoon light molasses.

The Way We See It

Vigorous Program Is Needed to Save Elms

Dutch Elm disease, that familiar suburban nemesis, is back again this summer, attacking with renewed vigor.

Arlington Heights last week reported 41 cases of the destructive tree disease. Mount Prospect had 52 cases, and Palatine 64. Last year the latter villages reported less than 10 cases apiece. One village official estimated that the disease has increased across Chicago's suburbs by as much as 400 per cent this year.

The estimate bodes ill for the suburban tree population. Since the elm is one of the most popular parkway sentinels, the loss of hundreds of these trees in the next few years will detract considerably from the natural beauty of our communities.

Like cancer and heart disease in humans, Dutch Elm is without a cure. Trees that become infected are cut and burned to destroy the beetles that cause the disease. No one has developed a formula for restoring them.

Scientists have come up with preventive measures that can cut the toll of the disease. With a proper spraying program, communities can keep the fatality rate down. All of the villages mentioned above have good programs.

State authorities on Dutch Elm say that if the rate can be kept below two per cent of the total elm population the communities are doing a good job.

But when a two per cent or even a one per cent figure is projected over a period of years the toll amounts to a staggering figure. If the present trend continues—and the scientists feel that it probably will become more serious—our communities are going to lose hundreds of trees, and our streets will become ugly, barren stretches of concrete and tar.

Two possible solutions come to mind.

The first calls for formation of a better prevention program, one that will encompass large areas like the Mosquito Abatement districts for which we pay taxes.

With the large district whole areas could be controlled. A good part of the problem faced by our villages is caused by infected trees outside their limits which fall under township, county, or state jurisdiction. These trees, left standing long after they have become infected, make wonderful breeding grounds for the beetles. And when the time comes to move on, the bettle has little respect for the legal village limits barrier.

The other solution takes a negative tack and a bit of the defeatist attitude. But it seems practical, since no cure for the disease has been found.

It calls for a re-forestration project at the local level. This idea was proposed last year by Arlington Heights Village Manager Rudy Hansen, but was rejected by village officials as too costly.

Hansen suggested that the village hire a full-time forester who would be responsible for prevention of Dutch Elm, and also for a tree nursery on a piece of village property. The nursery would be planted to maple, oak, ash, and other hardwood trees.

Later the trees would be transplanted to fill the elm vacancies, and the streets would retain their natural beauty.

Coupling a strengthened prevention program with a re-forestration program, we feel our suburbs could do much to retain the graceful beauty that is so much a part of their identity and a mark that clearly distinguishes them from the city.

Hospital Urgently Needs Payment on Our Pledges

Unless the $560,000 in outstanding pledges is paid, the new Northwest Community hospital will be in serious financial trouble. This money is sorely needed to pay off the original construction contracts and put the hospital on a cash basis. In addition, the hospital cannot consider the addition of necessary equipment or the expansion of facilities under the present circumstances of overextended credit.

Total cost of the Central rd. institution, including land, building, architect, equipment, and finance charges, amounted to $2,575,849.20. Some $1,117,000 has been paid in pledges. The institution's management reports that current expenses are being met by current income, but "the terrific backlog of debt is breaking our back."

This community has attempted—and accomplished—what most other areas have written off as impossible—the realization of one of the country's finest hospitals, completely financed by public support, without taxes and without sectarian affiliation. Numerous lives have already been saved as a result of the proximity and efficiency of this institution. We must not forget our obligation simply because we are already being rewarded for our initial efforts.

A pledge is a curious thing. It is not legally binding; yet involved in its employment are personal and moral values. We cannot ration or rationalize these qualities.

Two Suburban Officials Support 'Right-to-Know'

Do the people have a right to know the thinking behind decisions affecting their communities? Should they be informed why their tax dollars are being spent in such a manner? In short, should the deliberations of those bodies supported directly or indirectly by tax revenue be open to the public? Most officials would agree they should—within limits.

It is these "limits" with which we are concerned. Too often such "limits" mean that village trustees, plan commission members, school board members, and other officials prefer to hash out controversial policy matters behind closed doors before rubber stamping their decision in public.

The people's right to know all the facts is a cause that has consistently been championed by Paddock Publications. Last week this stand got a big boost from officials of two northwest suburban communities.

In Arlington Heights, a formal proposal was made by a trustee that all budget committee meetings be open to the public "except for strictly salary and individual personnel matters." As in other area communities, the village's budget this year was worked out in private sessions and brought out and dried to the required public hearing.

In Mt. Prospect a trustee deplored committee of the whole or secret sessions and refused to attend future meetings of this nature.

"I believe the public is entitled to hear debate over matters of policy, and disagreements between the trustees are not a personal matter should not be regarded as such," the trustee told other board members.

He is supported by the Illinois legislature which passed a bill in 1957 specifically designed to protect the people's right to know.

House bill 699 states: "It is the public policy of this state that the public commissions, boards and councils and other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of this act that their actions be taken openly and that their official deliberations be conducted openly."

Of the four sponsors of the bill, two have publicly stated that the law should be extended to include committee meetings.

We do not argue that all matters without exception should be discussed publicly. There are obviously instances where the community's interest would be best served by private deliberations. To avoid speculation such could be the case in the acquisition or sale of property. Such instances are, however, rare.

The fundamental concept of democracy is government of, for, and by the people. A well-informed electorate is essential to the operation and preservation of such a government.

Unless the voters know all the issues in government, and know why their representatives act as they do, the democracy is just a little less.

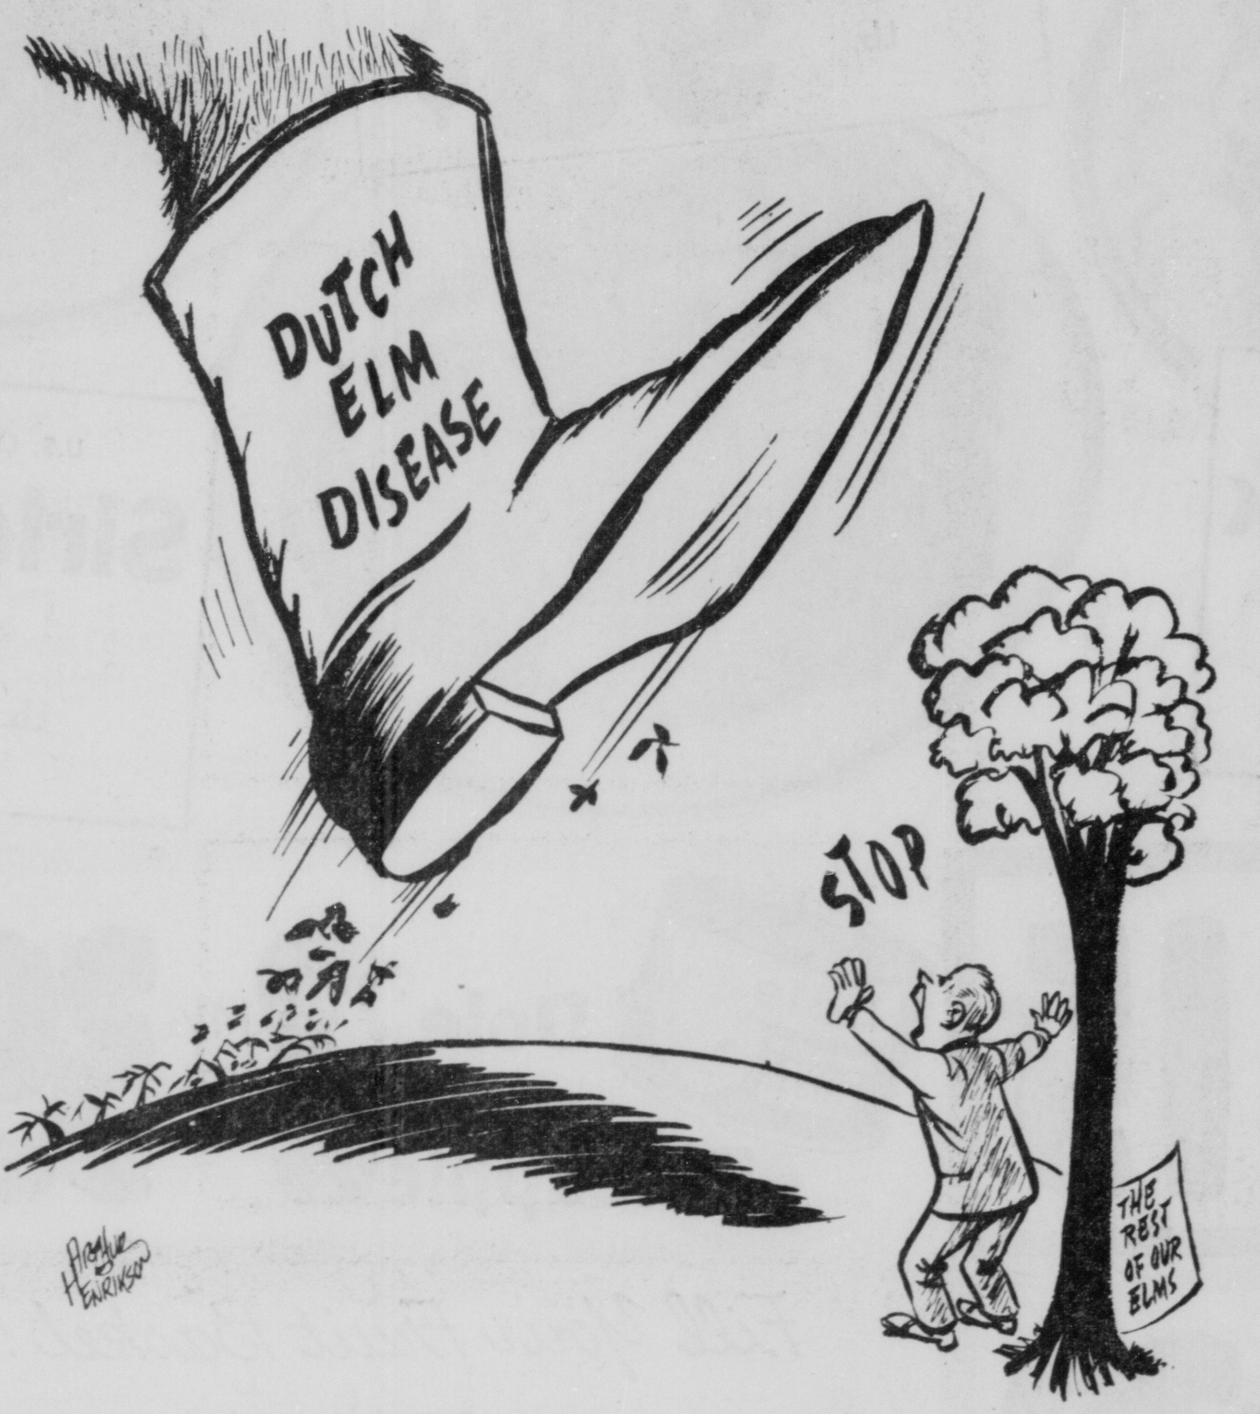
And Who's to Stop It?



Rescues Sullivanesque Elements

Here's Cheer for 'Reformer' Who Does as Well as Speaks

by MARTIN E. MARTY

Life is too short for us always to remember the people who deserve remembering. Often the impulse comes to send someone a congratulatory post card or some other form of pat on the back and then lethargy takes over, the impulse is gone, and the person is unrecognized.

Being a notoriously inept correspondent but a compulsive columnist, I like to take time on occasion to send such a note via the public press.

(Martin Marty's weekly column of comment will not appear during his five-week trip to Europe. His column will be resumed after his return August 29.)

My nomination this week is a young architect in Park Ridge, Mr. Richard Nickel. (Now I have to hope that these newspapers have an orbit which crosses Nickel's, either through an efficient Paddock mailing service or because Nickel's great - aunt or someone else lives in Paddock range and mails it to him.)

AT ANY RATE, what is attractive about Mr. Nickel is this: he is a reformer who not only speaks but does; he is a do-it-yourself enterpriser for the causes for which he agitates.

A serious student of the architectural ornament of Louis H. Sullivan, Nickel has, largely at his own expense, run around rescuing Sullivanesque elements before they were desecrated or destroyed as classic Chicago buildings are being torn down.

His garage, as I understand it, is full of enormous chunks of building facades. I don't know how he fits them in, and can't picture him shuffling through his souvenirs on a Sunday evening like a stamp collector would - did you ever try to lift a facade?

But lugging and paying for all this stone work earns Mr. Nickel the right to agitate on his favorite subject: the preservation of Sullivan's masterpieces.

CURRENTLY the Garrick theater is under controversy; about to be torn down, it has become the center of architectural concern.

A lover of architecture and an admirer of Sullivan, I share regret over the levelling to dust of masterpieces of his era. As John D. Randall, president of Chicago chapter of the Society of Architectural Historians has said, Sullivan adornments are as noted as Cezanne or Picasso paintings.

But I also sympathize with the people who stumble onto such ownership, live with famed buildings during periods of neglect, and find them of interest only when they are to be torn down. Chicago Theological Seminary, past owners of famed Robie House on the south side were faced with this dilemma a few years ago. And seminaries, believe me, are not financially poised to be patrons of the arts.

WELL, AT THAT time everyone and his brother in the architectural fraternity railed at the seminary's barbarism and philistinism, but the railers (and here let me suggest that architects should be in better financial positions than seminaries) did nothing for a long time except make noises. Happily that situation later changed. In case anyone thought that the Garrick defenses were merely irresponsible noisemaking, Mr. Nickel's garage-full of concrete should suggest otherwise. Now we will listen, to him at least.

But this could set a dangerous trend. What if every politician who put into print high sounding language about race and peace had to begin by setting precedents in actual inter-racial dealing, or acting peaceful? What if religious reformers had to begin with their own denominations instead of others? What if union leaders had to identify with their ranks and files instead of only, as is often the case, making noises for them? What if . . .?

I better be careful, this reforming business can come pretty close to home. It sounds like a good pattern: first act, then involve others.

By the way, I wonder what Mrs. Nickel thinks (if there is a Mrs. Nickel) about that garage full of building fronts?

The World at Large

Congo Puzzle Yet Unsolved

by WILLIAM DULANEY

Among the many columns of copy that have been written in the past few weeks on the Congo crisis, one major question remains unanswered.

Why did Belgium pull out of her fantastically rich colony relatively abruptly, abandoning a proposed timetable for independence, and no doubt well aware that anarchy would follow?

There were, of course, the riots of last year, incited by Congolese nationalists who demanded immediate independence from Belgium. The riots were, however, carried out mostly in urban areas, and certainly lacked the strength or organization of Kenya's Mau Mau movement or Algeria's rebels.

The vast majority of the 14 million Congolese, represented by some 200 tribes speaking 38 languages and hundreds of dialects, are more concerned with tribal matters than with nationalism.

THE FIRST OVERT expression of nationalism came in July, 1956, by an organization called La Conscience Africaine. It called for independence in 30 years. Belgium officials in 1958 talked in terms of self-government for the Congolese in 25 years.

In short, it appears Belgium, if it had desired, could have successfully suppressed rioting, forestalled independence demands, and stuck to a timetable of withdrawal that would have left the Congo in a better position to govern itself.

A harsh judgment of Belgium's hurried departure would be that the country anticipated the chaos that followed and hoped the Congolese and the world, convinced that the Congo was many years away from responsible self - government, would support Belgian intervention and continued economic dominance over its former colony.

THIS THEORY is supported by the actions of Moise Tshombe, premier of mineral rich Katanga province, who called for Belgian intervention against the mutinous Force Publique's soldiers.

The New York Times (July 17) noted "Belgian conservatives and financial interests, confident that they could retain ties to independent Katanga, were jubilant" over Tshombe's calling upon neighboring provinces to join Katanga, which represents 60 per cent of the Congo's wealth, in seceding from the Congo and maintaining close ties with Belgium.

If Belgium's exit was a realistic anticipation of its numbered days in Africa, then it was belated, for there could hardly be a more ill prepared nation for independence than the Congo.

In the whole of the Congo there are no native lawyers, doctors, or engineers, and only six college graduates. This is contrasted with thousands of Negro lawyers in British and French Africa.

FOR YEARS IF a Congolese seaman managed to jump ship at a Belgian port, he was made to remain in Belgium for life, so he could not return to tell of the wonders of Europe.

While Belgian paternalism offered some economic opportunities and many social services to the natives, political activity was ruthlessly suppressed and political parties did not exist.

Belgian civil servants, numbering over 10,000, administered the colony, 77 times the size of Belgium, and Belgian technicians kept power plants, mines, and transportation facilities operating.

The 250,000 man army was commanded by 1,006 Belgian officers with iron discipline. It should, however, be pointed out that the recent mutiny was not the first trouble with Congolese troops. Shortly after World War II mutinous soldiers rioted at Luluabourg, an important provincial town. The mutiny was ruthlessly suppressed.

REGARDLESS of Belgium's intent in pulling out of the Congo, the vacuum left by her withdrawal will cause the United States and her allies many a headache in the future.

The Congo's atmosphere of political uncertainty, poverty, and illiteracy are made to order for communist penetration of Africa's heartland.

Dr. Marty Departs On European Junket

Dr. Martin E. Marty left Wednesday on a five-week trip to Europe to study and report efforts toward unity of Christian churches.

Associate editor of the Christian Century magazine, Dr. Marty is also pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove Village and a contributing editor to Paddock Publications.

Primary purpose of his trip is to attend the central committee meeting of the World Council of Churches August 16 to 24 at St. Andrew, Scotland. The committee will prepare for the third assembly to be held at New Delhi, India, in Autumn 1961.

THE SESSION, which will bring together the leadership of all non-Roman denominations in the Christian church, has special significance since it also celebrates the 50th anniversary of the Edinburgh Conference of 1910, symbolic beginning of the ecumenical movement.

The Christian Century is sending Dr. Marty to the meeting at the invitation of the World Council. Net result of his five-week tour will be a depth analysis of the St. Andrew meeting and other developments in the ecumenical movement. He will prepare four news reports and six feature articles for the magazine.

Dr. Marty will also gather material for a short book on some phase of the ecumenical movement.

IN ADDITION to the St. Andrew meeting, he will attend the final two days of the World Student Christian Federation conference at Strasbourg, France, and the final day of the Roman Catholic Eucharistic Congress at Munich, Germany. He will spend one week at the headquarters and study center of the World Council of Churches at Geneva and Chateau Bossey, Switzerland.

Dr. Marty will also make a study of post-war churches in Cologne, Germany, and Amsterdam, Netherlands.

He returns to Elk Grove Village on August 28.

"Swivel Chair Comments," weekly column of comment by Charles Hayes, has been discontinued as a regular feature of the Page of Opinion, it was announced this week.

In its place, Paddock Publications will publish special features and articles of particular interest to its suburban readers. "The World at Large" will continue to be a regular feature of the editorial page.

The vast majority of the 14 million Congolese, represented by some 200 tribes speaking 38 languages and hundreds of dialects, are more concerned with tribal matters than with nationalism.

THE FIRST OVERT expression of nationalism came in July, 1956, by an organization called La Conscience Africaine. It called for independence in 30 years. Belgium officials in 1958 talked in terms of self-government for the Congolese in 25 years.

In short, it appears Belgium, if it had desired, could have successfully suppressed rioting, forestalled independence demands, and stuck to a timetable of withdrawal that would have left the Congo in a better position to govern itself.

A harsh judgment of Belgium's hurried departure would be that the country anticipated the chaos that followed and hoped the Congolese and the world, convinced that the Congo was many years away from responsible self - government, would support Belgian intervention and continued economic dominance over its former colony.

THIS THEORY is supported by the actions of Moise Tshombe, premier of mineral rich Katanga province, who called for Belgian intervention against the mutinous Force Publique's soldiers.

The New York Times (July 17) noted "Belgian conservatives and financial interests, confident that they could retain ties to independent Katanga, were jubilant" over Tshombe's calling upon neighboring provinces to join Katanga, which represents 60 per cent of the Congo's wealth, in seceding from the Congo and maintaining close ties with Belgium.

If Belgium's exit was a realistic anticipation of its numbered days in Africa, then it was belated, for there could hardly be a more ill prepared nation for independence than the Congo.

In the whole of the Congo there are no native lawyers, doctors, or engineers, and only six college graduates. This is contrasted with thousands of Negro lawyers in British and French Africa.

FOR YEARS IF a Congolese seaman managed to jump ship at a Belgian port, he was made to remain in Belgium for life, so he could not return to tell of the wonders of Europe.

While Belgian paternalism offered some economic opportunities and many social services to the natives, political activity was ruthlessly suppressed and political parties did not exist.

Belgian civil servants, numbering over 10,000, administered the colony, 77 times the size of Belgium, and Belgian technicians kept power plants, mines, and transportation facilities operating.

The 250,000 man army was commanded by 1,006 Belgian officers with iron discipline. It should, however, be pointed out that the recent mutiny was not the first trouble with Congolese troops. Shortly after World War II mutinous soldiers rioted at Luluabourg, an important provincial town. The mutiny was ruthlessly suppressed.

REGARDLESS of Belgium's intent in pulling out of the Congo, the vacuum left by her withdrawal will cause the United States and her allies many a headache in the future.

The Congo's atmosphere of political uncertainty, poverty, and illiteracy are made to order for communist penetration of Africa's heartland.

Dr. Marty Departs On European Junket

Dr. Martin E. Marty left Wednesday on a five-week trip to Europe to study and report efforts toward unity of Christian churches.

Associate editor of the Christian Century magazine, Dr. Marty is also pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove Village and a contributing editor to Paddock Publications.

Primary purpose of his trip is to attend the central committee meeting of the World Council of Churches August 16 to 24 at St. Andrew, Scotland. The committee will prepare for the third assembly to be held at New Delhi, India, in Autumn 1961.

THE SESSION, which will bring together the leadership of all non-Roman denominations in the Christian church, has special significance since it also celebrates the 50th anniversary of the Edinburgh Conference of 1910, symbolic beginning of the ecumenical movement.

The Christian Century is sending Dr. Marty to the meeting at the invitation of the World Council. Net result of his five-week tour will be a depth analysis of the St. Andrew meeting and other developments in the ecumenical movement. He will prepare four news reports and six feature articles for the magazine.

Dr. Marty will also gather material for a short book on some phase of the ecumenical movement.

IN ADDITION to the St. Andrew meeting, he will attend the final two days of the World Student Christian Federation conference at Strasbourg, France, and the final day of the Roman Catholic Eucharistic Congress at Munich, Germany. He will spend one week at the headquarters and study center of the World Council of Churches at Geneva and Chateau Bossey, Switzerland.

Dr. Marty will also make a study of post-war churches in Cologne, Germany, and Amsterdam, Netherlands.

He returns to Elk Grove Village on August 28.

'Golden Rule' Consideration

Last week the Palatine Enterprise featured a front page article headlined, "Board Backs League Play." Because of serious errors of omission this story conveyed an image of action which was patently misleading and unfair to the homeowners referred to in the report.

In a situation unparalleled in 27 other areas of school property in three other communities as well as Palatine, a group of intimately affected homeowners living adacent to the Pleasant Hill school grounds have since 1958 sought the assistance of the school board in finding a workable solution to a number of serious problems created by the erection of a L.L. baseball diamond virtually in their backyards.

ASIDE FROM the five nights a week, June through August discomfiture caused by this activity, equal concern was felt by the homeowners for the hazard of baseballs batted and thrown into their yards and other areas of non-L.L. recreation inhabited by neighborhood children, during continual warm-up sessions by reserve players. Because of inadequate auto parking facilities near the troublesome diamond, children once faced an additional hazard of automobile traffic on the school grounds but this is now only an occasional risk.

Your much-heralded "decision" by the school board to allow the L.L. to use the diamond for the rest of this season was in fact a superfluous action on an issue which was not contested at any time. The residents did not seek the extinction of L.L. activity nor any action to eliminate play for the rest of this year.

They simply sought the cooperation of the school board in relocating the diamond to a more safe and sane location.

YOUR STORY failed to report the board's decision calling for the immediate establishment of safeguards to the hazards mentioned above and witnessed firsthand by board members touring the area, and their promise to do "something" if a proposed park district-school district land use merger (unfortunately, thecurrent excuse for inaction) fails to become a reality.

Finally, your story stated that the superintendent of schools "felt there was no undue noise or disturbance." It failed to report however, the views of several conscientious board members who gave up some of their personal relaxation time to come and view the matter firsthand —and then promptly set about surveying possible new locations for the troublesome and hazardous diamond.

All the homeowners have ever asked from the school board was a little Golden Rule consideration. Perhaps that's asking too much. Nevertheless, we ask for the same thng from the Enterprise.

New Homeowner Group Formed

We all have a healthy concern for our families, our property and our neighbors. To bring something tangible out of this concern, the residents of the Westview Subdivision of Addison have formed an association.

Incentives and "go-at-itness" are running high among the members. Results will not lack for trying. Sewer, street and lighting problems are of immediate concern to the members. Long range plans cover Village and County problems.

The world can be as good as we make it - but let's start with our own community. At any rate, the folks in Westview are going to try.

Urge Protest Of 'Bad' Tax

During the early part of June I wrote my state representatives and senator the following letter:

"This is a letter of protest. A protest against the individual personal property tax.

"I am protesting this tax, not because it's costing me money. I realize that the money is necessary to maintain the local governments.

"I AM protesting this tax because it encourages dishonesty and disrespect for the law. Consider this:

"1) The tax forms are not completely filled out, even when a tax official assists.

"2) The taxpayer is then asked to take an oath to swear to the accuracy and completeness of the tax return. (What better way to shatter a person's illusion of honesty?)

"3) Once the oath is sworn to, and as noted in point 1, above, the taxpayer is in jeopardy of legal action by the state for filing a fraudulent tax form and is subjected to a $5000 fine and a year imprisonment.

"4) After experiencing this self-inflicted moral debasement, and after placing himself in jeopardy of legal action from the state, how does the taxpayer reconcile his position with the neighbor who doesn't even get a tax form?

"THE ENFORCEMENT of this tax law in Cook county is notoriously poor. Admittedly it is difficult, but that does not excuse the lack of enforcement. What apparently is happening is that even the tax officials realize what a bad law this is and will settle for only a token payment.

"What this tax law does do is to provide the seed of distrust of the tax officials and disrespect for the law.

"As my representative, I would like you to tell me what course of action I must take to change this law."

I RECEIVED three replies to the four letters sent. I heard from and was encouraged by Rep. B. M. Peskin, who briefly summed up his view and his past action. I also heard from Senator W. R. Arrington, who apparently has been fighting this law for the last 10 years. And, I also heard from Rep. A. E. Simmons, who is also fighting this law.

While it is encouraging to hear from these state legislators and to hear what they are doing to fight this tax law, I cannot help but feel that they are not fighting as hard as they can or ought to. This is probably due to public apathy.

I believe that if they were to hear more from their constituents, to the point of being overwhelmed, then, and only then, will they do their utmost to enact legislation to amend this law that will also be acceptable to the public at large.

Vandals Hit Library Plants

It is hard to believe that there are young people living in our fine community who would stoop to pull out the flowers and plants in the two urns located near the front entrance of the library. But such has happened! What good did it do to pull out the plants and throw them into nearby shrubbery?

Shall the library board spend additional tax-payers money to replant these urns in order to beautify the library surroundings? Perhaps these young people will repeat what they have done!

IT IS A disgrace to our community to have such vandalism take place to a public building.

We have so many fine young people in our community who take advantage of the opportunity to increase their knowledge by using the facilities of the library and yet there are those who would destroy these advantages.

Housewife's Tale of Woe

Much has been said about the gangsters of Chicago; the "hold-up men"; pick-pockets, thieves of lesser or greater degree. I often wonder just what is being done about the millions of men and women who rob unsuspecting householders yearly through bad servicing of appliances, replacements that do not hold up; short-term guarantees where prohibitive price-tags are placed on appliances that are necessary and bought sometimes at great sacrifice.

And, sadly enough, by reputable dealers and supply houses.

ONE ALMOST wishes for the days of simplified living; minus the highly mechanized features that almost require a skilled mechanic to operate, and surely, one to adjust or repair.

Service calls are never just "service calls" any more. One must pay $6 for one half-hour, plus $1 each 15 minutes or fraction thereof . . . plus price of even the tiniest item to be replaced. There was a time when a flat charge was made for servicing; any small replacement under $1 was included. It seems ludicrous to see an item of 10 cents listed among others for 32, etc.!

And, the running in and out of the house, to and from the truck, to pick up these infinitesimal items; it seems that all these should be in some kind of box. Or, at least, the repair-man should anticipate to some measure, the replacements he requires when he has already been given such details over the telephone before his coming. I'd like to have $1 for every 15 minutes I have to run around trying to find some item!

WHAT IS happening to our little world of house-keeping? Is it getting to be a happy hunting ground for every service-man in town? Is everyone trying to make a "fast buck" as Bob Hope expresses it?

Will we housewives be forced to take courses in mechanics and electronics in order to operate our equipment at a minimum? Woe is me.

Mrs. J. W. Sholder

Issues Plea For Elm Aid

Your last edition, carrying the story of the Dutch Elm disease threat, was timely and appreciated. I was pleased to have the apathy on the part of the village board regarding a tree replacement program exposed.

My only criticism of your story was that it wasn't in bold type on the front page. I doubt if a village board has ever had a more serious problem before it, one that will affect the appearance of an entire community, to say nothing of property values, etc.

THE DISEASE is now on the rampage throughout the entire area, and the final outcome presents a sickening picture. We have had a spraying program in effect; however, the sanitation program has been abandoned with much work remaining. Large dead limbs can be observed in many sections of town.

I have been greatly disturbed, in several instances, where dead trees have stood for long periods prior to their removal. We have now been cleared of dead elms on E. Euclid, but we now have the problem of dead elms standing alongside the old cemetery just outside the village limits.

As an observer, it seems that the longer a dead tree stands the more trees are likely to die out in the immediate area. I feel we have fallen far short of anything even approaching a combat program.

PERHAPS WE can't prevent a great loss of our elm population, but it most certainly is within the realm of reality to have a sound tree replacement program.

It seems to me this is a simple moral civic responsibility.

We take the beauty of our area for granted, and I'm afraid we may be headed for a very sad awakening. The elms make up the greatest percentage of our tree population, and their value to our environment can't be measured.

I KNOW there would be many citizens thrilled to see your newspaper jolt the entire community into a sense of awareness and responsibility. I'm sure this is the only method that will bring about constructive action on the part of the village board. There is just so much at stake and the sooner we start a program, the easier it should be.

I'm not an organizer, nor a letter writer as you have learned by now. But I sincerely appeal to your newspaper to get things rolling.

A 'Christian' President?

I have waited a week to write this letter, hoping that Rev. Stumpf had somehow been mis-quoted and would himself rectify matters. Now it seems that we must take his statement as it stands.

To quote Rev. Stumpf in the Herald of July 14, "Certainly the President must be a Christian."

Our constitution guarantees that there shall be no religious test for candidates. This not only protects Catholics, Presbyterians, Baptists, etc., it also protects Jews, Buddhists, Atheists, etc. We are not a Christian state. We have no state religion.

HAD REV. Stumpf's standard been applied, we would have done without the services of Washington, Adams and Jefferson, who professed Deist or Unitarian views, and Lincoln, who never joined a church.

There seems to be a growing tendency to employ the word Christian as an adjective synonymous to good, true or virtuous. These qualities are present in many Christians, but as surely, they are also present in many sincere believers of other religions or of no religion.

I realize that this is an unpopular view. Very few people to whom I have spoken found anything objectionable in Rev. Stumpf's declaration, which is precisely why I felt I must write this dissenting statement.

Young Drivers Are Creating Problem

The price of motorized transportation in America has reached the appalling figure of 8400 youthful lives a year, according to Reginald C. Dawson of the Illinois Insurance Information Service.

In the last complete year of record, 8400 young people between the ages of 16 and 25 died in America's street and highway accidents. Drivers under 25 years of age were in 4,750,000 accidents that year and were at the wheel in 12,400 accidents in which one or more persons died.

THE YOUNG, unmarried driver under the age of 25 costs the insurance companies $127 for every $100 of insurance premiums paid in. Since insurance companies can pay losses only from cumulative paid-up premiums, someone has to make up the deficiency of $27 per $100 if the younger driver is to have insurance protection. Therefore, his excess losses are spread among all drivers, including the older members of his community and his family. This means higher rates for all branches of liability insurance, whether or not you have a driver in the family who falls into the dangerous age category.

The most workable solution seems to lie in the training of the younger driver as he reaches the age where he becomes eligible for licensing. Files of the National Safety Council show that in 1959 there were about 80 million licensed drivers in the U. S. Of this total about 15,100,000 were in the young male age group — or about 18 per cent of all drivers. Yet this 18 per cent of all drivers were involved in 28 per cent of all accidents in which a death occurred. And this 18 per cent were involved in 27 per cent of all accidents.

If basic and good driver training is coupled with rigid but just enforcement of the traffic laws, perhaps we can reverse the bloody trend on our streets and highways. (FP

Q. Please suggest a bread-and-butter letter a girl can write after she has spent a weekend at a boy's home.

A. She addresses it to the boy's mother, something like this: "Dear Mrs. Benson: Your home is as nice as Dick has always said it is. I really enjoyed the weekend so much, and I want to thank you for having invited me. Please remember me to Mr. Benson. Sincerely, Sally Griffith."

Q. When lettuce, parsley or watercress is placed around an item of food as a garnish, is it proper to eat these?

A. Certainly it is, if the garnish is a part of your individual service. But you should not mar the appearance of a serving dish by plucking out some of its garnish.

'Golden Rule' Consideration

Last week the Palatine Enterprise featured a front page article headlined, "Board Backs League Play." Because of serious errors of omission this story conveyed an image of action which was patently misleading and unfair to the homeowners referred to in the report.

In a situation unparalleled in 27 other areas of school property in three other communities as well as Palatine, a group of intimately affected homeowners living adacent to the Pleasant Hill school grounds have since 1958 sought the assistance of the school board in finding a workable solution to a number of serious problems created by the erection of a L.L. baseball diamond virtually in their backyards.

ASIDE FROM the five nights a week, June through August discomfiture caused by this activity, equal concern was felt by the homeowners for the hazard of baseballs batted and thrown into their yards and other areas of non-L.L. recreation inhabited by neighborhood children, during continual warm-up sessions by reserve players. Because of inadequate auto parking facilities near the troublesome diamond, children once faced an additional hazard of automobile traffic on the school grounds but this is now only an occasional risk.

Your much-heralded "decision" by the school board to allow the L.L. to use the diamond for the rest of this season was in fact a superfluous action on an issue which was not contested at any time. The residents did not seek the extinction of L.L. activity nor any action to eliminate play for the rest of this year.

They simply sought the cooperation of the school board in relocating the diamond to a more safe and sane location.

YOUR STORY failed to report the board's decision calling for the immediate establishment of safeguards to the hazards mentioned above and witnessed firsthand by board members touring the area, and their promise to do "something" if a proposed park district-school district land use merger (unfortunately, thecurrent excuse for inaction) fails to become a reality.

Finally, your story stated that the superintendent of schools "felt there was no undue noise or disturbance." It failed to report however, the views of several conscientious board members who gave up some of their personal relaxation time to come and view the matter firsthand —and then promptly set about surveying possible new locations for the troublesome and hazardous diamond.

All the homeowners have ever asked from the school board was a little Golden Rule consideration. Perhaps that's asking too much. Nevertheless, we ask for the same thng from the Enterprise.

New Homeowner Group Formed

We all have a healthy concern for our families, our property and our neighbors. To bring something tangible out of this concern, the residents of the Westview Subdivision of Addison have formed an association.

Incentives and "go-at-itness" are running high among the members. Results will not lack for trying. Sewer, street and lighting problems are of immediate concern to the members. Long range plans cover Village and County problems.

The world can be as good as we make it - but let's start with our own community. At any rate, the folks in Westview are going to try.

Urge Protest Of 'Bad' Tax

During the early part of June I wrote my state representatives and senator the following letter:

"This is a letter of protest. A protest against the individual personal property tax.

"I am protesting this tax, not because it's costing me money. I realize that the money is necessary to maintain the local governments.

"I AM protesting this tax because it encourages dishonesty and disrespect for the law. Consider this:

"1) The tax forms are not completely filled out, even when a tax official assists.

"2) The taxpayer is then asked to take an oath to swear to the accuracy and completeness of the tax return. (What better way to shatter a person's illusion of honesty?)

"3) Once the oath is sworn to, and as noted in point 1, above, the taxpayer is in jeopardy of legal action by the state for filing a fraudulent tax form and is subjected to a $5000 fine and a year imprisonment.

"4) After experiencing this self-inflicted moral debasement, and after placing himself in jeopardy of legal action from the state, how does the taxpayer reconcile his position with the neighbor who doesn't even get a tax form?

"THE ENFORCEMENT of this tax law in Cook county is notoriously poor. Admittedly it is difficult, but that does not excuse the lack of enforcement. What apparently is happening is that even the tax officials realize what a bad law this is and will settle for only a token payment.

"What this tax law does do is to provide the seed of distrust of the tax officials and disrespect for the law.

"As my representative, I would like you to tell me what course of action I must take to change this law."

I RECEIVED three replies to the four letters sent. I heard from and was encouraged by Rep. B. M. Peskin, who briefly summed up his view and his past action. I also heard from Senator W. R. Arrington, who apparently has been fighting this law for the last 10 years. And, I also heard from Rep. A. E. Simmons, who is also fighting this law.

While it is encouraging to hear from these state legislators and to hear what they are doing to fight this tax law, I cannot help but feel that they are not fighting as hard as they can or ought to. This is probably due to public apathy.

I believe that if they were to hear more from their constituents, to the point of being overwhelmed, then, and only then, will they do their utmost to enact legislation to amend this law that will also be acceptable to the public at large.

Vandals Hit Library Plants

It is hard to believe that there are young people living in our fine community who would stoop to pull out the flowers and plants in the two urns located near the front entrance of the library. But such has happened! What good did it do to pull out the plants and throw them into nearby shrubbery?

Shall the library board spend additional tax-payers money to replant these urns in order to beautify the library surroundings? Perhaps these young people will repeat what they have done!

IT IS A disgrace to our community to have such vandalism take place to a public building.

We have so many fine young people in our community who take advantage of the opportunity to increase their knowledge by using the facilities of the library and yet there are those who would destroy these advantages.

Housewife's Tale of Woe

Much has been said about the gangsters of Chicago; the "hold-up men"; pick-pockets, thieves of lesser or greater degree. I often wonder just what is being done about the millions of men and women who rob unsuspecting householders yearly through bad servicing of appliances, replacements that do not hold up; short-term guarantees where prohibitive price-tags are placed on appliances that are necessary and bought sometimes at great sacrifice.

And, sadly enough, by reputable dealers and supply houses.

ONE ALMOST wishes for the days of simplified living; minus the highly mechanized features that almost require a skilled mechanic to operate, and surely, one to adjust or repair.

Service calls are never just "service calls" any more. One must pay $6 for one half-hour, plus $1 each 15 minutes or fraction thereof . . . plus price of even the tiniest item to be replaced. There was a time when a flat charge was made for servicing; any small replacement under $1 was included. It seems ludicrous to see an item of 10 cents listed among others for 32, etc.!

And, the running in and out of the house, to and from the truck, to pick up these infinitesimal items; it seems that all these should be in some kind of box. Or, at least, the repair-man should anticipate to some measure, the replacements he requires when he has already been given such details over the telephone before his coming. I'd like to have $1 for every 15 minutes I have to run around trying to find some item!

WHAT IS happening to our little world of house-keeping? Is it getting to be a happy hunting ground for every service-man in town? Is everyone trying to make a "fast buck" as Bob Hope expresses it?

Will we housewives be forced to take courses in mechanics and electronics in order to operate our equipment at a minimum? Woe is me.

Issues Plea For Elm Aid

Your last edition, carrying the story of the Dutch Elm disease threat, was timely and appreciated. I was pleased to have the apathy on the part of the village board regarding a tree replacement program exposed.

My only criticism of your story was that it wasn't in bold type on the front page. I doubt if a village board has ever had a more serious problem before it, one that will affect the appearance of an entire community, to say nothing of property values, etc.

THE DISEASE is now on the rampage throughout the entire area, and the final outcome presents a sickening picture. We have had a spraying program in effect; however, the sanitation program has been abandoned with much work remaining. Large dead limbs can be observed in many sections of town.

I have been greatly disturbed, in several instances, where dead trees have stood for long periods prior to their removal. We have now been cleared of dead elms on E. Euclid, but we now have the problem of dead elms standing alongside the old cemetery just outside the village limits.

As an observer, it seems that the longer a dead tree stands the more trees are likely to die out in the immediate area. I feel we have fallen far short of anything even approaching a combat program.

PERHAPS WE can't prevent a great loss of our elm population, but it most certainly is within the realm of reality to have a sound tree replacement program.

It seems to me this is a simple moral civic responsibility.

We take the beauty of our area for granted, and I'm afraid we may be headed for a very sad awakening. The elms make up the greatest percentage of our tree population, and their value to our environment can't be measured.

I KNOW there would be many citizens thrilled to see your newspaper jolt the entire community into a sense of awareness and responsibility. I'm sure this is the only method that will bring about constructive action on the part of the village board. There is just so much at stake and the sooner we start a program, the easier it should be.

I'm not an organizer, nor a letter writer as you have learned by now. But I sincerely appeal to your newspaper to get things rolling.

A 'Christian' President?

I have waited a week to write this letter, hoping that Rev. Stumpf had somehow been mis-quoted and would himself rectify matters. Now it seems that we must take his statement as it stands.

To quote Rev. Stumpf in the Herald of July 14, "Certainly the President must be a Christian."

Our constitution guarantees that there shall be no religious test for candidates. This not only protects Catholics, Presbyterians, Baptists, etc., it also protects Jews, Buddhists, Atheists, etc. We are not a Christian state. We have no state religion.

HAD REV. Stumpf's standard been applied, we would have done without the services of Washington, Adams and Jefferson, who professed Deist or Unitarian views, and Lincoln, who never joined a church.

There seems to be a growing tendency to employ the word Christian as an adjective synonymous to good, true or virtuous. These qualities are present in many Christians, but as surely, they are also present in many sincere believers of other religions or of no religion.

I realize that this is an unpopular view. Very few people to whom I have spoken found anything objectionable in Rev. Stumpf's declaration, which is precisely why I felt I must write this dissenting statement.
